Life Futile, She Jumped Starvation in War
Why Lions Don't Eat Men
The 77th Generation.

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1929, King Features Synd., Inc.

A GIRL OF 18, well educated, handsome, hired an airplane and jumped to her death when 2000 feet up. Her farewell note says life is futile, to go on living is wrong, and asks, "What shall I find in death?"

Whatever she finds, the young lady on arrival should not go up in a plane and jump out. She found an interesting world, with great possibilities here, and should have stayed.

Had she married at 17, and had a baby at 18, she would still be here fussing about the baby.

Too much introspection, an unnatural life filled with vague theories, producing temporary insanity, are responsible for the sad tragedy.

We are here to work, help others around us, and make the world better for those that follow, as our predecessors made it better for us to do our duty and not ask fate questions.

Fate never answers; earnest work always answers satisfactorily.

President Hoover would prevent food blockades, thus ending the waging of war by starvation. Unlimited food would mean a longer war, more killed.

But killing only decimates and affects the living generation. Starvation injures generations unborn. Soldiers are fed, children go hungry.

Science shows that powerful nations today all descend from cannibals. Under cannibalism the children of strong men and women always had plenty of meat, while those too weak to catch and eat men starved, dwindled, died out.

Concerning a meat diet, Mr. Hagenbeck, owner of the world's greatest collection of wild animals, brings from Europe this news: Lions do not eat carnivorous animals, they only eat vegetarian antelopes, giraffes, etc.

They know, by the smell, that man is carnivorous and ignore him as not "good to eat."

If George Bernard Shaw, confirmed vegetarian, went to Africa, lions would get him.

This interests Swift, Armour, etc., seeking to discourage the "Eat less meat and more ice cream" foolishness.

Let those, proud of ancient lineage, consider China's most distinguished citizen, Kung Teh-Chen, 77th lineal descendant of Kung Fu-Tze, whom western barbarians call Confucius.

And consider Kung Teh-Chen's feelings, when told of a nationalist plan to confiscate ancestral estates of the Confucius family.

Since his death, about 2400 years ago, Confucius, who formulated the medicine rule fairly well before Christianity, has been revered by more human beings than any man that ever lived, not excepting the great Jautama, at whose birth the earth quaked, the sun, moon and stars stood still, the blind saw, the lame walked.

Poor Kung Teh-Chen may, amid his crumbling fortunes, quote the fine lines of his ancestor 77 times removed:

"The great mountain must crumble,
The strong trees must break,
The wise man must wither away like a plant."

How many of our American fortunes will exist, how many names be remembered, after 77 generations?

Confucius' descendants for centuries had constituted the only hereditary nobility in China, until Kung Teh-Chen recently voluntarily abandoned his title of duke in deference to China's new democracy.

Confucius' male descendants number 11,000. How many Chinese would there be had all been cared for as well as King Fu-Tse's children?

A craving for alcohol is not easily subdued. Attendants in public institutions have been known to drink alcohol used to preserve anatomical specimens in glass jars.

It is said that Nelson's body, brought to London in a casket of rum to preserve it, arrived in half condition, because sailors drank the rum.

At Onamia, Minn., three Indians drained and drank an antifreeze solution from a white's man's automobile. They died.

Europe believes that temperance is achieved by supplying mild, comparatively harmless drinks in abundance. . .

This country is experimenting with compressed water, which Germany contemptuously calls "goose drink."

Two or three generations of statistics will decide which is practical. . . . . .

300 STOCKS SINK TO NEW LOWS FOR YEAR

Total Sales of 7,761,000 Sets a Record for Abbreviated Three-Hour Session

New York, Nov. 13—The stock market closed near the bottom today after another storm of distress liquidation had carried scores of leading issues down $1 to $20 a share.

Total stock sales today of 7,761,650, including inactive issues, set a new high record for an abbreviated three-hour session of the New York Stock Exchange. This compares with total sales of 6,452,700 shres yesterday and 3,567,150 shares on Monday.

The previous high record for a three-hour session was 7,184,060 shares on Nov. 7.

More than 300 stocks, including American Can, U. S. Steel common, General Electric, International Telephone, Sears Roebuck, Union Pacific, Baltimore & Ohio and Southern Pacific, sank to new low levels for the year. Today's closing prices, in many cases, represented only a fraction of the year's high levels, several of which were established as recently as September.

Detroit Edison and Laclede Gas each broke $20 a share. American Machine & Foundry $16.50 and Michigan Steel, Southern Railway, Chile Copper, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, American Can, St. Louis Southwestern, Norfolk & Western

Paralyzed Boy Is Laid, Helpless, on Shrine Tomb

100 PRIESTS AND NUNS ATTEND MASS NEAR 'MIRACLE TOMB'

In the presence of 100 priests and many nuns, mass was celebrated today at Holy Cross Cemetery, Malden, as another miracle cure was declared to be taking place outside the chapel at the grave of the Rev. Patrick Power.

More than 50,000 persons were estimated to have visited the priest's shrine up to that hour today and indications were that the throngs would exceed last Sunday's mark of 100,000.

So rapidly did the pilgrims pour into the cemetery, by automobile, bus, private ambulance and trolley car, that it became necessary to open the Linden st. gate for the first time and to ask police aid from Everett and the state patrol.

Police formed two lines of supplicants from the miracle grave to the Broadway gate and then down Broadway, and from the grave to the Linden st. gate and down Linden st.

A number of women fainted when Harold Sheehan, seven, of Neponset st., Dorchester, during the time the mass was being celebrated in All Souls Chapel, rose from the tablet on the grave, handed his crutches to his mother, Mrs. Harry Sheehan, and hobbled out to the family automobile.

The boy, paralyzed for three years as the aftermath of infantile paralysis, had been unable to walk in all that time, according to his parents. As he walked haltingly back to the car, the thousands were silent.

A short time before, Francis Vayda, 5 son of Mr. and Mrs. Clement Vayda of Natick, was carried into the cemetery by his father. The boy has been paralyzed since birth.

FROM DISTANT POINTS

The father laid his boy down on the slab and father and mother prayed over him. Then they lifted him to his feet and asked him if he could stand. He nodded and they released their supporting holds. The boy walked, falteringly at first and then stronger, back to their car.

The next reported sure was that of Santos Cerranova, three, of High st., South Boston, whose legs had been paralyzed for 18 months. The baby walked after a visit to the shrine.

Fred Hopanuk, eight, of Belmont st., Somerville, who had been unable to raise his right arm for years, experienced similar relief. After praying at Fr. Power's grave, the boy lifted his arm high over his head several times.

During the mass the little chapel was jammed to the doors and the thousands who could not get in crowded around the church, although unable to hear or see what was going on inside. The crowds included many persons from other states, one woman declaring she had come from Toledo, O., solely to visit the shrine.

She was Mrs. Mary E. Durand of Baker rd., Toledo, and she was accompanied to the cemetery by her husband, Joseph, in an endeavor to cure a leg ailment incurred as the result of shock several years ago.

The newest outpouring bade fair to surpass any week-day pilgrimage since the cures were first reported.

In the procession that wound unendingly through the aisles of the cemetery, were the blind, led by hopeful friends or relatives, and the crippled, assisted in their pilgrimage for relief from affliction.

At no time during the night was the cemetery deserted. At midnight a crowd approximating 1000 persons was grouped about the shrine, many kneeling on the damp turf beside the tomb, deep in prayer.

The visit of Cardinal O'Connell

Chelsea Child Offers Proof of 'Cure' at Shrine

SMILING happily, Madeline McFarland, 10, of High st., Chelsea, who was relieved of a hip ailment Monday at the grave of Rev. Patrick Power, visited Malden cemetery today.

She carried with her an affidavit from her family physician, Dr. John G. McPhail of Arlington, and this she handed over to Asst. Supt. Joseph Walsh of the cemetery.

The affidavit certified that the hip ailment from which the girl suffered had entirely disappeared.

Still smiling, the little girl departed again.

TWO STUDENTS AT N. H. U. HELD

Manchester, N. H., Nov. 13 (AP)—Edward S. Whitney, 22, of Wildwood ave., Worcester, and Benjamin T. Bartlett, 21, of Derry, students at the University of New Hampshire, were held in $500 each today for the grand jury when arraigned on charges of breaking and entering with intent to steal.

The youths were arrested last night when, according to police, they were found attempting to enter the hardware store of L. & W. T. Sellerhoff of this city.

According to the police, the young men are also wanted in Dover for larceny of tires from a garage and in Taunton, Mass., for larceny of an automobile.

Indict 12 in Boston White Slave Plot

Two indictments charging conspiracy to violate the Mann Act, were handed down by the federal grand jury today against 12 persons, one of them Samuel Rensein, whose slaying in Hotel Huntington resulted in the federal white slave inquiry.

The first indictment named Morris Schwartz, Ross Nestant, Morris Stein, Ida Stein, Louis Stein, Anna Stein, Paul Levine alias Rich, Joseph Levine, Jean Delfino alias Parker, all of Boston; Harry Magas of Easton, Pa., and Elizabeth Martin of Pottsville, Pa.

They were charged with conspiracy to transport from Easton and other places, women and girls for immoral purposes.

In pursuance of the conspiracy it was charged that Elizabeth Martin, on Dec. 1, 1928, met and conversed with Morris Schwartz at Easton. On June 25, 1929 Harry Malaga was looked upon by many as a significant tribute from a prince of the Roman Catholic Church to a young, unknown and unsung while he lived.

SILENT ABOUT CURES

After visiting the grave and gazing on the long lines of the devout passing the grave, and the afflicted pausing to pray for Divine help, the Cardinal went to the cemetery offices, where he conferred with his brother, Edward J. O'Connell, the superintendent.

It was later reported that plans for the construction of a building to house the shrine had been under discussion, but this could not be verified from either officials of the church or those in charge of the cemetery.

Later in the day workman arrived at the shrine and took elaborate measurements.

Eight partial cures were reported among the 25,000 persons who swarmed through the ceretery during the day.

ABANDONS CRUTCHES

Among those who said they received partial cures was Morris Goldstein, 14, of Balsam st., Dorchester. The youth, who said he had not walked for eight years without aid of crutches, swung up to the shrine on them and prayed at the mound for some time. Then, putting his crutches aside, the boy tottered around the grave without assistance. He then walked to All Souls' Chapel, where he left the crutches.

Eugene Reynolds, Jr., three, of Wood ave., Mattapan, a sufferer from infantile paralysis for two years and without the use of his legs was brought to the grave by his uncle. After the pair had gone to the shrine the uncle removed one of the braces and the child was able to walk a short distance.

Miss Alice DesRosiers, 23, of Manchester, N. H., was among those who reported improvement in her condition. She had suffered from paralysis the past few years, but after she visited the shrine she said she was much improved.

ABLE TO WALK

Rita Chollette, seven, of West Mitchell st., a cripple at birth, who never walked or used her left arm, today can use both her legs and arm. Mr. and Mrs. Cleophas Chollette, her parents, carried the child to Fr. Power's grave Sunday. Soon after she had been annointed with water from the monument, she walked.

Ayres Gonsalves, five, of Lakeview ave., Woburn, was brought to the shrine by his father, Joseph Gonsalves. The father said the boy had not been able to stand up heretofore and had not been able to hold anything in his hands. Following their visit to the resting place of Fr. Power, the boy was able to stand and when given stones from the earth on the grave the lad was able to hold them.

Thomas Madden, 12, of Curtis st., Providence, was another reported as somewhat improved and able to walk slightly.

ALL HAVE FAITH

There were pathetic scenes at the shrine. A little boy, his legs helpless through paralysis, would be carried to the shrine by a loving mother. A little girl with withered arm would be brought to the shrine in the hope that some cure or relief might be gained through intercession and prayer. Occasionally a little boy or girl, or perhaps a man or woman would be led by the hand to the shrine in the hope that blindness might be cured.

Among those who visited the tomb were several nuns from various hospitals and schools, from various hospitals and schools. As they reached the shine they knelt on the earth and offered prayer. Beyond the throng that lined all four sides of the grave numerous men and women knelt on the ground to offer prayers of solicitation or of thanksgiving.

The cemetery remained open all night because of numerous persons coming from long distances who wanted to pray at the shrine or in All Souls' Chapel. Hundreds of persons remained inside the cemetery all night long, many of them alternately praying at the chrine or in the chapel. Most of them, it appeared, had kept the long vigil to intercede for some relative or parent.

Tests Prove Cures at Lourdes Authentic

Many of the cures reported from the shrine at Lourdes have been found authentic by physicians, a high official of the Catholic church said today at the Calvert Round Table conference in Fogg Museum, Harvard.

The statement was made in connection with a discussion of cures purported to have been made at the grave of the Rev. Patrick J. Power in Holy Cross Cemetery, Malden.

In this connection the official, whose name together with all other speakers is withheld at the request of the Round Table sponsors, said the Catholic church will take no official stand at present on the Malden case.

He said that priests may comment individually on the alleged cures, but not officially.

Other speakers maintained that the cures were a manifestation of mass psychology, of mind acting over matter, but all agreed they involved no reflection on the church.

One speaker said the tragedy lies in the fact that none of the cures proves permanent, and that the resultant slump leaves the victim worse off than ever.

This statement was replied to by the church official in pointing to cures at Lourdes, which he said had been proved to be authentic and not superstition.

Other speakers denied that Catholics preach a monopoly on salvation, declaring the attitude of the church is that any person who leads a good life is eligible to Heaven.

Another topic discussed was schools, charges of narrowness on the part of parochial schools and the use of Protestant propaganda in public schools, being denied. Jewish speakers pointed out that Christmas is taught in the public schools, in contravention of the tenets of their faith.

A number of concrete suggestions for the elimination of intolerance were made. One was that the ministerial associations include Catholics and Jews in their organizations. Another that reading lists be compiled by representatives of different religions for general distribution.

Other suggestions were neighborhood forums, union Thanksgiving services, getting together of religious leaders, college or public lecture courses on the great religions of the world, and that organizations like the Boy Scouts be made non-sectarian.

transported the defendant Elizabeth Martin to Boston from Eutztown, Pa., according to the indictment. On July 1, 1929, Malaga is charged with having turned the defendant Elizabeth Martin over to Morris Schwartz in Boston.

The second indictment, named Louis Stein, Anna Stein and Samuel Reinstein, as having conspired on or about June 1, 1929, to transport to Boston women and girls for immoral purposes. It was charged that Stein met and talked with Reinstein in New York on July 1, 1929, and that in pursuance of the conspiracy Reinstein on July 12 furnished transportation for Margaret Wheeler from New York to Boston for immoral purposes.

All the living defendants have been arrested and are at liberty under bail. No announcement as to date of trial was made, but indications pointed to it as being some distance away.

75 Maine Prisoners on Hunger Strike

Portland, Me., Nov. 13—Seventy-five prisoners in the Cumberland County Jail here went on a hunger strike today because of their number, George L. "Ginna" Loring, was confined in solitary.

Loring was given solitary confinement yesterday for an infraction of the rules. This morning, when the prisoners sat down to breakfast, they demanded he be released. Hassett refused and the prisoners pushed away their breakfasts, declaring they would not eat until Loring joined them. They also refused dinner.

to remain in the public service. However, the minister to Canada explained that he desired to leave office after many years of service in order to rear his family in the United States.

Mr Phillips was appointed as the first American minister to Canada nearly three years ago, having relinquished the ambassadorship to Belgium to take up the important post at Ottawa, which, however entailed a reduction in his diplomatic rank.

Before going to Belgium, Mr Phillips was under secretary of state. He began his diplomatic career in 1903 as secretary to J. H. Choate, then ambassador to Great Britain. After two years he was transferred to Peking as second secretary of legation.

Successively he served as assistant to the third assistant secretary of state in charge of Far Eastern affairs, chief of the division of such affairs and third assistant secretary of state.

In 1912 he retired, but was recalled to the service by President Wilson in 1914 and in 1917 was made assistant secretary of state.

He later was minister to The Netherlands and President Harding made him under secretary of state, in which post he served until sent to Belgium in 1924 by President Coolidge.

Mr Phillips is a native of Wenham and makes his home in Boston. He is a graduate of Harvard, class of 1900.

WALSH UPHELD BY SENATE'S TARIFF VOTE

Ballot Is 48 to 30 to Keep Shingles Free From 25 Per Cent Rate

Washington, Nov. 13 (AP)—Retention of shingles on the free list was voted 48 to 30 today by the Senate, sustaining the recommendation of its finance committee. The House had proposed a 25 per cent duty.

A vigorous contest was waged by members from the Pacific northwest to obtain a duty on the product.

Opposing a tariff, Senator Walsh, Democrat, Massachusetts, contended the "real issue" was whether there was difference in quality of the Canadian and domestic shingle, adding that "those who handle" the Canadian product have been "better selling agents."

"There is no evidence anywhere," he said, "to justify a tariff of $1 a thousand shingles, which is what a duty of 25 per cent amounts to."

CAUSES OF DEPRESSION

Walsh was a member of the finance sub-committee that held hearings on the wood schedule. He attributed depression in the industry on the Pacific Coast to exhaustion of the supply of timber near the smaller mills, a declining market for low-grade shingles, passage of anti-wooden shingle ordinances by municipalities, and a general fire prevention legislation.

He argued that the tendency to use substitutes had resulted in increasing use of Canadian shingles as well as the American product.

Senator Nye of North Dakota said the closing down of shingle mills in the Northwest was due as a decreasing demand for the type of shingle introduced in Washington and Oregon and depression on the American farm.

CITES HIGH SALARIES

Another reason, Nye said, was shown in tariff commission findings that production costs in Washington and Oregon were lower than those in British Columbia.

Nye said he was "struck by the fact" that almost all of the Washington mills had been losing money, attributing this in part to salaries paid officers, asserting that in one instance they amounted to 13 per cent. of wages paid workmen.

Ledgers of Fr. Power Give Inkling of Life

By THOMAS F. PHELAN

Worcester, Nov. 13—"God works in a mysterious way His wonders to perform."

This was the cryptic reply of Edmund J. Power of Grafton st. to a question as to his opinion of the reported cures at the grave of his uncle, Rev. Patrick J. Power, in Holy Cross Cemetery, Malden.

Power, 76 years old, is employed as chemist in a local drugstore.

Referring to the fact that his uncle had lain almost forgotten for 60 years in his grave until reported cures brought the blind, lame and halt and the curious by the thousands there, Power shook his head and described the dead priest's reverence in life for the Blessed Virgin Mary.

"Father Power, my uncle, who was born on the Feast of the Immaculate Conception, which falls on December 8, and died on that date, had great faith in the Blessed Mother," said Power.

"I cannot account for the cures at his grave in Holy Cross Cemetery, 'God works in a mysterious way His wonders to perform.'"

Power read in the Boston papers of the cures said to have been affected at the grave of his uncle.

He read the appeal of the Rev. Fr. Walsh, pastor of St. Joseph's Church, Malden, for information on the history of the dead priest. He wrote to Father Walsh all the information he had. Power formerly lived in Hampshire st. Cambridge.

"In looking over the effects of Father Power at my home I found two big ledgers in which he had written the lectures he attended during his training for the priesthood," said Power.

"These lectures are written in French. His intent, no doubt in saving them, was to familiarize himself with them and from time to time to refresh his memory.

"He was methodical and bound the lectures in book form. He had his name printed on the covers, and referred to the studies in the front pages of the two books.

"There are upwards of 200 sheets containing lectures on such subjects as geology, botany, philosophy, psychology—all written in his own handwriting in French, which he spoke fluently.

"On some of the sheets are pen and ink sketches of planets, different stars, astronomical pictures, indicating types of moons and solar systems, crosses of the type which adorn Roman Catholic churches, stockades and outlines of vials and receptacles used in the study of chemistry.

"The other ledger is similar to a scrap book and contains references to events. He wrote on several pages of this book incidents connected with his college life. The leaves are decorated with wild flowers, three-leaved clovers and plants, showing his interest in botany.

STUDIED AT LAVAL

"Reference is made to his studies at Laval University, Quebec. On the outside of one ledger is this inscription in French:

"'Cours Complet de Philosophic Naturalle,' meaning in English, 'Complete Course of Natural Philosophy.'

"Also written in the back of the book is another is the date and birth of Fr. Power, showing that he died on the Feast of the Immaculate Conception, December 8, 1863.

"Beneath is written in pen and ink the copy of the notice of his death and burial with a high mass of requiem in the Church of the Holy Redeemer, East Boston, which appeared in an issue of the Boston Pilot. The date of this notice, as it appeared in the Pilot, was either December 11, 12 or 13.

"The Boston Pilot in that day was conducted by Patrick A. Collins of Boston. The latter's wife was an aunt or cousin of Fr. Power and sang at his mass of requiem in the Church of the Most Holy Redeemer."

G. O. P. SPLIT ON TARIFF IS TOLD BY LEADERS

Opposing Views of Regulars and Insurgents Explained by Reed and Norris

The Republican party has divided into two bitter factions in the Senate over economic problems, arising out of consideration of the new tariff bill. The breach has caused serious alarm among many party leaders, who fear the division may be carried to the presidential election of 1930, with as disastrous effects to the Republican party as the split of 1912. The views of the opposing leaders are given in the following articles:

By SENATOR DAVID A. REED, Leader of the "Old Guard" Republicans.

The position of the so-called regular Republicans, as I interpret it, is that all Americans are equal, whether they be Easterners or Westerners, whether they be farmers or factory workers. The Senators, who call themselves Progressives, seem to have approached the tariff question as if the Middle West was at war with the East. I decline to admit that.

I believe it to be my duty to vote for every sound measure that will increase the prosperity of the great farm states, and I intend to follow that policy whatever may be the attitude of the Senators from those states toward the industries of the East. I will decline to war against the Middle West, but I will fight to the last ditch against any attempt by Senators from that region to break down the prosperity of the industrial regions of Eastern states.

To put it in a nutshell, I want to see the less prosperous industries of the East and the less prosperous agriculturists of the West brought up to a level with the most prosperous. Our adversaries seem to want to pull down the more prosperous to a common level of misery.

The remedy is for all of us to remember that we represent the whole nation—that we are not here as advocates of isolated states.

By SENATOR GEORGE W. NORRIS,

Leader of the "Insurgent" Republicans.

The Western agriculturists are demanding that the Republican party fulfill the pledge made to agriculture at the last party platform at Kansas City and in the speeches made by its candidate for President, Herbert Hoover.

This promise was that Congress and the President would put agriculture on the same economic basis enjoyed by the manufacturers of the East. The Western representatives demand that this promise be kept.

The West cannot continue to exist under an economic standard which forces it to buy in a highly protected market and to sell in a market dominated by world prices.

The Eastern representatives, or at least many of them, are refusing to keep the promise made by the Republican party at Kansas City. This has constituted the so-called breach.

The only remedy is that the representatives of the manufacturing East should fairly and honestly redeem this pledge.

ton, were counted today and added into today's total gain.

As a result of today's recount, the mayor-elect's plurality over Frederick W. Mansfield was increased from the original count of 19,817 to 19,853.

Spectacular gains in Mansfield's East Boston stronghold materialized as predicted by Mr. Curley's representatives at the recount.

In precinct 7, Mr. Curley gained 193 votes. In Precinct 6 he gained 90. The remaining 53 votes were scattered.

Of the 339 precincts, 83 had been counted, less than a sixth. On the basis of this speed, it was estimated that at least 10 and possibly 12 days would be required to complete the recount.

Curley checkers were optimistic as the ballots were tabulated and predicted a Curley plurality of at least 20,000 when the count was ended. They forecast similar large gains when the West Roxbury vote was reached.

In the school committee recount Dr. Charles E. Mackey of South Boston gained 100 votes in one precinct, making a net gain of 124 and cutting-down William A. Reilly's plurality to 541.

4 MEN HUNTED IN VEVRMONT

Rutland, Vt., Nov. 13 (AP)—Federal and state police today continued their search for four prisoners, all Canadians, who escaped from the local police station where they were awaiting trial for illegal entry into this country.

They are Joseph Nelson, 22; Romeo Tolces, 21; Albert DesMarais, 19, and Albert Goyer, 20. Goyer was arrested in Boston and the others in Vermont.

The four were in a group of federal prisoners brought here for trial. Because of the overcrowded condition at the county jail they were taken to the police station. After nightfall they pried the bars of their ground-floor cell window with a table leg.

Princess Stricken as She Faces Poverty

Bonn, Prussia, Nov. 13 (AP)—Frau Alexander Zubkoff, 63, who was Princess Victoria von Prussie, sister of the former German Emperor Wilhelm and favorite grandchild of Queen Victoria of Great Britain, died today in St. Fraucius Hospital after one of the strangest romances in the records of European royalty.

Death came while she slept, at 7:30 a. m., and followed a brief illness that began last week shortly after her husband, Alexander Zubkoff, Russian adventurer, who was 24 years her junior, was served with divorce papers.

The princess entered the hospital last Thursday, suffering from inflammation of the lungs.

Princess Marguerite, her sister, and the latter's husband, Prince Frederic Charles, came to Bonn, but the doctors forbade visitors. Princess Marguerite hurried to the bedside early today in response to a telephone call, but did not see her sister alive. The body will be taken to Princess Marguerite's castle, in Cronsberg, for burial.

GAVE UP ROYAL RIGHTS.

Frau Zubkoff, when she married last in 1927, renounced her rights as princess and accepted estrangement from her family.

Although her fatal illness came upon her only a few days ago, the last months in the life of the princess were far from happy, spent in most modest quarters here in loneliness, poverty and disillusionment.

Last month she was forced to auction off heirlooms of great value to pay the debts of her adventurer husband, but she succeeded in raising only a small amount. Bankruptcy proceedings previously had been instituted against her when she failed to meet obligations contracted by Zubkoff. At one time she was wealthy in her own name.

WIDOWED IN 1916

By her first marriage the former princess was Princess of Schaumburg Lippe, wife of Prince Adolphe of that house. He died in 1916, and for years she lived side by side with other members of the Hohenzollern and Schaumburg Lippe families. All suffered reverses as result of the war, but their lot was exalted compared to that which awaited Victoria.

In 1927 she met Zubkoff, 29 years old, who was said to have represented himself to her as a Russian emigre of good family, but was believed really to have been the son of a cobbler, and to have worked as waiter in a Paris dance hall.

The princess, then 61 years old, and he were married despite the opposition of the former Kaiser, and others of her family, who forced her to renounce her royal standing before she went ahead with her latter-life romance.

DESERTED BY YOUTH

No sooner had they been married at Boan than young Zubkoff began to attract attention with escapades in public houses, affairs with other women, and numerous tilts with the authorities over such matters as bad checks.

Zubkoff finally was expelled from Germany and then from Belgium, and at various times later had trouble finding agreeable residence in several countries of Europe. His wife for a while remained attached to him, but finally she left him, and when he reappeared in Germany a few days ago served him with divorce papers.

"Vicky," as she was called, was the favorite grandchild of Queen Victoria, for whom she was named. The British Queen willed her the greater part of a jewel collection which she had spent years in bringing together. She recently was said to have sold most of these jewels to meet Zubkoff's debts.

According to talk in former court circles, the latest method of Zubkoff to extort money was a threat to write a movie scenario in which the courtship, marriage and relationship of the two would be depicted in an objectionable manner.

AUCTION FINAL BLOW.

Friends said the final blow to the former princess was the public auction of her possessions at the palace at Bonn to pay her and her husband's creditors. The humiliation of seeing her prized belongings sold to collectors and curiosity seekers was said to have preyed on her mind.

For several months the princess had lived entirely secluded, without even a maid to attend her. Lately she had been dependent on allowances granted her by the bankruptcy court and her sister, the Princess Von Hesse. Her divorce suit against Zubkoff, who is believed now to be in Luxemburg, was to have been heard November 22.

Victoria contracted a chill while taking her customary lonely walk November 3. She refused to see a doctor at first, but when finally one was called in he found her condition serious, with acute inflammation of the lungs.

Mellon in Secret White House Call

Washington, Nov. 13 (AP)—An early morning visit was made to the White House today by Secretary Mellon, Under Secretary Mills and a third person believed to be Governor Young of the Federal Reserve Board.

The three went to President Hoover's private, office by the rear door of the executive offices, the entrance customary used by Secretary Mellon. Governor Young declined to say whether he was in the party. No comment was forthcoming as to the nature of the call.

Policemen's Row Leads to Charges

New Bedford, Nov. 13—After questioning Mrs. Rose T. Fortier, mother of a four-months-old child, Police Chief Samuel McLeod today announced he would prefer serious charges against Patrolmen Victor Belisle and Charles Martin.

The chief will present the charges to Mayor Ashley and a public hearing will be held tomorrow, he said. The charges are said to be the outgrowth of a row between the patrolmen at Mrs. Fortier's home last week.

Population of Cook County 3,950,000

Chicago, Nov. 13 (AP)—Cook County will start the year 1930 with a population of 3,950,000, the Chicago Regional Planning Association has estimated. Of this number 3,320,000 will live in the city of Chicago.

The estimated population of the Chicago area—including the city's industrial hinterland in 15 nearby counties of three states—was fixed at 5,043,000.

Kellogg Off for Europe

New York, Nov. 13 (INS)—Former Secretary of State Frank B. Kellogg, accompanied by Mrs. Kellogg, sailed today for Europe on the Aquitania.

War Secretary Good Is Near Death

Washington, Nov. 13 (AP)—Secretary of War Good underwent a difficult operation for gangrenous perforating appendicitis at Walter Reed Hospital today and his condition was described as extremely serious.

The operation lasted more than an hour.

Surgeons on the Walter Reed staff performed the operation, which was determined upon after the war secretary was stricken suddenly last night.

The surgeons found the appendix in an exceptionally dangerous condition, situated very low in the pelvis, making the operation unusually difficult.

The information regarding Sec. Good's condition was made public at the White House where secretaries of President Hoover kept in constant communication with Walter Reed, the army hospital, so that the President could be apprised of any turn in the situation.

Secretary Good is 62 years old. He had not been in the best of health recently, but his friends were surprised to learn of the sudden attack.

JOIN RED CROSS, HOOVER'S PLEA

Washington, Nov. 13 (INS)—President Hoover today urged universal membership in the American Red Cross during the annual roll call which opened Armistice Day and will close Thanksgiving Day.

"Both as President of the United States and as President of the American Red Cross, I earnestly bespeak the co-operation of every American citizen in the great humanitarian work of the Red Cross," he said.

"Its prompt efficiency in time of disaster, and its continuing service in numerous less spectacular but no less important tasks of relief, make it an indispensable part of our national life. Every American should be a member, and I urge all to enroll."

Roxbury Pastor Gets Stamford Rectorship

Stamford, Ct., Nov. 13 (AP)—The Rev. Kenneth Ripley Forbes of St. James' Church, Roxbury, Mass., has been elected rector of St. Andrew's Episcopal Church here, to succeed the Rev. Harley W. Smith, resigned.

A native of Newton Center, Mass., the new rector was a member of the class of 1900, Brown University, and received his degree of bachelor of divinity at the Episcopal Theological school, Cambridge, Mass.

Given Life Term for Theft of Shoes

Columbus, Kan., Nov. 13—Charged with the theft of 22 pairs of shoes from a box car, Norman Bonjiri, 39, of Joplin, Mo., pleaded guilty in District Court and was sentenced to a life term in the state penitentiary under the habitual criminal act.

Bonner previously had served two terms in the Missouri penitentiary and one term in the Kansas prison.

TO PROBE BANK FIRM CRASH

New York, Nov. 13 (AP)—The Federal grand jury will investigate the activities of the Bankers' Capital Corporation, petitioned into bankruptcy in Massachusetts, U. S. Attorney Charles H. Tuttle said today.

Subpoenas have been issued, Mr. Tuttle said, for the purpose of bringing before the grand jury all available data concerning the corporation and twelve allied enterprises with a view to determine whether the mail laws had been violated.

"This proposition involved one of the most widespread and extended schemes that the federal attorney's office had to deal with," Tuttle asserted, adding that his office had received many complaints, among them communications from counsel for prominent people who are said to have lost money through the corporation.

After starting an investigation of the corporation, George J. Mintzer, assistant United States attorney, said that the Bankers' Capital Corporation was the chief of a chain of 13 corporations, each of which sold its stock to the others at inflated prices.

Authorities said the corporation collapsed with debts aggregating a million dollars.

50 Tunney Love Suit Witnesses Testify

Fort Worth, Tex., Nov. 13 (INS)—Witnesses for Gene Tunney today continued their attempts to refute John S. Fogarty's allegation that the retired heavyweight ring champion alienated the affections of Mrs. Catherine King Fogarty.

Mrs. Fogarty's former husband, in seeking $500,000 damages from the former fighter, alleges that Tunney and Mrs. Fogarty lived in the same house here in 1926, after the Fogartys had been divorced. It is understood the defense contends there was no alienation.

The witnesses are giving their depositions at a private hearing in the offices of Dist. Judge Dudley M. Kent. Newspaper men are not allowed at the hearing and attorneys for the defense and prosecution are reluctant to comment on proceedings.

Depositions taken here will be read into the record as evidence when actual trial of the suit gets under way at Bridgeport, Ct., where the case was filed several months ago. Nearly 50 depositions are to be taken here.

Records show that the Fogartys were married on June 19, 1919, separated Jan. 1, 1925, and that suit for divorce was filed in April, 1925. A decree was granted a month later. Mrs. Fogarty in suing for divorce alleged cruelty.

4 N. E. Methodist Bishops Assigned

San Francisco, Nov. 13 (AP)—Assignment of bishops to various church conferences throughout the country and the world was announced here today by the board of bishops of the Methodist Episcopal church. The officials were designated to attend 41 conferences in the United States and 37 in other countries.

Among assignments made public were the following:

Bishop W. J. McConnell, East German conference, Lawrence, Mass., date not set; Bishop Herbert Welch, Maine Conference, Gardiner, Maine, April 23; Bishop W. F. McDowell, New England conference, Epworth church, Cambridge, April 2; Bishop F. D. Lette, New England southern conference, New London, Conn., April 9; Bishop E. L. Badley, New Hampshire conference, Derry, N. H., April 23.

Has to Pay Tax on Mother-in-Law's Loss

Washington, Nov. 13 (AP)—If one promises to reimburse his mother-in-law for losses in securities purchased, and if the mother-in-law does lose and the son-in-law makes good, the son-in-law has to pay a federal income tax on the amount of the reimbursement just the same.

This was the ruling today of the board of tax appeals in reviewing a deduction of $3737 claimed by Senator Goldsborough of Maryland who in 1922 said he had entered into to such an agreement with his mother-in-law, Mrs. M. M. Showell, and that she had lost that amount.

The decision increased the senator's tax by $944.09.

R. I. Troopers Seize Two Liquor Trucks

Providence, Nov. 13 (AP)—A specially constructed false body truck, containing 32 cases of whiskey, was seized by Rhode Island mounted police near Ashaway, R. I., last night. This morning Alphonse Coppollo, 28, of 85 Mill st., New Haven, and John Bazzili, 20, of 1202 Columbia ave., Springfield, were turned over to the federal authorities here charged with illegal transportation.

Troopers in Esmond arrested Joseph Andia of 201 Farnham ave., Brighton, N. Y., charging him with transporting 12 cases of gin.

Tardieu Wins Vote on Budget, 317 to 257

Paris, Nov. 13 (AP)—The Chamber of Deputies for the third time again voted confidence in the new government of Premier Tardieu today. The vote was 317 to 257 on the first division during consideration of the national budget.

A Socialist deputy moved the first chapter of the budget be sent back to the finance commission. The premier opposed this and made it a question of confidence.

Life Futile, Wrote Girl Who Leaped From Plane

Ruth Rockwell, 18, Philadelphia schoolgirl, left this suicide note, written just before she leaped from the airplane which she had engaged for $5 at Curtiss Field, Long Island, to take her for a ride. At a height of 1500 feet she motioned the pilot, Edward F. Booth, to go higher. When he reached 2000 feet he felt the plane lurch and turned to see his passenger hurtling through space. Miss Rockwell is believed to be the first person in the world deliberately to select an airplane as a means of suicide. (International Newsreel photo.)

CLASH AT GAS RATE HEARING

Counsel contesting the 80-cent service charge and new schedule of rates approved by the Public Utility Commission for the Boston Consolidated Gas Company clashed at the resumption of hearings today before the commission over testimony to be offered by former Governor Alvan T. Fuller.

Atty. Samuel Silverman of Boston had read into the record the telegram from the ex-Governor, who is now on the high seas, expressing a desire to be heard.

Wyeliffe C. Marshall, representing consumers, announced that "if the former governor does not come voluntarily I am going to ask that he be summoned."

Marshall then asked that his motion, including the New England Rail & Transportation Company and the New England Coal & Coke Company in the proceedings, be allowed.

Robert H. Holt, counsel for the gas company, opposed the motion. He said the only company over which the commission has jurisdiction is the Boston Consolidated Gas Company.

Marshall disagreed saying the commission had investigation rights under the laws governing voluntary associations.

At this juncture, Commissioner Lewis Goldberg stated that he questioned whether the commission could make the other companies parti-defendents. The commission took the matter under advisement.

Exhibiting a bill from a Brighton customer, dated October 9, Marshall charged the gas company had included the 80 cent service charge, in spite of the fact that the meter reading was made on September 7.

Taking cognizance of this exhibit, Atty. Silverman contended that it was evident that the gas company has included the service charge in September consumption although the commission's order set October 1 as the date the new schedule would be effective.

Germany to Vote Dec. 22

Berlin, Nov. 13 (INS)—The date for the nation-wide referendum on the question of whether or not Germany should sign the Young plan today was tentatively set for Dec. 22.

EX-CADET HITS COLLEGE BAN ON MARRIAGE

This is the second in a series of articles being written for the New York Journal by Paul Capron, Jr., ex-West Point cadet, after wedding a colonel's daughter. Capron spent his honeymoon in West Newbury.

By PAUL CAPRON, JR.

West Point is not the only place where student marriage is discouraged. A Yale student, Frederick Sanford Shaw, found himself in trouble as a result of his recent marriage to Mildred Meehan. Just why the authorities at a university should concern themselves with student marriage is not clear.

I have known graduate students at Harvard who were married and who went to classes and did their work very successfully. Being married seemed to provide them with an incentive for doing better work. Eddie Dooley went to Dartmouth and played football after he was married. I don't know anything about his scholastic record, but it was at least good enough to allow him to play football. Certainly his marriage did not hurt his football, as anyone who saw him play during his last season will recall.

FROWN ON MARRIAGES.

In a college a man has certain definite work to do, and his manner of doing it need concern no one but himself. All the students need not live together. They are not all doing the same things. The college is not trying to set its stamp on every man. It is not trying to train all of its graduates to follow the same procession. College men are developing as individuals.

Perhaps some of the objection to student marriage at Yale is due to a feeling that the presence of married men among the students might be bad for their morale. I can see no grounds for such a feeling. A young man married is far more likely to be a responsible person than a young man single.

Yale is a conservative university. Youthful marriages, particularly elopements, are unconventional and, therefore, in the eyes of the college authorities, dangerous.

But why shouldn't young people marry if they think they will be happy together? The usual argument against youthful marriage is that people change a great deal between the ages of 20 and 30. No doubt that is true, but I think that it is an argument in favor of marriage, not against it.

WATCH OVER STUDENTS.

However, Yale authorities apparently feel some parental responsibility for their students. They think that some guidance is necessary.

At Harvard some attempt is made to watch over freshmen. All freshmen are required to live in college dormitories except those who live at home. There are the so-called "baby deans," whose job is to watch the records of freshmen and check them up if they show signs of faltering.

Yale makes some attempt to regulate the lives of its undergraduates.

CADET IS A "SOLDIER."

The greatest reason for discouraging student marriages is, I think, that most universities, particularly the more conservative ones, fear the kind of publicity such marriages are likely to bring. People read of a student elopement and think, "Oh, these wild college boys." The deans don't like that. But if a married man should apply to enter Yale he would probably get in. I think the deans object to marrying, not marriage.

At West Point the situation is different. It is marriage and not marrying that is discouraged.

West Point is not a college with military trimmings. A cadet is first of all a soldier. He lives under the Articles of War and he is responsible to his superior officers for everything he does. He is being trained for a definite purpose, and his training requires all of his time. His every action is ordered to fit in with his training.

He moves at the call of a bugle. He dresses according to flags hung outside his windows. Under such a system, if the cadet is married he must live apart from his wife, and this is not true marriage.

I can see no reason why a college student should not be married. In fact, I can see several reasons why he should be married if he wants to be. There is nothing to prevent him from living happily with his wife and carrying on his college training.

The man who likes military life and who takes kindly to the training does not think of marrying. The man who does not care for the army and has no desire to spend his life in it and who finds the girl he wants is justified in marrying and resigning. Why not? He will be happier and in his happiness and in doing the kind of work he wants to do he will be worth more to society in general.

Paul Capron, Jr., was a cadet at West Point when he provoked official Army ire by marrying Marguerite Gillespie, daughter of Col. Alexander Gillespie, instructor at that academy. He was forced to resign. In today's article, his second as a reporter on the New York Evening Journal, he defends marriage life in universities, but points that it is unadvisable in West Point because of the Army regulations which keep a bride and bridegroom separated. He tells of many successful married students.

REYNOLDS FREE OF SECOND AUTO CHARGE

Acton, Eng., Nov. 13 (INS)—Richard Joshua Reynolds, 23-year-old son of the late founder of the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., today was acquitted here of a charge of dangerous driving.

The charge grew out of the same incident for which the American had already been sentenced to three months imprisonment on a charge of manslaughter.

On May 14, last, near Windsor, Arthur Graham was killed by an auto driven by Reynolds.

Clothes Stolen From Car

While Lieut. Harold J. Smith, trial judge advocate in the court-martial of Capt. Leo J. Fouhy, was awaiting the finding of the trial board in the South Armory, Irvington st., someone broke into his automobile, parked outside the armory, and stole a suit of civilian clothes.

New York Society Man and Housemaid Elope

New York, Nov. 13 (AP)—The elopement of William W. Willock, Jr., social registrite and heir to a fortune, with Adelaide Ingebret, 20-year-old chambermaid at the home of his parents, became known today.

Mr. Willock, Sr., a former vice-president of the Jones & Laughlin Steel Company, confirmed the news of the marriage.

"My son was married Wednesday in Oyster Bay," he said. "I have no idea where they are now, but I understand they are leaving in the morning for an extended trip to the South."

Asked whether he was reconciled to the marriage, he said "I have no desire to reply to that."

The Willocks have a New York home on Fifth ave. and country estates at Syosset, Long Island, and Lakewood, N. J. Mrs. Willock is the former Alice Jones, daughter of the late B. F. Jones, Sr., steel manufacturer.

Miss Inglebert was hired by the Willock butler last February as a second chambermaid at the Syosset home. She left in October. Young Willock, who is 22, maintained a shop on the Syosset estate, where he engaged in electrical experiments.

Finds Family Lost 23 Years; Keeps Mum

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 13 (AP)—A Vancouver, B. C., man who was separated from his wife and three children by the San Francisco disaster of 1906, has just found them again, the Seattle Missing Persons' Bureau announced today—but the wife has remarried.

Two of the children also are married, and the man decided his family would be happier if he did not make himself known. Police announced his identity would be kept secret.

Kellogg Pact May Be Placed in Schools

Vancouver, B. C., Nov. 13 (AP)—A plan to hang a copy of the Briand-Kellogg peace pact in every school room in the Dominion has received the endorsement of Premier MacKenzie King. The premier, as minister of external affairs, said he would undertake to provide copies for any province wishing them. Premier King said he would be glad to see copies of the pact in all churches as well.

American Captive Is Freed in China

Tientsin, China, Nov. 13 (AP)—Aaron Brenner, New York furrier, arrived here today after nearly a week's captivity in the hands of kidnapers, believed to be Russians. He was in a highly nervous condition and unable to give a coherent account of what had happened to him.

Police believe the kidnapers became frightened at closeness of their investigation and permitted the captive to escape.

DOUBT MAINE WOMAN'S STORY OF HOLDUP

Winthrop, Me., Nov. 13— Police place little credence in the story of Mrs. Irene Davenport Berry, 30, that two men forced her to open the safe in the office of the Winthrop Woolen Mills, robbed her of personal belongings, gagged her and left.

The young bookkeeper was found, apparently unconscious, by two clerks when they reported for work in the morning.

After a lengthy questioning of Mrs. Berry, County Atty. Frank E. Southard of Augusta stated that the bookkeeper admitted that her accounts of the weave-room production of the mill showed discrepancies of approximately $1000 covering a period of several weeks.

In connection with the alleged admission, the county attorney pointed out that investigation of the office earlier disclosed evidence that office records had been burned in a metal waste paper basket, and that several pages from day books and production ledgers were torn from their bindings. Charred remnants of these were found in the basket, Southard said.

The county attorney and mill officials expressed the opinion that there was no hold-up as claimed by Mrs. Berry.

The bookkeeper, however, continued to maintain, under grilling, that she was the victim of two robbers, who stripped her of her money and two rings after forcing her to open the outer door of the safe. The inner vault of the safe was unopened.

Authorities would give no indication whether arrests would be made in connection with the affair. The county attorney and mill officers said there was a necessity for a searching investigation of the personnel within the mill organization.

ARREST SIX IN BOOTLEG WAR

Memphis, Tenn., Nov. 13 (AP)— Federal prohibition agents, two of whose boats were bombed in the harbor here Monday by rum runners, seized and destroyed approximately 1300 gallons of liquor, confiscated five automobiles and placed six men under arrest today.

"If it's war the moonshiners want, it's war they'll get," said Finis E. Wilson, district enforcement administrator.

The raids were made near midnight at a bridge over Wolf river. Four of the cars were seized as they crossed the bridge and the fifth captured after a mile chase through nearby swamps.

The men gave their names as Frank Bellomini, Frank Mareno, George H. Taylor, John Baldridge, Bennie Aiello and James Walters.

Monday's bombing was the second time government vessels had been dynamited here in slightly more than a year. No arrests have been made.

Teachers Ask for Longer Sessions

Bristol, R. I., Nov. 13 (AP)—A request by the faculty of Colt Memorial high school that the school day be lengthened 30 minutes was promptly granted by the school committee.

The teachers did not ask for more pay to match the hours, but explained that their action was taken in order to "permit pupils to reach a higher level of achievement."

Auto Death Rate Mounts in Europe

England, with 2,000,000 motor vehicles, is killing annually about 6000 persons; France, with 1,000,000 motor vehicles, 3000. In proportion to population and number of motor vehicles, the automobile death rate abroad is three to five times as great as in the United States.

Robbery Story Probed

Police are investigating the story of Mrs. Irene Berry, 30, stenographer at Winthrop Mills, Winthrop, Me., that she was held up and robbed in her office. They say a shortage has been discovered in her accounts.

$200,000,000 Estate of Armour Wiped Out

Chicago, Nov. 13 (AP)—The estate of J. Ogden Armour, once valued at $200,000,000, was closed in probate court with a $2,000,000 loss to family creditors.

It was the World War with its attendant demands for feeding armed millions that made the millionaire packer high among the multi-millionaires. Then peace—and government cancelled a mountain of orders with the Armour company.

World markets were "flooded" with Armour products and the pioneer Chicago packer was said to have lost $100,000,000 almost overnight. Deflation of land and security values, following in the wake of peace, melted away the remainder of the once huge fortune.

His wife and daughter, wealthy in their own right, lent Armour more than $3,000,000, and it was these claims that finally placed him "in the red."

According to the final report, his daughter, Mrs. John J. Mitchell, Jr., received about $500,000 in settlement of a $2,000,000 claim, and his wife, Mrs. Lolita Sheldon Armour, was paid back $750,000 on a claim of $1,055,000.

Vera Cruz to Honor Dead of 1914 Invasion

Vera Cruz, Mexico, Nov. 13 (AP)

The legislature has decreed a holiday and statewide fiesta for Nov. 23, the 15th anniversary of evacuation of Vera Cruz by the American invaders of 1914.

Bodies of patriots who lost their lives in defense of the city will be exhumed and deposited in an urn especially constructed for the purpose. The urn will be placed in a monument to be erected to the memory of the heroes of 1847 and 1914.

Minister, Run-down in Health, Gains 7 lbs. in 3 Weeks

Rev. W. H. Taylor writes: "After a 7 weeks' revival campaign I was entirely run down and losing flesh rapidly. I decided to give Ironized Yeast a 3 weeks' trial. After 2 weeks I found my strength returning and the tired feeling gone. In 3 weeks I had gained 7 lbs. and was myself again."

Imagine, just 3 weeks to change from a "skinny," tired person to a strong, well-filled-out man or woman. Ugly hollows vanish. Broomstick limbs become round and chubby. Tired feeling disappears. Blemished skin clears.

Only when yeast is IRONIZED is it more effective—for Iron is needed to bring out the weight-building and strengthening values of Yeast. Pleasant-tasting tablets. Safe for everybody. Never cause gas or bloating, no harmful drugs.

Go to any druggist today and get a full-size treatment of Ironized Yeast. Take it regularly as directed. If after this generous trial you are not delighted with weight and health benefits gained, your money promptly refunded by druggist or manufacturer.

$5,000,000,000 BUDGET FOR RUSSIA

Moscow, Nov. 13 (AP)—Soviet Russia's budget for the coming year details of which were announced today, shows the huge total of 11,330,000,000 rubles (about $5,8,000,000), which is 45 per cent more than last year and the greatest in the history of the Soviet Union.

Large part of the State revenue is expected to come from direct and indirect taxes, the total amount being 5,905,000,000 rubles, or nearly 40 per cent more than last year.

Sum of 245,000,000 rubles will be devoted to education, this being more than 50 per cent above last year's while to agriculture is assigned 617,000,000 rubles, electrification 100,000,000 rubles and waterways 100,000,000 rubles. Sixty million rubles will go for the formation of a state grain fund.

All previous Soviet budget figures are eclipsed by the estimated profit from state trade, which are placed at 23,000,000 rubles, or 618 per cent more than last year. Income from foreign concessions is placed only at 5,028,000 rubles, while revenue from the forests are placed at 450,000,000 rubles and from mines at 78,000,000 rubles.

The proportion for the development extension of new industries is set at 1,848,000,000 rubles, of which 1,448,000,000 rubles is assigned to financing the state industries.

Girl Suicide Blames Man Death Note

Washington, Nov. 13—Leaving a note which said in part saying "you have sent me hell," Miss Marie McDermott, clerk in the Department of Interior for the last 11 years, was found dead in her apartment.

There is nothing to indicate cause of death and an autopsy will be held. The body was found by government clerks who went to investigate. Miss McDermott had not been at work since Friday. She is believed to have a sister living at Homale, Pa.

Aid Joked in Hunt for Missing Man

Williamstown, Nov. 13—Chief of Police Edgar A. Royal has sought the aid of police departments throughout this section in a search for Phil Williams, 38, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Williams, who has been missing from his home for more than a week.

Williams disappeared a week ago today, when he entered a car driven by a man who appeared to be a taxi. No word has been received by the local man's whereabouts as.

100 EPISCOPAL BISHOPS NAME CHURCH HEAD

Washington, Nov. 13 (AP)— About 100 bishops of the Episcopal Church from all sections of the United States gathered in Washington today to name the successor to the late Right Rev. John Gardner Murray, bishop of Maryland, as presiding bishop of the church.

The scene was a low, vaulted chapel in the crypt of the National Cathedral at Mount St. Alban and the balloting will continue until one of the prelates receives the constitutional majority of 68 votes.

The names of four bishops led in speculation for the post made vacant a little more than a month ago when Bishop Murray died suddenly at the St. James Church altar in Atlantic City. They are: Bishops Hugh L. Burleson, South Dakota; Charles P. Anderson, Chicago; James E. Freeman, Washington, and Phillip Cook, Delaware.

Bishop Burleson was the assessor, or assistant to Bishop Murray, and at present is the assistant to Bishop William Leonard of Ohio, first in seniority among the high clergy. Bishop Cook received a considerable vote at the 1925 convention at New Orleans which named Bishop Murray.

But two years remain of the present term, the first ever created by democratic election. Before 1925 seniority determined the head of the church in the United States, a position comparable with the Archbishop of Canterbury as head of the Anglican church.

Election for the full six-year term will be held at the Denver general convention in 1931. The election of a missionary bishop to fill the vacant see at Honolulu is the only other business of the special session, although most of the bishops will remain over tomorrow for the dedication of the new college of preachers.

Arizona Cherishes Its Dinosaur Tracks

Phoenix, Ariz., Nov. 13 (AP)— Under gubernatorial orders to prevent the removal of dinosaur tracks from the state, deputy sheriffs from Flagstaff today were enroute to the camp of a scientific expedition near Yuba city, 76 miles away, to enforce the embargo.

Gov. Phillips telegraphed a protest to Secretary of the Interior Wilbur regarding proposed excavation of the tracks, saying the tracks are on Indian lands, and under the jurisdiction of the Federal government. Pending a reply from the secretary, Governor Phillips instructed the sheriff of Coconino county to prevent removal of the prehistoric footprints from the state.

Making Own Dry Law Lands 40 in Toils

Moscow, Ida., Nov. 13 (AP)— Roundup of more than 40 persons accused in secret indictments of violating the prohibition law resulted today in the arrest of six officials and two former officials in northern Idaho.

Most of those indicted are believed to be residents of Shoshone county, center of the Coeur d'Alene mine district. The small cities affected are hidden away in the mountains in the richest silver and lead district in the world.

The mountain communities, officers declared, have "made a law unto themselves" in the matter of prohibition enforcement.

Denials of charges were made by the eight persons under arrest. They are R. E. Weiminger, Wallace, sheriff of Shoshone county; Charles Bloom, Mullan, deputy sheriff; Mayor Arthur J. Harwood of Mullan; Chief of Police Army Welch of Pullman; Henry Foss and Charles Rutan, City Councilmen of Mullan, and George Huston and Elmer Olson, former city councilman of Mullan.

The accused men issued a statement saying they believed an emergency ordinance adopted in 1926 by which license were collected from business places, including soft drink stands, was the basis for the indictments. The ordinance was to relieve "desperate financial straits," the statement said.

They said soft drink parlors were charged $25 a month for licenses and these fees probably had been interpreted as "protection" for the sale of liquor. Every cent of the money collected, the men said, had been expended legally through the city treasury.

INDICT EIGHT IN STRIKE SLAYINGS

Marion, N. C., Nov. 13 (AP)—True bills were returned by the McDowell County grand jury today against the eight sheriff's deputies charged with murder in connection with a gun fight at the Marion Manufacturing Company textile mill gates Oct. 2, in which six men were fatally injured.

Those named in the bills were B. L. Brobbint, W. A. Fender, Dave Jarrett, Jim Owens, Charles T. Tate, Taylor Green, William Briggs and Robert Ward.

The men who died as a result of the shooting were George Jones, Randolph Hall, Sam Vickers, Tilden Carver, Luther Bryson and James Roberts, all members of the United Textile Workers of America, a branch of the American Federation of Labor. Twenty others were injured but recovered. The shooting followed a strike at the textile plant.

The report of the grand jury came as an interruption to the court presided over by Judge G. Vernon Cowper, which has begun the selection of the jury to try Alfred Hoffman, organizer for the United Textile Workers of America, and four others, charged with insurrection and rebellion against the state.

One prospective juror was accused this morning when he told Judge Cowper he could not give an "outsider" who came here and organized a strike an impartial trial.

On trial with Hoffman are W. L. Hogan, Wes Fowler, Del Lewis and J. Hugh Hall. Will Russell, jointly charged with the others, had not made his appearance and his bond of $200 was forfeited this morning.

BOMBING YARN IS EXPLODED

Los Angeles, Nov. 13 (AP)—Declaring the alleged deathbed statement of Lewis Smith of Bellaire, O., assuming responsibility for the San Francisco Preparedness Day bombing in 1916, could not be based on fact, Charles M. Fickert, Los Angeles attorney, said today the confession either was the "hallucination of a sick man" or was "fabricated after his death for the purpose of aiding the Mooney agitation."

Fickert was district attorney of San Francisco during the trial of Thomas J. Mooney in 1916. Mooney is serving a life term in San Quentin prison for the bombing.

"The alleged confession of Lewis Smith is just some more misinformation," Fickert said. "His statement that the bomb was thrown shows he was ignorant of what occurred there. All the physical facts prove that the bomb, with a time clock to detonate it, was enclosed in a suit case and left at the scene of the explosion, and that it could not possibly have been thrown."

Maine Firm Gets Army Shoe Contract

Philadelphia, Nov. 13 (AP)—The quartermaster's depot of the United States army here today announced the award of contracts for 47,116 pair of shoes.

Auction Bidding: Following North's Third Hand No Trump bid, all pass, as East is too weak either to double or to overcall an original No Trump on right, and neither South nor West have any sound reason for disturbing the bid.

Contract Bidding: North has all the requirements for his original two No Trump bid, to wit: 4 Quick Tricks, all four suits stopped of which three are doubly stopped South, with two Kings, has the necessary high card strength to bid for game following North's original two No Trumps. It will be of interest to note the presence of the high intermediates in South's hand, at least one of which should prove of value in connection with the top strength shown by North.

The Play

East leads his fourth best Heart, the 7; Dummy plays the 3; West's Queen and North the 5, permitting West's Queen to hold the trick on the same principle as passing the first round of an adverse suit lead when holding the Ace and two small cards of suit. East wins the second trick with the Heart Ace and returns the 10, driving North's King.

Declarer now lays down his Queen of Clubs and, West holding off, follows with his Jack of Clubs. West again holds off and North leads the 4 of Clubs, which he now takes with the Ace, East discarding a small Heart.

West, in the lead, plays the 5 of Diamonds, North wins with the Ace, crosses over to Dummy's King of Spades and lays down the good 10 of clubs, upon which North discards the 5 of Spades and East discards a second Heart.

East's discard of two good Hearts marks him as guarding both Spades and Diamonds. Declarer, therefore leads the 8 of Diamonds from Dummy, wins with the King and thrives East in the lead with another Diamond, thus forcing him to lead up to North's Ace-Jack of Spades for the last two tricks. So played, North loses but two Hearts, one Club and one Diamond, going game by virtue of an end play determined by East's two discards of Hearts.

FRENCH ASSAIL PRESIDENT HOOVER SPEECH

Paris, Nov. 13 (INS)—Intense disapproval of President Hoover's Armistice Day speech overshadowed everything else when the Chamber of Deputies convened today.

Although the deputies met today for the purpose of discussing the French budget, it was obvious that they were more interested in discussing the suggestion of the American President that food ships be granted immunity from blockades in time of war.

The corridors of the Parliament building buzzed with disapproval of the suggestion of President Hoover.

Many deputies said that such action would have the effect of encouraging rather than discouraging war. They pointed out that nations which would otherwise hesitate to break peace pacts might not be so hesitant when assured of a food supply despite enemy blockades.

Inquiry to Ascertain Illegal Use of Mail

New York, Nov. 13—Assistant U. S. Attorney George J. Mintzer announced after beginning an investigation of the Bankers' Capital Corporation, which failed Monday with debts aggregating $1,000,000, that the firm was head of a chain of 13 corporations, each of which, he charged, sold its stock to the others at inflated prices.

The investigation, Mr. Mintzer said, was undertaken to ascertain whether the mails had been used in a scheme to defraud. He said many complaints were received by the federal attorney's office since the company was petitioned into bankruptcy by the Superior Credit Corporation of Worcester, Mass.

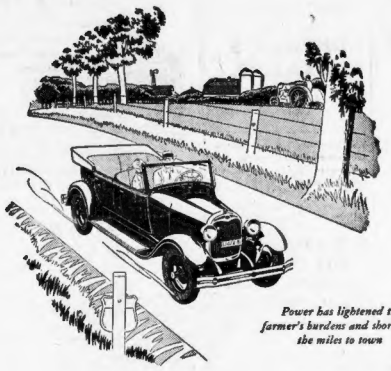
Extending the Limits of Man's Opportunity



Power has lightened the farmer's burdens and shortened the miles to town

ONLY A FEW generations ago the life of man was circumscribed by his own physical limitations . . . the dexterity of his fingers, the strength of his back, the speed of his limbs, and the labor of domestic animals.

The interchange of commodities was slow, difficult. There were no good roads, as we know them today, nor any way to travel swiftly, surely, over these roads. The deeply rutted wagon trail was a long, hard trail.

Though boundless acres were all about, it was only the adventurous few who traveled far. Many a man lived and died without ever having been more than fifty miles from home.

Then was born an idea that was destined to reshape the frontiers and the future of the entire country—the idea of making a small, strong, simple automobile so low in price that it might be placed within the means of all the people.

The coming of this new means of transportation not only changed the industrial life of the nation, but helped to change the private lives of every one for all the generations to come.

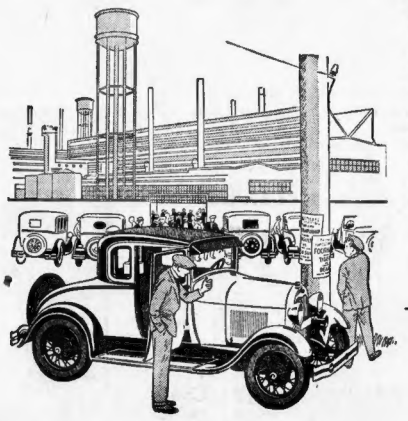
It leveled hills, extended horizons, created new opportunities, furnished the means to earn more money and to enjoy the leisure which that increased income should bring.

In creating and building a small, strong, simple automobile at a low price, and in using it, man became accustomed to thinking of machinery as a servant. He made power work for him.

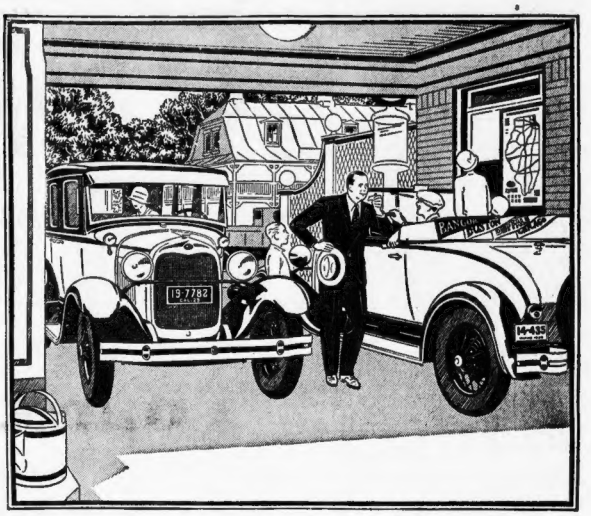
More and more as time went on, in industrial plants and on the farm, heavy labor was taken off the back of man and placed upon the broader shoulders of the machine.

The Ford moved everywhere, blazing the way over miry roads and rocky mountain trails, through gumbo and sand, creating a rising demand for swifter, smoother travel that resulted in the construction of hundreds of thousands of miles of cement and macadam highways reaching to all parts of the country.

The benefits resulting from the introduction of the low-priced automobile have done more than perhaps any other single thing to increase the standards of living and to make this a truly united country.



To all men—everywhere—the advantages of economical transportation



Maine speaks to California—in Illinois!

All the people are blended together by the flexibility and swiftness of automotive transportation. The prairie farmer, the industrial worker and the city business man are governed by similar impulses, similar tastes, similar demands upon highly specialized machinery to serve them.

This civilization can show no greater example of disciplined machinery than in the operation of the Ford Industries.

The great miracle is not the car, but the machines that make the machine—the methods that make it possible to build such a fine car, in large numbers, at a low price.

Craftsmanship has been put into mass production. Millions and millions of parts are made—each one so accurate and so exactly like the other that they fit perfectly to the thousandth of an inch when brought together for assembly into complete units.

Men by the thousands and the hundred thousand are employed at the Rouge plant alone and there are hundreds of acres of plant equipment. Yet the purpose today is wholly the same as when the equipment of the Ford organization was housed in a single small building.

Everything that has been done has been done to give further scope and expression to the Ford Idea.

That idea is not merely to make automobiles—not merely to create so much additional machinery and so many millions of additional horse-power—but to make this a better world in which to live through providing economical transportation for all the people.

For that purpose the first Model T was made twenty-one years ago. For that purpose the new Ford is made today. In 1929, as in 1908, it is again helping to reshape the frontiers and the future of the country and to further extend the limits of man's opportunity.

By NICHOLAS YOUNG

MR. E. E. CLIVE, drama impresario of upper Stuart st., once more embarks upon the ever-widening field of murder and mystery. Enjoying the full confidence of his Copley Theater clientele, and sensing its constant appeal for craftier crime and bigger laughs, he responds with Frank Vosper's "Murder on the Second Floor." Every requirement is filled.

WHILE this play, as contrasted with "The Creaking Chair" and "The Ghost Train," may show a falling off in shocks and tremolos, it is not without its moments of grand surprise. Final, of course, may be accepted as one of the standard rules of the crook drama and its attending problems of investigation and solution. In any event, as it turns out at the Copley, the spectators find it rather wholesome fare. In fact, audience hesitation to a degree seldom uncovered in the more pretentious downtown temples.

Nicholas Young

NOT even the most liberal twist of the imagination could persuade you that the play is as excellent as the lady who sits beside you avers, yet for the sake of domestic harmony you must concede for it is a safe setting in Mr. Clive's large collection of weldone dramatic productions.

FALLING back upon old devices, the author writes a play within a play, the important action being a youthful dramatist's demonstration for his best girl of just how he would go about to carve a sensational mystery play involving all the tenants in her mother's respectable boarding-house. A prossaic opening; then the entire cast settles down to the serious business of bringing disgrace, excitement and the police to quiet Bloomsbury.

OFTEN we have suspected Mr. Clives' players of enjoying their work; they do it so well. Although the cast is long, there are no faltering steps. Mr. Clive generously relegates himself to a semi-minor role, though he does present the novelty of having his throat cut without particular knowledge of the event. Down through the list, the players give freely of their talents. The author, at least, has made all his people interesting. That should entitle him to some special recognition for distinguished service.

WITH honors about evenly divided, it becomes easy to recommend Ian Emery for any task the future may bring forth; to give unreserved praise to Mr. Clive's trio of new arrivals, Esther Mitchell, Rosalind Russell and Olive Reeves-Smith, and to proffer longer affectations upon Elspeth Dudgeon, Gerald Rogers, Richard Whorf and Marshall Vincent.

AS the season moves forward it becomes apparent that an extra killing or two back stage at the Copley means nothing in the lives of Mr. Clive's busy family. It's just in a day's work and pays its own dividends.

Symphony Program

The fifth regular pair of concerts by the Boston Symphony Orchestra will take place next Friday afternoon and Saturday evening in Symphony Hall.

Dr. Koussevitzky will then introduce to Boston two recent works of Serge Tschirikoff, "Burma" and "Java." The American composer, who has made a life study of the culture in general and music in particular of the Orient, utilizes a large number of native instruments in these scores. The Nocturne for wind instruments, by Louis Spohr, postponed from last week, will be performed on this program. After the intermission, Richard Strauss' Symphonia Domestica will be played.

Doug's Got the Whip Hand

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS AND MARY PICKFORD

AS PETRUCHIO in "The Taming of the Shrew." Doug does his stuff well. Mary, as the vexacious Katherine of the Shakespeare comedy, had the upper hand until Petruchio stepped in. The talking screen version of the age old play is at Loew's State.

TOM MIX SHELVES FILM LOT FOR SAWDUST RING

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Universal Service Motion Picture Editor

Copyright, 1929, by Universal Service

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 13—Tom Mix is waving the movies a fond and affectionate farewell in favor of the circus. Tom, back in Hollywood on business was asked if he had returned to make a talkie. "No, ma'am," replied Tom in his best Lord Chesterfieldian manner, "I'm not going to make a picture. I'm returning to Sarasota, Florida, to join John Ringling for a conference."

Louella O. Parsons

Mercy me, we thought they only had conferences in the movies. Tom, it seems is not joining John Ringling's circus, but is about to head a company under Ringling's management.

All the world and his wife rushed to see this cowboy hero when he appeared in the circus and Tom, being a bright boy, decided to continue to make hay while the sun shines. As for Victoria Mix and little Tomasina, they the back at the big house in Beverly Hills again and it looks as if the extended trips abroad of Victoria's may cease. Tom and Vicky created a sensation when they appeared at the Roosevelt Hotel together after a separation of a year.

THE foreign market for talking pictures will be increased if anything this coming year, according to Irving Thalberg of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Studios. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer plans to make foreign talkie versions for all of their biggest and most important pictures. This plan followed a conference with Arthur Loew, head of M. G. M.'s foreign department. The first of the new foreign editions will be that of "Sun-Kissed," starring Vilma Banky and directed by Victor Seastrom. It will be in German and English. Miss Banky speaks both of these languages. Many of the film stars speak French as well as English and those who do only speak plain "American" will probably get busy and try to become linguists. These talkies certainly are demanding big things of our stars.

THE tempestuous courtship of Harry Richman and Clara Bow is again running smooth!

If Clara and her boy friend from New York aren't actually in love they are certainly giving a marvelous illustration of the old phrase that true love never runs smoothly. It's a case of on again, off again, gone again Finnegan, with them. The name of Regis Toomey was given me as the leading man in Clara's next picture, "The Humming Bird." There was a report in New York that Gloria Swanson had "The Humming Bird" for to give Edward Goulding an idea of her best characterization. Not her best, for Gloria in smart clothes with a society manner is the Gloria the public wants.

IF Greta Garbo isn't given the lead in "Ex-Wife," ten million readers of that best seller are doomed for a bitter disappointment. Letters have rolled in commenting on the Swedish girl for the leading part and mentioning that the story was made for her. I am not at all sure that Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer have definitely decided on Greta, but I do know that Nick Grinde and John Meehan, as co-directors, will do the directing. Also, that they are at this moment writing the adaptation and dialogue. Also, that an all-star cast is being planned. So, you see, maybe when someone mentioned Greta for "Ex-Wife" someone talked out of school.

"CHRISTMAS KNIGHT," not the perfume, nor yet the scene of our childhood, is to be the name of a comedy Vitaphone short with Niles Welch in the leading role. Mr. Welch has only lately come back to Hollywood after an absence of some months while he was testing the possibilities of vaudeville. The rumored-to-be-married Archie Mayo will direct this "Christmas Knight" number. Another promise of the future is that "Hell's Angels" will positively be finished on November 18. My advice is not to put any money on it. You know what happened to speculators in the stock market.

TEN CONCERTS SLATED BY CREATORE

THE People's Symphony Orchestra, which for the past eight seasons has delighted lovers of concert music, will give a series of ten concerts at the Metropolitan Theater starting Sunday afternoon, November 24.

Through the courtesy of the city the Metropolitan will be opened at 1:30 p. m. and the concerts will start promptly at 2 o'clock, lasting until 3:00 p. m., when the regular theater program will be presented.

In the past, the concert series has been conducted by America's foremost leaders, including Emil Mollenhauer. The initial concert this season will be conducted by the picturesque Creatore, who is credited as being the founder of the modern school of conducting.

Due to the enterprise of Publix, the People's Symphony Orchestra, whose programs will be under the direction of Boris Morrow, this popular institution of 65 artists, will be included as part of the huge program regularly presented at the usual admission prices thus bringing to the public an opportunity to participate in a festival of entertainment calculated to delight every type of audience.

The initial program will include the Fourth Movement of Tschaikowski's Fourth Symphony, "The Rosary," "Cleopatra" by Ponchielli and "Minuet" by Boccherini.

Pauline Talma, widely-known vocal soloist, will appear with Creatore and the People's Symphony Orchestra for the first concert of the series of ten, which will be presented each Sunday at the Metropolitan Theater from 2 to 3 p. m.

GRAY PROVED HE HAS VOICE

"THEY laughed when I told them I could sing," so said Lawrence Gray, recounting the rebuffs he met when he tried to persuade directors to give him a chance in a singing-talking role. He continued: "I always had been playing juvenile leads, but when the talkies came along I was just looked upon as a kid who probably would be passed up when the stage stars came out to do singing parts.

"When I told them I could sing, they laughed and told me to come around later. As a matter of fact, I have studied music all my life, but never happened to have use for it in my profession. However, they had to be shown—they weren't taking any chances.

"It so happened that a big benefit show was being staged and offered my services, I went on the stage and played the piano and sang a number of songs. Then my director friends took notice.

"Robert Z. Leonard, who was looking for a leading man for Marion Davies in 'Marianne' gave me my first chance at a real voice test and believe me, I was a happy boy when I landed the part!"

In Miss Davies' first talkie feature, now at Loew's Orpheum as a Cosmopolitan offering, Gray plays the part of an A. E. F. doughboy and sings several song numbers with the star.

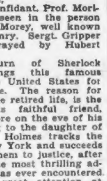
Cliff (Ukulele Ike) Edwards, Benny Rubin, Robert Edeson, Georgs Baxter and others of note are included in the cast.

The Revelers

An unusual ensemble is announced to appear in Symphony Hall on Sunday afternoon, December 1. They are known as "The Revelers." Their program ranges from the classics to the modern.

SHERLOCK IS BACK ON SCREEN

A NOTABLE cast has been selected to present "Sherlock Holmes," Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's famous fiction detective, to the motion picture public in the all-talking feature, "The Return of Sherlock Holmes," at the Scollay on Saturday next. Clive Brook has the role of Sherlock Holmes, master man-hunter of all time. H. Reeves-Smith plays the part of Dr. Watson, his faithful confidant. Prof. Morarty will be seen in the person of Harry T. Morey, well known for past villainry. Sergt. Gripper will be portrayed by Hubert Druce.



Jane Lee

"The Return of Sherlock Holmes" brings this famous sleuth to the United States for the first time. The reason for his leaving the retired life, is the murder of his faithful friend, Capt. Longmore on the eve of his son's wedding to the daughter of Dr. Watson. Holmes tracks the fiends to New York and succeeds in bringing them to justice, after a series of the most thrilling adventures he has ever encountered. Attracting great attention at the Scollay now are the famous movie children, Jane and Katherine Lee, known to millions of fans. They are appearing in person in the Scollay vaudeville bill.

REAL BAD MEN NOT REAL BAD

JEAN HERSHOLT is somewhat of a philosopher. For the last several years of his career, he has been playing lovable characters and genial gentlemen. In his present role of "Von Bolte" in "Mamba" in which he is to star for Colorart Synchronart, Hersholt is cast as a villain. This is the first time Jean has played a heavy since "Greed."

On being asked his reaction to the part after the number of kindly persons he has portrayed, Hersholt stated that he had no objections.

"All men are human," he said "I do not believe that there is or ever has been a dyed-in-the-wool villain. If you could get under their skin and could appreciate their viewpoint and the psychological factors that prompted them to do their despicable deeds, you would find a justification in their distorted minds.

"No man will admit that he is thoroughly bad. In his hatred, no matter how misguided, he feels himself more sinned against than sinning. There is a plea calling for sympathy behind every dastardly act. A villain is a paycopathic hypocrite. A victim of circumstances and away from the subject of his misdeeds, may be a thoroughly likable fellow.

Von Bolte is such a character and I hope will earn much pity along with the censure. At least I conceive him as a normal human being and am portraying him as such."

BRONCOS FOR GUARDSMEN

TONIGHT will be military night at the 101 Ranch Wild West Show and circus at the Boston Garden.

Six national guardsmen from the Commonwealth Armory, have entered in the special bronco busting contest for this evening and will compete for the cup offered by Col Zack Miller. The cup will be awarded to the national guardsman who stays longest on one of the broncs.

While the guardsmen are doing their stunts, officers of their organization will be spectators in the boxes about the arena, as guests of Col. Miller, owner of the show.

Every effort will be made to make the evening most enjoyable for the members of the national guard. The horses they will use are selected from a string of 12 which arrived here from the 101 Ranch at Ponca City, Okla. last week. These horses will be worked before the show and be in shape for the evening

Roland Hayes

Roland Hayes' recital in Symphony Hall on Sunday afternoon, November 24th, will be the second of the six Sunday concerts there

THE Cosmopolitan Opera Company presented "Carmen" for its second evening of opera at popular prices. There were several debuts, or near-debuts, of local singers, and these furnished the principal features.

Of chief interest was Rosa Zulalian's singing of the title role, her first appearance on the operatic stage except for a tentative one last spring. Mrs. Zulalian, pleasantly recalled for her excellent work here in concert, had many things to commend her—a voice of excellent quality, of the true Carmen quality, indeed; an ease of carriage and deportment, of facial gesture, quite extraordinary for an inexperienced singing actress; remarkably clear French diction, as good as we have ever heard in opera.

On the other hand, her inexperience told in several arias and concerted numbers, when she occasionally erred from true pitch or from control of the conductor's baton. She was attempting to give a seasoned, mature performance before being sure of herself. Yet hers was, on the whole, a very successful debut, as well as an interesting one.

Two other local singers were Marion Whitmore and Louise Bernhardt. The latter substituted capably on short notice. Miss Whitmore was singing for the first time in opera, and her natural nervousness betrayed itself in a desire to overdramatize an essentially feeble part. She displayed, however, a pleasant voice, more mezzo soprano, it seemed, than lyric. Her gestures were commendably devoid of the rigidity customarily associated with Micaela.

The best singing of the evening was that of our old friend, Mario Valle. Mr. Bertini also performed well.

The production on the whole was not as good as that of the preceding evening, though Mr. Simoni, working with a reduced orchestra and with a willing chorus, did much.

HARVARD AIDS PATHE PLANS FOR TALKIES

PATHE has entered the educational talkers field. In cooperation with Harvard University, the company will start production immediately upon two series of pictures for educational purposes. It is the belief of Harvard officials as well as Joseph P. Kennedy, chairman of the board of Pathe, Inc., that the addition of sound to such films will add to their effectiveness as an educational aid.

One of the series will be a treatment of "Regions of the United States" while the second will be on "Commerce and Industry." In the first mentioned series, the eight separate geographic regions will be the subject of the pictures and the basic industries of the country will comprise the second.

Plans for these educational pictures have been prepared by Dr. Kirtley F. Mather, Dean of the department of geography at Harvard, under whose supervision her—a voice of excellent quality, of the true Carmen quality, indeed; an ease of carriage and deportment, of facial gesture, quite extraordinary for an inexperienced singing actress; remarkably clear French diction, as good as we have ever heard in opera.

On the other hand, her inexperience told in several arias and concerted numbers, when she occasionally erred from true pitch or from control of the conductor's baton. Late Matinee Scheduled for "Sherlock Holmes"

The management of the Hollis Street Theater announces that in response to popular appeal the matinee of William Gillette in "Sherlock Holmes" will be played at 3 o'clock on Friday afternoon, Nov. 22. Since this is the only matinee performance of the farewell engagement of Mr. Gillette, the later hour was decided upon in deference to the wishes of parents who desired to take children to the matinee but were unwilling to withdraw them from school.

YOURS FOR BETTER HEALTH
Thanks To Discovery Of BON-TONE

As the Pirates of Old have discovered chests of gold—BON-TONE has discovered the Roots and Herbs that helped Hundreds back to the road of Health and Happiness

HYDE PARK LADY FINDS RELIEF IN BON-TONE FROM INTESTINAL INDIGESTION

Mrs. M. A. Fennell, 123 West St., Hyde Park, Mass., says: "For the past ten years I have suffered greatly from stomach trouble and intestinal indigestion. After eating I would get the most severe pain in my intestines and a terrible, bloating feeling. I would belch gas continually and also had severe dizzy spells and it seemed that little specks were floating before my eyes and I would get bad headaches. This condition caused me to become very weak—so much so that I was hardly able to do my housework. Constipation added to my discomfort, too. My sister had used this Bon-Tone with such good results that she advised me to try it and with the first three bottles the results I received were little short of miraculous. Dizzy spells left and my eyes are very clear and constipation banished. My stomach is ever so much better and seldom do I have any gas and I am going to continue with Bon-Tone as I know it will make me 100% O. K. in a short time. Anyone reading this and who has the same troubles as mine should certainly take Bon-Tone."

PLUTARCH'S SIMPLE RULE FOR HEALTH, HAPPINESS AND SUCCESS

"Eat, but not to satiety;
Labor, but not to weariness;
Keep to nature."

Over two thousand years ago this is what Plutarch, the Greek, wrote in his simple rule for health, happiness and success, and long over two thousand years ago the Greeks and Arabs knew that Mother Nature had bestowed on this earth remedies for all living things. Hence, Plutarch's remark, "Keep to nature."

Nature alone can cure many human ills, and nature's medicines do assist nature in stimulating sluggish organs to perform their natural functions.

From the beginning of the world man has found in nature all that he needs for life, health and happiness.

Years before Plutarch was born, no doubt, his mother and her mother cured their ills with simple roots, leaves and barks which nature provided. And these same herbs are in use today in our most modern preparations.

Plutarch knew there were cures, in nature's herbs, "Keep to nature" is what he advised, and in Bon-Tone we have kept to nature's herbs.

The savage needed no medical knowledge to know what to take to cure his ills. The beasts and birds haven't any medical knowledge, yet they instinctively turn to nature's remedies when ailing, and it is a proven fact some of the treatments in modern medicine have been suggested by the practice of beasts and birds. We honestly believe Mother Nature in her generous gift of plant life has put upon this earth a cure for every disease from which human life and animal life may suffer. Modern science is becoming aware of this fact and is repeatedly turning to nature to wrest her secret from her. For instance, through the ages leprosy was held as incurable. Now it has come to our knowledge that in recent years an oil extracted from a plant of Asiatic origin has cured many of this dreaded disease.

Therefore, we have had collected from all over the world Mother Nature's life and health-giving herbs, and have had them scientifically compounded in a most modern manner into a wonderful preparation for the common disorders of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. We have given this preparation the name Bon-Tone, which means "The Best Tonic."

Keep Your Bowels Open

BON-LAX

A LAXATIVE TABLET

While BON-TONE in most cases will prove effective, there are some who, through neglect, have allowed constipation to become chronic to such an extent that an additional laxative is necessary, and for this purpose we have prepared this laxative tablet. BON-LAX contains nothing harmful or injurious, is easy to take and effective in action.

PRICE—35c, for 1 box containing 40 tablets, or three boxes for $1.00

FACTS ABOUT BON-TONE

What Is Bon-Tone? Why Is It The Most Talked About Remedy In New England And Everywhere It Is Introduced? Why Its Amazing And Phenomenal Success? Here are the answers: Bon-Tone is a powerful invigorating tonic and there is no medicine in the world like Bon-Tone. Bon-Tone consists of fourteen of Mother Nature's health-giving roots, leaves, barks and berries, scientifically blended to form a tonic, system cleanser and alterative of the highest type. These herbs are carefully selected as to their therapeutic value in the treatment of certain ailments arising from disordered stomach, kidneys, liver and bowels. Bon-Tone is designed to bring relief as Nature intended. Bon-Tone attacks indigestion, stomach trouble, constipation, nervousness, general weakness, at their origin. Bon-Tone also produces amazing results in other troubles, such as certain forms of rheumatism, neuritis, excess uric acid in the blood, poor circulation, headaches, irritability and worry caused by lack of strength and energy.

How long should Bon-Tone be taken, is often asked. This can best be answered by the sufferer. It is not reasonable to expect the first bottle to entirely restore health. Almost without exception the first bottle does produce amazing relief, but troubles which have been months and even years in developing naturally require longer treatment.

Remember, Bon-Tone contains no harsh chemicals to produce temporary results—it acts steadily, but gently, and assists Nature in restoring the entire system to more normal and healthy action.

Bon-Tone is not just "another medicine"—it is a real remedy of real MERIT and this is proved by the thousands of persons who have voluntarily testified as to the wonderful good it has done them—and the thousands upon thousands of bottles that have been sold right here in New England. Such a stupendous sale must be deserved, and it is.

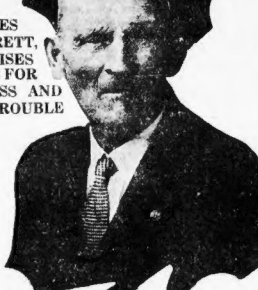
The Great Success of Bon-Tone Proves Its Merit

Bon-Tone's Sales Have Caused Comment in the Proprietary Medicine Field

Branch Plant is established in Canada and the tremendous sales of the first week show how far-reaching is Bon-Tone's fame.

Plans are now being made to place Bon-Tone for sale in Cuba and other foreign countries.

MISS DOLORES MARR OF EVERETT, MASS., PRAISES BON-TONE FOR NERVOUSNESS AND STOMACH TROUBLE



MANAGING EDITOR OF SOUTH BRAINTREE CITIZEN SAYS BON-TONE IS FINEST THING FOR NERVES HE EVER TOOK

CAPT. ARTHUR E. AUSTIN'S STATEMENT:

Capt. Arthur E. Austin, 201 Middle St., So. Braintree, Mass., is very well known and popular all over this part of the country. He is Managing Editor of the So. Braintree Citizen; Braintree Town Constable; and his statement is as follows: "I am 68 years old and have not been in the best of health for five years. I have been working long hours and felt generally tired out. My body ached all over and I would get spells of dizziness and feel faint and sick. I was so nervous that my whole body would tremble at times and my head would ache most of the time. I wasn't able to sleep well and one night fainted dead away. A friend of mine advised me to take Bon-Tone, and now for the first time in five years I am beginning to feel like myself again. I eat well, sleep like a log and those awful sick headaches and faint spells are gone. My nerves are stronger—constipation gone, and I feel just 100% better. Bon-Tone has helped me so much that I just can't praise it enough and anyone who wants to know anything about this great remedy, send them to me."

RETIRED MEMBER OF BOSTON FIRE DEPT. AT 90 FEELS TIP-TOP—THANKS TO BON-TONE

Mr. Alva D. Snow, 108 Essex St., Chelsea, Mass., retired member of the Boston Fire Dept., having served 25 years there, and who is also a member of Grand Army Post No. 26 of Roxbury, says: "Six bottles of Bon-Tone certainly did give me wonderful results. Anyone who asks me now how I am feeling, I tell them—just tip-top and also tell them that I am using Bon-Tone to which I attribute my present good health. For two years now indigestion has made me feel miserable. I would bloat terribly after meals and belch gas and have a very heavy, sluggish feeling. I was always obliged to resort to laxatives, but Bon-Tone corrected this condition as well as fixing my stomach up just fine. My appetite is better and I can eat almost anything at all now without having the least bit of bad after-effects and I feel so much better in every way and I am glad to heartily recommend this medicine to everyone."

Agents Throughout New England. There is a druggist in your Town who sells Bon-Tone

WELL KNOWN MEMBER OF BOSTON POLICE FORCE ENDORSES BON-TONE

Mr. Clarence A. Cobb, 12 Priscilla Rd., Brighton, Mass., well - known and popular member of Boston Police Force, and private chauffeur for Police Commissioner Wilson, says: "Bon-Tone has relieved me of six months' suffering. I suppose my being in a sitting position all day and hardly not getting much exercise, was not a great aid to my digestion and therefore my food would ferment and form gas instead of digesting as it should. As a result I was annoyed greatly by belching and although I ate well, still I always seemed to feel hungry. Sometimes I would become dizzy and constipation was another source of complaint. After taking Bon-Tone but a short time my health improved wonderfully. I eat about everything I wish to and without suffering afterward as my food digests as it should. Constipation is ended and no more trouble with dizziness. After what Bon-Tone has done for me I am only too glad to endorse it."

MISS MARR STATES

Miss Dolores Marr, 63 Buchanan St., Everett, Mass., says: "It is only fair when a medicine does you a lot of good to recommend it publicly so that other sufferers may benefit by your experience. About a year now I have had a great deal of trouble with indigestion. My food would sour and ferment and the gas that would form would give me a very uncomfortable feeling and cause belching. I was always very tired and sometimes would get dizzy spells and become extremely nervous. Since taking this Bon-Tone I haven't known what it was to have a dizzy spell and chronic constipation, from which I also suffered, has been corrected. My food digests properly now and I feel like a different person—do not have that tired, listless feeling any more and I have Bon-Tone to thank for all this."

BON-TONE'S SUCCESS

has caused imitators. Accept no substitute for Bon-Tone. There is nothing "just as good." The reputation of Bon-Tone is based on MERIT! Ask your neighbor.

CONSTIPATION— MAN'S WORST PERIL

Constipation has been called "Man's worst peril" by Sir Arbuthnot Lane, England's greatest medical luminary and surgeon to King George.

He did not mince words. "Constipation," he said, "is responsible for ulcers, and finally cancer. Civilization itself is menaced by it. Of the whole population of Great Britain at least five millions will die of cancer, unless they are educated about health.

"The fact is exactly this: The lower end of the intestine is of a size that requires emptying every six hours, but from that habit we retain its contents 24 hours. The results are ulcers and cancer. The products of intestinal toxemia are absorbed and we have filthy blood. The organs degenerate."

Mr. Ryan, the Bon-Tone man, is at Epstein's Drug Store, Scollay Square, Boston. Go and see him, he will be glad to explain this grand remedy to anyone. There is no obligation to buy unless you are satisfied. Bon-Tone will help you. Call or write for booklet, "Road to Success."

For your convenience, Bon-Tone is also for sale in South Boston at John S. Austin's Drug Store, Perkins Square, and in Cambridge at the Cole Drug Co., 636 Mass. Ave., Central Square.

AT THE DIAL

By THE RADIO EDITOR

AVIATION will be the subject of music and drama in the Westinghouse Salute broadcast through WBZ and the NBC Coast-to-Coast system at 7:30 tonight. Richard Gordon, Charles Warburton and Florence Malone will play the leading roles in "Leonardo's Wings," a dramatic sketch depicting the first attempts of Leonardo De Vinci to conquer the air. A modern drama of the air "The Lighted Airway," presents Miss Virginia Gardiner, Jack McBryde, Alan Joslyn and other actors. The music for the production is by Cesare Sodero who conducts the orchestra and a chorus of 40 voices.

HARRY KOGEN and his orchestra will give the Yeast Foamers' program which will be heard from Chicago at 8 o'clock through WEEI and the NBC System at 8 o'clock. The first movement of the concerto will be played by Julia Glass, a Roxy protege. The program follows:

To Spring, orchestra; First Movement of Concerto in A Minor, piano solo, Julia Glass; Anitra's Dance, from "Peer Gynt Suite" Puck, orchestra; Solveig's Song, soprano solo, Viola Philo; In The Hall of The Mountain King, from "Peer Gynt Suite," orchestra.

THE FIRST program of a new series to be presented over WNAC and the Columbia System by the Forty Fathom Trawlers will be heard at 8:30. It tells of difficulties encountered by "Old Forty Fathom," Captain of the Trawler "Spray," in the Antipodes at the time of the Australian gold rush.

AN EDVARD GRIEG, program among which is piano "Concerto in A Minor," will be broadcast by Erno Rapee's Mobiloil Concert over WEEI and the NBC System at 8 o'clock. The first movement of the concerto will be played by Julia Glass, a Roxy protege. The program follows:

To Spring, orchestra; First Movement of Concerto in A Minor, piano solo, Julia Glass; Anitra's Dance, from "Peer Gynt Suite" Puck, orchestra; Solveig's Song, soprano solo, Viola Philo; In The Hall of The Mountain King, from "Peer Gynt Suite," orchestra.

THESE VALUABLE GIFTS ACTUALLY GIVEN AWAY

The Boston Evening American offers these gifts to boys and girls absolutely free. You can have one or all of them for your very own without any cost, by securing just a few new readers for the Boston American from your neighbors and friends.

HERE IS HOW YOU DO IT!

First of all, you cut out the coupon from this advertisement and write your own name and address at the top where it says: "Name of Person taking these orders." That shows you mean business.

The very next thing is to get your father's order providing he is not already buying the Boston American every day. If your folks are already readers then surely your aunt or uncle will be glad to be number one on your list.

After you get number one, the rest will come easy. Your neighbors and friends will gladly help you. Just try it and see.

But all orders must be for NEW readers.

Do not submit names of people who now are buying the Boston American every day. Also do not send in names of children.

Boys and girls must obtain NEW readers who live where the Boston American has a regular delivery system daily. It is impossible to deliver the paper by newsboy to homes in the country or in out-of-the-way places and far away cities and towns where no other Boston newspaper has a regular delivery system.

The Boston Evening American can be and will be delivered to homes where any other Boston newspaper is delivered.

YOU DON'T COLLECT A CENT.

The newsdealer takes care of that. All you have to do is to get the NEW orders. Tell your neighbors and friends that they will have to pay only the regular delivery rate to the newsdealer each week or monthly.

DESCRIPTION OF GIFTS

NEDCO MAMA DOLL is one that every girl will be proud to own. She is 28 inches tall and is unbreakable. She sleeps, walks and talks. She has long curls which hang down on her shoulder. Her dress is rayon.

GENUINE COWHIDE PEBBLE GRAINED FOOTBALL—It's a regular size football stitched with extra strong thread and is made to stand rough usage. It has good quality guaranteed pure gum rubber bladder and comes complete with rawhide lace.

THE MYSTERY BOAT has no springs or moving parts, yet it will travel through the water under its own power just like a real motorboat. The motive power is derived from a small boiler which uses canned heat (Sterno) for fuel. A teaspoonful of this fuel will operate the MYSTERY BOAT FOR 45 MINUTES.

You can operate the mystery boat in the bathtub, a dishpan or outdoors in a pond or lake.

UTRA FLASHLIGHT LANTERN is exceedingly smart in appearance, sturdily built, first class enamel, wonderful light. It has a first class silvered arc reflector. It comes complete with two standard size round batteries of 1¼ inch diameter and genuine Mazda bulb. Fitted with extra red and green disks which, when placed between clear lens and reflector, transforms the UTRA LANTERN quickly into a handy emergency lantern or signal light, visible at great distances.

YALE SHADOW BALL is the greatest exercising apparatus ever invented. It's just the thing for developing the muscles, exercises the arms and affording fine practice in foot work.

LADY JUNIOR ELECTRIC IRON is a toy that amuses and yet educates. It's an ideal safety iron for the little lady and it has a heating unit that will not overheat.

WHOOPEE SCOOTER — It has Chinese red enameled metal grip handle; three-quarter inch steel frame finished in imperial red; built to carry 175 pounds weight. It has real solid rubber tires, black corrugated floorboard and is equipped with motorcycle type parking stand and quick action foot brake.

THE PREMIER DUPLEX TOY ELECTRIC VACUUM CLEANER is totally unlike any other toy. It is practical, and, best of all, it is useable! It will actually pick up pieces of paper, ashes, dust and dirt. The base is cast of solid aluminum. The handle, which is 24 inches long, has a black enameled finish. The cheery checkered bag opens at the bottom. The stationary brush, which is made of genuine bristles, is four inches wide.

LINDY AVIATION HATS are made of imitation leather and both the boy's and girl's hats are reversible. The boy's hats are lined with corduroy while the girl's hats are leatherette and velvet.

CHURCH BARRED TO LEAGUE BY DR. MANNING

New York, Nov. 13 (AP)—Bishop William T. Manning of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of New York, in a letter published today forbade a communion service in St. George's Episcopal Church at which the Rev. Dr. James Sloane Coffin, president of Union Theological Seminary, was to have officiated.

The service was arranged for the close of the New York conference of the Christian Unity League. The Rev. Dr. Karl Reiland, rector of St. George's, loaned the use of his church to the Unity League and invited Dr. Coffin to officiate at the communion service next Friday night.

In his letter addressed to Dr. Reiland, the wardens and vestrymen of St. George's Church, Bishop Manning cited the canons of the Episcopal church and the Book of Common Prayer as forbidding any other than episcopally ordained ministers from officiating at services in Episcopal churches. Dr. Coffin is a Presbyterian.

Dr. Coffin made public a letter addressed to Dr. Reiland, in which he said he had offered the use of the chapel of Union Theological Seminary for the services to the Rev. Dr. Peter Ainslee of Baltimore, president of the Christian Unity League.

Bishop Manning, in concluding his letter forbidding the service in St. George's, said:

"The members of the Christian Unity League will not aid the cause of unity by trying to override and break down the laws of the churches to which they belong."

TIETSORT HAD VARIED LIFE

Francis Judson Tietsort, who wrote and edited "Temperance, or Prohibition?" has had an interesting career. He is first of all a newspaper man, who was born and schooled in Detroit.

Because he manifested an early interest in scientific problems and mechanics, his family tried to make him a sailor, clergyman, railroad man, physician and mining engineer. They failed, because young Tietsort got a smell of ink as a print paper in the city room of the old Detroit Journal, and it has been his favorite perfume ever since.

The training had its value, however, for as a member of the editorial staff of the New York American Tietsort was for years in charge of scientific engineering and aviation news, where his work won him recognition and membership in various scientific bodies.

Placed last January in charge of the Hearst Temperance Contest Committee which conducted a survey of prohibition in all its aspects during a period of eight months and has made special studies in Canada and Scandinavia as well. He organized the Temperance Prize Contest for the best essay on temperance, as a substitute for non-workable prohibition. He handled a hundred million words from all conceivable sources relating to the entire subject.

"Temperance, or Prohibition?" was the outcome of this intensive study. He found at least 1000 individuals among his contributors worth quoting. He created a work which contains the whole truth about prohibition, and has received the encomiums of hundreds of eminent men and women.

BESSIE LOVE, ACTRESS, TO WED BROKER

Los Angeles, Nov. 13 (AP)—The engagement of Bessie Love to William Hawks, a broker, persistently rumored, and as persistently denied for several weeks, was confirmed today by the motion picture actress. They will be married soon after the Christmas holidays, she said.

Mary Astor then will become Miss Love's sister-in-law. Mary is married to Kenneth Hawks, a brother of the bridegroom-to-be. The former Mrs. Athelis Ward, sister of Norma Shearer, screen player, is wife of Howard Hawks, another brother of Miss Love's fiancee.

An imposing array of Hollywood film colony luminaries will participate in the nuptial ceremonies, according to Miss Love. Blanche Sweet will be matron of honor. The bridesmaids will be Norma Shearer, Irene and Edith Mayer, Carmel Myers, Mary Astor and Bebe Daniels.

New British Envoy Has American Wife

Washington, Nov. 13—Appointment of Sir Ronald Lindsay to succeed Ambassador Sir Esme Howard is viewed in administration and diplomatic circles here as a compliment to the United States government evidencing the importance the Labor government attaches to Anglo-American relations.

President Hoover is expected to receive Sir Ronald's credentials in February, at which time Sir Esme Howard will retire from the British foreign service.

The first wife of Sir Ronald was Martha Cameron, daughter of ex-Senator J. Donald Cameron of Pennsylvania. She died in 1918. His second wife, whom he married in 1924, was Elizabeth Sherman Hoyt, daughter of the late Colgate Hoyt of New York.

Suspended Sentence for So. Boston Driver

Nashua, N. H., Nov. 13—Richard F. Conde of Bay st., South Boston, caught by police after a chase of several miles and charged with operating an automobile while drunk, was fined $100 and costs and given a 60-day suspended sentence here today.

According to State Motor Officer Boyd E. Mercer and Chief Flanders of Merrimac, who made the arrest, Conde was driving a car which crashed into machines operated by Thomas Burke of Manchester and Georgo Lebel of Manchester.

Heads Tax Board

Washington, Nov. 13—Logan H. Morris of Utah, has been made chairman by the board of tax appeals, succeeding Benjamin H. Littleton, who was appointed to the United States Court of Claims.

13 Arrested for Holding Up Traffic

New York, Nov. 13—Nine men and four women were arrested when traffic got tied up as they were distributing literature announcing a mass meeting for tonight at which Miss Charlotte Tuttle, daughter of United States Atty. Charles H. Tuttle, is scheduled to speak in favor of organizing the employes of exclusive Fifth ave. dressmakers.

"Miss Tuttle," read the circulars which were being distributed to the employes of Bergdof, Goodman Company at Fifty-eighth st. and Fifth ave., "is a student of Vassar College, worked in a Chicago factory this summer and is convinced that all trades must be organized."

Disbar Ex-Minister

Paris, Nov. 13 — Louis Lucien Klotz, minister of finance in the Clemenceau war cabinet, who was convicted last July on charges of swindling and issuing checks without funds, has been disbarred by the Paris Bar Association.

Gives Own Fortune to Plundered Bank

Flint, Mich., Nov. 13—The plundered Union Industrial Bank, from which trusted employes embezzled $2,302,900, is in even better condition than it was before the theft, bank examiners announced here.

Such a statement was made possible, it was learned through the donation by Charles S. Mott, president, of more than three million dollars of his personal fortune to make good the peculations.

When it was learned $3,000,000 was missing, Mott sent an armored car with $1,000,000 of his personal cash to the bank.

AUTOMOBILE NEWS

PROBE OF TOLL BRIDGES TO BE SOUGHT

Washington, Nov. 13—A Congressional investigation into the methods of financing the construction and maintenance of toll bridges will be sought during the next session of Congress, Senator Tasker L. Oddie, Republican, Nevada, told the legislative committee of the American Motorists' Association in session here.

Senator Oddie announced to the committee that he will introduce in the Senate on the opening day of the 71st Congress a resolution providing for a thorough study of every phase of the toll bridge problem.

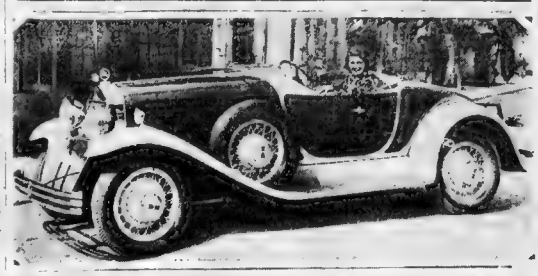
Senator Oddie's efforts to obtain a show-down on the toll bridge question will have the full support of the American Motorists' Association, J Boston Weeks, president of the organization, declared in a statement following the senator's announcement.

"The A. M. A. has for years been waging a determined fight for the abolition of all toll bridges in the United States," President Weeks stated, "and such an investigation as Sen. Oddie proposes should receive the support of every motorist in the country. The toll bridge system is just as reprehensible as the toll gate system.

"It is difficult to understand the present policy of Congress in granting highway toll bridge franchises to private interests. Congress has given abundant evidence of its intention that the Federal-aid system shall be free for the use of tolls on all roads in the construction of which the government participates. Furthermore, the use of Federal funds for the improvement of roads which constitute immediate approaches to toll bridges is expressly forbidden.

"In the face of these legislative expressions, and in total disregard of the recommendations of the Federal-aid Roads, Congress during the last regular session enacted 115 bills authorizing the construction of toll bridges."

Willys-Knight Charms Film Star



Myrna Kennedy, Universal movie star, just had to slip into the driver's seat of this snappy green and black sport roadster, newest offering in the Willys-Knight line of Great Sixes. Concealed door handles is only one of the many features of this model.

THIS BUICK 23 YEARS OLD AND STILL RUNS

No fabulously priced foreign car attracts more attention on the road than the car driven by F. C. Campbell of Rock Hill, S. C., and Campbell's car is no foreign product, it is a Buick—a Buick that was built in 1906. For 23 years it has been in constant use and has served several owners, says H. K. Noyes of Noyes-Buick Co.

Although the lines of the little red roadster attract attention now because they are out of fashion, the engine is seldom out of order, according to Campbell, in fact, when Campbell purchased the car a few months ago from a motorist who had used it for 15 years, it was necessary only to replace one bearing in the four-cylinder engine and repair the magneto to put the old Buick in perfect running condition.

Not only the engine, but the body is still in splendid shape. The fenders, after nearly a quarter of a century, show no signs of damage or wear. The two large headlamps, which are lighted by gas from the big brass carbide tank on the running board, are as serviceable as ever. Of course, the car has neither top nor windshield, such things were "extras" in the days of 1906. An unusual feature in the light of modern automotive manufacture, is the oiling system. The crankcase does not carry any oil, but on the side of the motor is an oil tank of half-gallon capacity with tubes running to each of the bearings, through which a drop of oil is pumped at every revolution of the motor.

Mr. Campbell says the car is very economical to operate, the fuel consumption running about 20 miles to the gallon. It has a maximum speed of approximately 40 miles per hour.

Uniform Road Signals on European Highways

Washington, D. C., Nov. 13—Motor travel on European highways is being greatly facilitated as the result of the adoption of uniform road signals instead of lettered signs, according to the Foreign Travel Division of the American Automobile Association.

A. A. A. motorists returning from Europe have been particularly impressed with the advantages of the uniform signals, which relieve them of all linguistic troubles with lettered signs as they pass from frontier to frontier, the national motoring body states.

Thomas F. Henry, president of the American Automobile Association, points to this European development as affording a sharp contrast to the chaotic condition which still prevails in the United States in regard to road signs.

RECONDITION USED CARS IN NOVEL WAY

Miniature factories incorporated in the service departments of hundreds of Dodge Brothers dealers are reconditioning used cars according to standards never dreamed a few years ago. It has become a business within a business in which used cars accepted by the dealer leave his salesroom with every possible improvement in appearance and performance, and with workmanship guaranteed, says W. M. Little of Massachusetts Motor Car Co., Dodge dealer.

Factory processes are duplicated in reconditioning these cars so that buyers are assured of quality, fairly priced. Special paint and lacquer departments refinish the body and fenders when necessary. Separate shop divisions overhaul the mechanical equipment of the cars to insure the best possible performance.

Because a high percentage of Dodge owners buy Dodges cars again, all employes are schooled in just what work is necessary to attain that dependable performance in used cars and no unit is placed on the sales floor until it is carefully checked and inspected.

Systematic and proved merchandising plans have long been used by Dodge dealers with the assistance of a centralized factory used car department. Accurate statistics on appraisal prices, reconditioning costs, resale value and demand by car types in any particular territory are maintained so business can be conducted efficiently. Guesswork is eliminated by the men who handle used cars of Dodge dealers, for they are constantly furnished ideas proved by the factory used car department, and they are able to convert the sound merchandising plans for the ultimate benefit of the car-buying public.

KNIGHTS HAVE POPULAR LINE

Coupled with the popular Willys Knight 70-B, the new Willys-Knight Great Six line has struck the most popular public accord in Willys-Knight history. This is indicated by the continued wide acceptance of the "70-B" line which was introduced earlier in the year and the high sales volume for the new Great Six which made its debut but a few weeks ago.

The introduction of the new Great Six line, which is entirely different in appearance from any model heretofore presented by Willys-Overland, places the Toledo company in a strategic position in the field of cars that range from $1,000 to $2,000.

Unusual attention has been centered in the new Great Six, not alone because of the distinctive individuality of design but because of the marked luxury and outstanding performance. Motor car designers have carefully studied the striking lines of the new Willys-Knight model and see in the design a high-er order of beauty in the fine car field.

Cause Told for Carburetor Ills

Very often trouble with the carburetor can be eliminated by removing the pipe line and cleaning the same. Usually there is a strainer at the base of the carburetor, or at some point in the fuel line.

This strainer, or trap, frequently becomes clogged to such an extent that the carburetor does not obtain sufficient flow of gasoline. Before changing the adjustment of the carburetor it is advisable to determine whether there are any obstructions and remove same from line.

Oil in Radiator Water Shows Leak

The presence of oil in the water of the radiator is an indication of a leak between the compression chamber and the water jacket. In addition to loss of power, this may result in the blow-out of a cylinder head gasket.

All Cars Must Stop When Signal Turns Yellow

Section 10—Paragraph 2 and 3. YELLOW: While the yellow lens is illuminated, any waiting driver of a vehicle shall remain standing until the green lens is illuminated;—and any driver of a vehicle approaching the intersection who is further from the intersection than the legal braking distance for the speed at which he is traveling at the time the yellow lens was first illuminated, shall stop said vehicle before reaching the intersection, or a marked stop line.

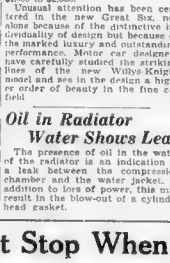
GREEN: While the green lens is illuminated, any driver of a vehicle facing the signal shall proceed, subject to the safety of those who may have been in the intersection at the time the lens was illuminated and subject to the turning restrictions contained in paragraph (3) of this section.

By DIL MILLER McCLINTOCK
Director, Erskine Bureau; Traffic Expert, Department of Public Works.

Hereafter the color YELLOW will have a very specific meaning under the law. It will never give permission to vehicles to enter an intersection. When the yellow signal is shown to drivers approaching an intersection it shall be an order to stop. Safety as well as protection from arrest requires that all drivers approach traffic signals under control.

GREEN is the uniform signal to go. Special turning signals will be used only at different intersections where it is necessary to provide special interval for right and left turns. This condition is well illustrated in Boston at Tremont and Boylston streets.

Dr. McClintock will comment daily on the new traffic rules in the columns of the Boston Evening American.



Limousine Body Sets New Record

Kalamazoo, Mich., Nov. 13—With an increased production of 193 per cent in October of this year over October 1928, the Limousine Body Co., an Auburn subsidiary is experiencing the greatest year in its history.

Production for its first nine months of the year, J. D. Bobb, president, announced, set a new high mark being greater than for the entire year of 1928 and 563 per cent greater than the first nine months of last year. October production will be in excess of 1000 bodies.

Empty Tank May Clog Feed Line

Sediment may be sucked into the feed line from the bottom of the tank if the gas tank becomes empty on the road. This will prevent a free flow of fuel to the motor when the tank is again filled. The engine will sputter and miss.

In such a case try to coast to the top of a hill and coast down the other side with the ignition on. In all probability, the fuel line will be sucked clear of dirt and the engine will run smoothly thereafter.

Safety on Highways

All motor trucks in Connecticut must be equipped with reflectors in the rear. No matter if the tail light of a truck is burned out or dirty, the head lamps of a car approaching from behind will shine on the reflector, warning the truck ahead.

FALL BEST TIME TO BUY AUTO

Sales records show that an automobile buying is somewhat stimulated during the fall months, after the slackening off of the summer which follows the spring activity, according to L. G. Peed, De Soto general sales manager.

"The motor-wise buyer is beginning to look at the purchase of an automobile from the business like standpoint that the fall season is the time to purchase his new car," Peed said. "He realizes that his car he now possesses will be considered as one year older after the first of the year and consequently if he wishes to take advantage of the higher trade-in value of his old car due to the fact that cities are not as many used cars on the market in the fall.

"There are other factors, too, that should be taken into consideration when purchasing a new car," Peed continued, "and these factors all point to the fall season as being the logical season to purchase."

Loose Hose May Heat Radiator

There are various reasons why the water in the radiator becomes hot and boils. Foremost is the condition of the hose connections. If the rubber tubing is not new it becomes hard and the inside layer loosens and partly stops the cells of the radiator. Scale and sediment in the water will also cause the circulating system to get hot. An advanced spark, poor quality of oil, and dragging brakes can be figured in the other causes of this trouble.

Record Set for Speedway Safety

Washington, D. C., Nov. 13—The racing car with which Louis Meyer won the national official speedway championship for 1929 has won prize money totaling $150,000 in four years and at the same time has established a record for speedway safety, according to the Contest Board of the American Automobile Association.

J. Henry Miller creation, the car is the racer which carried the late Frank Lockhart to runner-up position in the 1926 title battle for the A. A. A championship. On Lockhart's death at Daytona Beach in 1928, Meyer purchased the car and drove it to victory in 1928 and 1929.

"Only once in its entire career was it forced to retire from a race due to serious mechanical trouble," says the A. A. A. Contest Board.

"In 1926 Lockahart drove it to win the Indianapolis classic. In that successful race he finished first at Detroit with 12 laps at Charlotte, and others at Detroit, Altoona and Fresno.

"In 1927 he set a the world's Class 'D' racing record for 91⅔ cu. inch cars at 164 miles per hour on the California Speedway, a record that still stands. A month later he set a speedway qualifying record at Atlantic City of 147.22 m. p. h. and a five-mile and 10-mile racing record of 132.56 and 135.37 m. p. h. respectively, all of which still stand. He led Indianapolis through the 300-mile and cleaned up $11,000 in lap prizes. The first that year at Detroit, second at Salem, first successively at Kalamazoo, Toledo Altoona, Syracuse, Charlotte, Cleveland and closed the year with first in two events at Salem. Only two points piled up against him at Indianapolis failed to return him the championship.

"The basis of this car's record all-round driving he was undoubtedly the champion of that year." The record continues:

"In 1928 the car was first driven at Indianapolis. At the 400th mile Gulotta had it in the lead. Then came rain. The race was all-stopped, but it cleared and a split was taken dropped the car back to 10th place. Louie Meyer, who had won Indianapolis, then bought it and placed second at Detroit and first at Altoona, in a year of but five major events. This year he followed by placing second at Indianapolis, second at Detroit 10 days later, and finished by winning both races at Altoona."

COACHWORK IS BIG FACTOR

Motor car manufacturers are giving more attention to coachwork than ever before, a development in the new models now being displayed. Never before in the history of automobile industry has such superb luxury and matchless comfort been built into motor car coachwork.

This decided trend is exemplified in the new Special De Luxe models recently introduced by Pierce-Arrow as additions to the 133-inch wheelbase group of the company's line of Straight Eights. These creations are attracting much favorable notice at the Pierce-Arrow Sales Co.'s showrooms, Commonwealth ave.

The sleek body lines and distinctive colorings of Pierce-Arrows' new Special De Luxe models are further enhanced by the smart interior equipment.

CONVERTIBLES IN DEMAND

So steadily is the two purpose convertible automobile gaining favor in this country that the time will come when this closed and open type of car is likely to be produced for the low-priced field, just as the low-priced sedan of today has been evolved for the leaner purses, according to L. Clayton Hill, vice-president and general manager of Dietrich, Inc., custom body builders of Detroit, in an address before the Detroit section of the Society of Automotive Engineers.

Mr. Hill said the demand for the convertible type has come with the tremendous development of outdoor sports. The craze for the healthful ultra-violet rays from the unfiltered sun and the growing knowledge that exposure to out-of-doors spells health. Weather, too, he said, is a strong ally of the American convertible body, as many sections of the country enjoy long periods of open riding weather.

Studebaker Buses on Railroad Lines

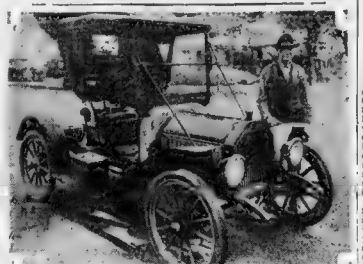
That the automobile is rapidly establishing itself as a valuable adjunct to rail transportation is clearly shown by the purchases of Studebaker buses by many leading electric and steam railways is the statement of G. M. Sullivan, vice-president and sales manager of the Studebaker Sales Co. of Boston.

"Among the many important lines using Studebaker buses as part of their schedules are the Burlington, Baltimore & Ohio, Missouri Pacific railroad, Reading lines, Southern Pacific, Union Pacific, Boston & Maine railroad, Chicago, North Shore & Milwaukee Railroad Co. and Cotton Belt Route."

School for Theft

Police in Philadelphia recently discovered a school for thieves, consisting of seven boys and a man, specializing chiefly in stripping parked automobiles.

Has Same Buick 21 Years



To W. F. Woods of Belvidere, Ill., the veteran Buick car is linked with memories of 21 years. He plans a trip to California in same car he drove there as a pioneer motorist in 1908.

FRONT WHEEL DRIVE CURBS SKIDDING

Safety factors of the new Cord front wheel drive car are such, according to H. C Snow, chief engineer of the Auburn Automobile Company, that danger of skidding is reduced to a minimum.

"This is accomplished," says Snow, "by the low center of gravity of the car, which makes it cling to the road, and by the 'pulling' traction of the front wheels which are always moving at the angle in which power is applied.

"Skidding is caused in most instances by wheels leaving the ground and losing traction.

"With a rear drive car when the rear wheels lift off the pavement in a skid, even though slightly, they gain in speed and when they drop back again at a different angle the car is given a side lurch. Two or three of these skid lurches in quick succession and the car is likely to get out of the driver's control.

"With front wheel drive, even though the rear wheels should slide to one side, the tractive power of the car is always in the direction in which the front wheels are pointing. Consequently any skidding of the rear end has no effect on the line of power.

"The fact, that the unsprung weight of the Cord front wheel drive car is reduced to a minimum greatly relieves the tendency of the rear end to fly up into the air, and hence cuts down skidding possibilities.

"Skidding in turning corners is the cause of many accidents. This type of skidding is caused by the tendency of a moving object to follow the line of motion.

"In turning a curve the front wheels of an automobile are traveling at a different angle from that of the rear wheels."

MEET NEEDS OF THE WOMAN DRIVER

Just as artists, designers and decorators have, for a number of years, been guided by the taste and sense of style of the woman motorist, so is her influence on the mechanical details of the car being felt today in the engineering laboratories of the manufacturers.

In the evolution of the automobile, the woman was given first consideration in the choice of body lines, color treatments and inner refinements. No important step was taken in the art studios of the builder before her reaction to new styles had been determined.

"Women have played a big part in establishing the standards of Chrysler engineers, said J. W. Fraser, general sales manager of the Chrysler Sales Corp. at Detroit, in a recent interview.

"The women who drive are looked upon as important members of the advisory staff in our laboratories. Their demands for comfort and ease of handling largely influenced the mechanical design of the new "72" and "70" models, in which performance and safety are brought to new high levels.

"The multi-range gear shift, an outstanding feature of these models, makes possible a new conception of ease of handling and simplified operation. It is quiet and smooth in action and permits backward and forward shifts between the acceleration and speed ranges without the necessity of slowing the car. This eliminates excessive use of the brake pedal and attendant fatigue. In addition, the absence of grinding and clashing of gears, in making shifts from one speed to another, is exceptionally popular and has aroused keen enthusiasm in women drivers all over the country."

SHORTER VISITS LOCAL DURANT DEALER

Harry J. Shorter, assistant general sales manager of Durant Motors, was the guest of W. H. Stevens, district manager of the Durant Motor Co. After meeting various members of Mr. Stevens' organization, Mr. Shorter expressed his gratification over the spirit of optimism which he finds prevalent not only in Boston and the surrounding territory but among Durant distributors in many cities he has visited.

During the last three weeks Mr. Shorter has traveled through 13 states in the Mississippi Valley, visiting distributors and bankers in prominent cities, and finds them all viewing the future with a spirit of optimism. Among the more prominent of the cities he visited were Minneapolis, St. Paul, Kansas City, Wichita, Oklahoma City, Tulsa and Dallas.

"In LaCrosse, Wis.," Mr Shorter said, "the Durant distributor reported that last month Durant ranked third in new car sales in LaCrosse County, and owners of the new model Six-Sixty-Three and of the two Four-Forward-Speed models, the Six-Sixty-Six and Six-Seventy, are highly enthusiastic over the performance of the cars.

"It is highly gratifying," Mr. Shorter stated, "to find wherever I travel and talk to Durant distributors that not only they, but Durant owners and the general public, appreciate the efforts of the new Durant management, and that everywhere it is realized that the primary objective of the Durant executives is to continue to merit and to increase further the feeling of good will that now prevails."

In his final word to a group of dealers and members of Mr. Stevens organization, Mr. Shorter summed up the simple, straightforward policy that he said governs every merchandising move of the executives—that is, the business code back of their every effort—in the motto: "To build a good product. To advertise it in truthful language and to sell it at an honest price through an outlet that the public can place implicit faith."

British Columbia Bans Billboards

Vigorous measures are to be taken in British Columbia to abolish all existing advertising signas along highways, and those who insist on erecting new billboards along the road with new signs are to be prosecuted.

Every kind of sign will be stripped from the highways during the year, even including those of the forestry and Duty Government signs erected to guide motorists will be allowed.

GRUNDY FLAYED AS 'YELLOW' BY CARAWAY

Washington, Nov. 13 (INS)—The Senate's lobby inves/gation got off to a blazing start today with Senator Caraway (D.) of Arkansas, the chairman, calling Joseph R. Grundy, the Pennsylvania protectionist, "a welcher" and "yellow."

Grundy was put on the witness stand again for a grilling on his previous testimony that Southern and Western Senators came from "backward states" and "should talk darn small" on tariff matters.

When Caraway endeavored to get Grundy today to elaborate on those statements, and to List the Senators and the states that he considered "backward," the ruddy-cheeked Pennsylvanian refused to do so, and Caraway declared that he was "watching, and was 'yellow.'"

ADMITS A "MISTAKE"

Still bland, but obviously in a different frame of mind, Grundy said reflection had brought him to the conclusion his previous testimony was a "mistake."

His appearance before the committee was brief and ended abruptly when Caraway bluntly "excused" him immediately after his refusal to name senators he thought should go on his group of "small talkers."

"I thought that," Caraway snapped when Grundy told him he thought it would be "unbecoming" for him to name the senators, "if I thought you were going to turn yellow at the last."

The Pennsylvanian was interrupted in an explanation of his actions by a sharp "that's all, you're excused," from Caraway.

WORDS STRICKEN OUT

"I don't want those words in the record," he said, "because I kind of like Mr. Grundy. I didn't think he would go through with this. He couldn't have lived through the criticism that would have resulted."

The Grundy inquiry was opened bluntly by the committee chairman.

"You know you agreed you would give us a list of your approved Senators and the others. Are you ready to do that?"

"It would be entirely unbecoming to me as a private citizen interested in legislation to do that," Grundy replied.

"You made a positive, absolute promise—now do you welch on it?" asked Caraway.

BANDITS FAIL IN RAID ON NAVY SUPPLY HOUSE

New York, Nov. 13 (AP)—Eight men, carrying pistols, rode in an automobile to the U. S. Navy supply building in Brooklyn early today, overpowered the officer of the day and five guards, and worked nearly five hours to force the safe, said to contain $86,000.

Failing in their object the men fled in their car. A preliminary check said nothing of value was taken from the building, which is in Third ave. and 29th st.

The holdup men, police said evidently had made a careful plan of attack with intimate knowledge of the building.

Lieut. Clinton Thro, officer of the day, covered by pistols, had no chance to resist before he was seized.

His five guards were overpowered, one by one, and all six were tied up with bed sheets, then thrown into the "brig," a place of confinement for naval prisoners.

HAYS ASSERTS THAT 'MOVIES' CURB CRIME

New York, Nov. 13 (AP)—Will H. Hays, chief of the motion picture industry, told a luncheon of the New York Board of Trade today that the industry, "if it did not cherish more the privileges of sharing leadership in business if the chief consideration in a seat at the council table is virtue of a past service alone."

Although Hays did not refer to the matter, Don C. Seitz, associate editor of the Indianapolis Journal, in a recent address that the effort to raise the morals of the films have been "merely camouflage for the purpose of the filling of seats in every theater."

CRIME DETERRENT

Hays, however, declared that "in the care of the quality of pictures, the motion picture industry has taken such elaborate cognizance of the medium's attitude-forming power that scientists of repute are agreed that the American motion picture, produced under the safeguards now in effect at Hollywood, constitutes a positive and vigorous deterrent to crime."

"We have within the past year increased the weekly aggregate motion picture audience in the United States by 10,000,000," Hays said, "meaning an increase each week of that many direct stimuli toward possession of comforts and conveniences available in the American family.

SERVICE TO BUSINESS.

"The direct service to business is incalculable," he asserted, reviewing the investment of the industry, its huge consumption of commodities necessary for picture making and the wide scope of advertising for sales of films.

Speaking on "motion picture and business," he accepted "on behalf of motion pictures and those countless industries of which we are an

TOO MUCH HEAT IN THE SENATE, SAYS MOSES

Washington, Nov. 13 (INS)—"There is one trouble with the Senate just now—there is too much heat and not enough light."

With this characteristic quip, Senator George H. Moses (R) of New Hampshire, author of the famous "Jackass" appellation for Republican insurgents, returned to the Capitol today and announced an early meeting of the Republican senatorial campaign committee to discuss future handling of the ever widening breach between the eastern industrialist and western agriculturist factions of the Republican Party. He added that he would ask the committee to elect a treasurer, since Otto M. Kahn, New York capitalist, had declined the post.

Moses warmly denied reports that he might resign the chairmanship of the campaign committee as a means of appeasing angry insurgents. On the contrary, he said he intended to launch an early campaign for the re-election of Republican senators who face the voters next fall.

"I intend to call the Republican senatorial campaign committee together within a few days to discuss the situation," said Moses. "This is the regular time for a meeting of the committee, as it always confers before the end of a session of Congress."

Curwood's Divorced Wife Shot by Wooer

Orlando, Fla., Nov. 13 (INS)—A principal in what police labeled an attempted murder-suicide shooting, Mrs. Cora Lee Eden, divorced wife of the late James Oliver Curwood was in a serious condition in a hospital here today from a bullet wound in her head.

Mrs. Eden, according to police, was shot by R. C. Patton of Lima, O., who then attempted to end his own life. He also was near death today.

The shooting occurred at the woman's country estate near here last night, when, according to police, Patton was ordered off the premises when he went to visit Mrs Eden.

Going into a rage when Mrs. Eden was said dto have called a dog, Patton drew a pistol and fired once at her, the bullet striking her in the mouth. aPtton then turned the weapon on himself and inflicted wounds that probably will prove fatal.

There were no eye-witnesses and details were meager. Mrs Eden was able to make only a short statement aPtton refused to talk

SECOND FLOOR

White's Thrift Basement

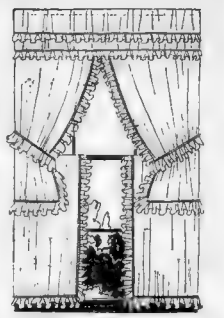
R. H. White Company

The Young Married People have discovered White's Thrift Basement! Whether it's because they find shopping so convenient here with the blankets near the bed linen, and the floor lamps near the rugs, with the curtains right near by . . . or whether it's because it's fun to buy things for a rather new home in a very new basement . . . or whether they find their money accomplishes little short of miracles here . . . we don't know!

But we do see them come in . . . and go out with a gay pottery lamp . . . or some crisp curtains . . . or a smart rayon bedspread! We see them bring in wee tots for shoes and coats and snug underwear! And we watch them come back another day!

$1 for 7-piece cottage sets

Dainty white voile cottage sets with 2 long curtains, 2 short curtains, 2 tie backs and a ruffled valance! Also 6-piece marquisette sets with cornice valances, some with gay checked borders, others with printed ruffles.



23c pair for sash curtains

All white voiles and marquisettes. Also some with novelty colored hems. At 33c the pair, voile with embroidered hems.

$1.38 yard for silk flat crepe

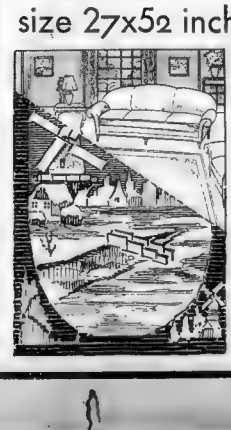
—and there's nothing smarter for street, afternoon or formal evening dresses!

All silk—39 inches wide—heavy quality flat crepe in complete color range. Lelong Blue, Black, Orchid, Patou's Dahlia, Eggshell, Navy, Grey, the capucine shades, White, Black, Orchid, English Green, Brown.

88c for week-end cases

It looks like boar's hide (of course at this price it is imitation) in either black or brown. It's carefully lined in cretonne with a convenient pocket. Complete with two good catches and a lock. Only 88c.

$2.88 for axminster rug in size 27x52 inches that's so useful



A rug with gay, modernistic design is oh, quite smart for your hall in front of the small table! A ship sails blithely over a black bordered rug that belongs in front of fireplaces! A neutral background uses a windmill for interesting color! For the upstairs hall, for the living room . . . there are almost dozens of places where you can use these rugs that come in many patterns and colors, to make your home more attractive, $2.88.

MISSING WINTHROP BOYS ARE BACK HOME AGAIN

600 Physicians to Honor Dr. Leary at Banquet

Air Romance, Better Than "Chickie"

What Has Happened

MARY PATRICIA DAWN, beautiful, young brunette, meets the lad of her dreams in the person of Guy Elliott, aviator. Guy is developing a perfect airplane in the plant of old William Bryce. Happy days follow with Pat and Guy in love. Then comes Barbara Bryce, young widow of Bryce's son, with her seductive lure. Later Guy receives a wire from Barbara and her young son, upon whom old Bryce squanders a fortune. Tom Burns, a workman, rages about the unfairness of wealth. His invalid son is dying for want of necessities. When Bryce refuses a loan, Burns swears revenge. He robs the office safe and is captured after a gun fight.

CHAPTER 10

WILLIAM BRYCE refused to intercede for Burns. This heightened the unfortunate impression that Burns made. He defied pity. He admitted that he planned the crime for days. He was stubborn, hostile, unrepentant.

"It's all a pose," said Guy. "You can get him off if you ask probation and offer to reinstate him here."

Bryce went white with contempt. "And open the safe and tell him to help himself! Probation! I'll NOT ask it. I don't want the fellow on the same planet. Did you get the way he looked when I took the stand? Why, he's got murder in his heart. He's raging with it. I'd as soon take a panther into my bed as Tom Burns back into this plant.

"And you steer clear of him. You don't know what you're breeding for yourself. Mark my words and let him alone."

But Guy refused to state that Burns shot at him. He did not see any pistol in the man's hands. He swore to this. Yes, he was treated for a scratch on his neck, but he didn't know how he got it. He has not felt the bullet.

"But you heard shots, didn't you? You can be sure of that! And you saw him crawl as the, as the watchmen have testified, after his pistol when they were closing in on him? And he fired! Why didn't he? Got up on his elbow and cursed you?"

The prosecution wanted a conviction. Tom Burns was just a case to them. They wanted to win. Get a conviction and send him across—

The case was going as the prosecution wished. It looked like a long term, possibly life, when a newspaper went out and got a picture of Tommy Burns.

They told the story of that dingy cell and its wasted occupant. Tom's wife, against his fierce protest, brought into court.

Mrs Burns crossed her hands. A wisp of yellow hair fell against her cheek. After a moment she brushed it patiently aside. Her mild blue eyes wandered over the room helplessly—like an animal that is tied up and beaten. And the animal looks about in pitiful astonishment, wondering where its master can be.

Finally the judge ordered that she be allowed to talk in peace.

"Well, he thought Tommy could be cured," she said, turning her large eyes gratefully to the bench. He thought if he could only get the money to send him to the sanitarium where Joey Gaynor went! He kept thinking about that until he couldn't think of anything else. He had just that one idea. He used to wake up in the night and talk and talk. After a while it got so he couldn't sleep. He'd wake up after an hour and begin to think. He was sick with it. If ere was only some way we could scheme, or save, if he could earn more. But there wasn't any way.

"And then he fastened on this notion of the $1500. That's what the Gaynors said it cost to cure Joey. He used to stand over Tommy's cradle during the coughing fits. He used to stand there and mumble to himself. And the more Tommy failed, the worse the father got.

"He used to go in a dozen times in the night to look at Tommy. And the day before this happened—all that Friday he kept saying: 'God—he's going to die. I haven't nerve enough to get money and he'll die.' He said this until I could hardly stand it. He was sure that we could save him if we only had the money. He was all wrapped up in him. He asks me all day . . . where his father is.

She was drab with that pair of hands in putty colored wash gloves, her mild, blue eyes and lank, yellow hair. But as her voice went on pictures filled into the room. Tom Burns grew more and more real. Some of the women wept.

Even the judge was softened. He said: "I want to free this defendant . . ."

Burns sat up. He almost smiled. He had a look of wild gratitude—wilder relief.

"But a major crime has been committed. We are not justified in robbing. In attempting to kill because illness overtakes our children. In view of all the extenuating circumstances, however, we feel justified in giving a light sentence . . ."

Tom Burns didn't move. Only the blood left his face. It became a dark mask with two lines from his nose to his mouth . . . He was

PHONE CALL LEADS TO RECOVERY

Weary Pair, Thought Drowned, Were Lost in Boston

Considerably chastened, the two Winthrop boys who were missing since Monday and who once were believed lost at sea, were returned to their homes today.

Young Douglas Robinson, 10, received his paddling immediately, which, after all, is the best way to dispose of a disagreeable thing, but at press time George O'Donnell, Jr., 11, was still wondering as to his fate.

The boys were located in a restaurant near Fenway Park, from where they had telephoned home after begging a nickel from a pedestrian.

While talking the connection was broken, but eventually the call was traced to the right restaurant.

The boys are George O'Donnell, Jr., 11, and Douglas Robinson, 10.

Mr. and Mrs. George F. O'Donnell of Cottage ave., and Mr. and Mrs. George Robinson, Park ave., after hours of frantic search for their missing boys, returned to the Robinson home as the telephone bell rang.

Robinson answered. His son's voice came over the wire. The boy was sobbing.

"We are in a restaurant in Brookline, near Fenway Park. Come and get us and—" the voice stopped short.

The father, excited at the unexpected sound of his boy's voice, thought some of the connection to his aval.

The father notified the Winthrop police and word was relayed to Brookline to search for the boys.

Brookline officers rushed to all restaurants near Fenway Park and did the police of Station 16. Back to, but could find no trace of the boys at first.

On Monday the two chums started out in a rowboat and were last seen going through Shirley Gut, headed toward Beachmont. Their boat was later found near the Winthrop Yacht Club and a search of all nearby islands was started.

Coast Guard and harbor police found no trace of the boys and it was generally believed that they had perished.

The youths said that after they returned to the mainland yesterday from Snake Island they were afraid to go home.

They slid under the turnstile at Winthrop Beach station of the Narrow Gauge Railroad and headed for Boston, wandering around town most of the day.

Finally they heard a truck driver say to his helper, "Beacon st, next." As there is a Beacon st near their homes in Winthrop, the wearied boys climbed into the truck, recognized at last to going home. But instead they found themselves out near Fenway Park.

For several hours they slept in a packing case. The cold proved too much, however, and they begged a nickel from a pedestrian and telephoned

Boy Is Wiser, But Sadder

George F. O'Donnell, Jr., 11, of 39 Cottage ave., Winthrop, who took a little trip in the world by land and sea, with a 10-year-old chum, and after various tribulations was returned to his parents, finds one consolation, and that is Boz, his dog, shown here with the adventurous lad. (Staff photo.)

TUFTS GRADS IN TRIBUTE TO INSTRUCTOR

Medical Examiner Is Returning From College Medical School Faculty

One of the largest professional gatherings in the history of Boston is scheduled for the Copley Plaza tonight, when 600 physicians will pay tribute to Dr. Timothy Leary, medical examiner for the southern district.

The testimonial dinner will be given by the Tufts College Medical Alumni Association, who will present a Washington desk and chair to the guest of honor, who is retiring as an instructor at the school after 24 years.

Officials of state and city will also be present to add their good wishes to those with recruitees of Tufts and Boston University.

Among the prominent persons who will speak are Lieutenant-Governor William S Youngman, Mayor-Elect James M. Curley, Judge Michael J. Murray, District Attorney William J. Foley, President Cousins of Tufts, Dean Begg of Boston University and Deans Stearns and Rice of Tufts.

Dr. George A. Keenan, president of the Alumni Association, will preside, and the speech of presentation will be made by Dr. Abraham Myerson, noted psychiatrist.

Dr. Leary is one of the outstanding graduates of Tufts Medical school, for many years a leader in his profession. In addition to his more commonly known work as medical examiner, Dr. Leary has done much research work of value to medical science, and is the author of numerous articles on medical topics.

Urges Permancy in Marital Relations

"A Plea for a New Sexual Morality" was made at Ford Hall today by Dr. Richard Cabot, Boston psychiatrist, at a meeting held under the auspices of the Judge Baker Foundation and the Massachusetts Civic League.

"There can be no satisfactory reform which does not include the ideal of permanent association of one man and one woman," Dr. Hinkle said.

"The psychological value of marriage rests in the element of performance through which a very necessary opportunity is afforded to both men and women to create something of value from their relations."

GOV. RITCHIE TO SPEAK IN HUB

Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland will speak on the experience of his home State, which has never had a State prohibition enforcement act, at a public meeting in Symphony Hall, December 10, the Liberal Civic League, Inc., of Boston, has announced.

William H. Mitchell, chairman of the league, stated that "Governor Ritchie is not coming to Massachusetts to tell its people how to vote or to inject himself into Massachusetts politics. He is going to describe conditions in Maryland and give practical information such as the voters of Massachusetts will need next year when they go to the polls. The people of Massachusetts will welcome, we believe, whatever contribution Governor Ritchie can make."

While the meeting will be open to the public, some seats will be reserved, and may be obtained by applying at the league headquarters, 101 Milk st

Nell Cantor, Radio Favorite, Is a Bride

That new and joyous note in the voice of Nell Cantor as it wings through the air via radio, and the lilting tremolo plainly evident in its instrumental solos by Fred Berch at the Capitol Theatre, Allston, have a meaning, it was discovered today. Nell, popular radio favorite since broadcasting was in its infancy and the soloist have been married since last Friday.

Now they are living at 39 Nottingham rd., Brighton.

Wife's Ruling Halts Lieut.-Governor's Flight Plans

Mrs. William S. Youngman has her own ideas of how a lieutenant-governor should conduct himself

Youngman let this be known in an informal discussion of aviation with members of the finance committee of Natick.

"I planned to go to a neighboring state recently in a new, tri-motored, all-metal plane," he said. "When I told Mrs. Youngman of my plans, she said:

"'You are not trying out any new planes.

"'When you become governor, it may be different, but I refuse to be a lieutenant-governor's widow.'

"I didn't go by plane," Youngman concluded.

10 Music Students to Take Conductor Test

A college examination in which you only have to wave your hands.

That's what 10 students of the New England Conservatory of Music will do at Jordan Hall tomorrow afternoon in order to pass one of their conducting courses. Each will be given a chance to lead a good-sized orchestra and Francis Findlay, the instructor, will grade the performances.

Keeping Track of Rose Not So Easy

Rose Magrath, 7, of Malden, doesn't care much for police stations. Found in the Back Bay by a messenger boy, she was taken to the station house and her father was notified.

When Magrath arrived, his wandering daughter had escaped from the station and was at large once more.

2 Boys Nabbed in Theft of Movie Film

Chelsea police recovered 15 reels of movie films, valued at $1500, stolen from two Chelsea theaters, and arrested two boys, pupils in the Shurtleff school, for the theft.

Six reels of the films were found near a wharf, seven others in a home, and two in a kitchen stove. The boys will be arraigned in juvenile court.

KILLED FIXING ELEVATOR

An elevator operated by an unknown hand crushed the life from Charles Dyke, an engineer, as he worked in the well of the shaft in the Oliver Ditson building, Tremont st.

Whoever operated the car drove it from the bottom of the well to the first floor and there left it after Dyke had been crushed to death.

Dyke was about 55 years old and resided at Hanson st. in the South End.

Quincy Girl Hit by Auto; Leg Broken

Catherine Foley, nine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Foley of South st., Quincy, was struck by a truck at School st. and Quincy ave. and suffered a broken leg. The truck was operated by a man giving his name as Ralph Gore of Rexligh st., Atlantic. The girl was taken to Quincy City Hospital.

WHITFIELD TUCK STARTS 'FIREWORKS' IN STATE POWER INQUIRY

PRODS BOARD ON STOCK HOLDINGS

Questions Wisdom of Appointing Parkhurst and of His Acceptance of a Place

Verbal fireworks enlivened the first public hearing of the special commission appointed to investigate the activities of the Power Trust today at the State House.

Whitfield Tuck of Winchester first witness sworn, startled the commission by saying that if he were a lawyer he would ask every member to declare publicly whether he owned any stock in public utility companies under investigation.

Former Senator Lewis Parkhurst, a member of the commission and a fellow-townsman of Tuck, said with some heat that he for one did not own any such stock.

"Well," replied Tuck, "I've got the information without asking for it."

CRITICIZES DELAY

Tuck also attacked Parkhurst in connection with the changing of text books in the schools and asserted that if the former senator had known what was in the report of the Federal Trade Commission he would not have accepted a position on the commission and that the Governor would not have appointed him.

Parkhurst said that he knew what was in the reports alluded to by Tuck.

Tuck criticized the commission for the lateness of its public hearing, saying that at this time of the year most recess committees and commissions had completed their hearings and were ready to report to the Legislature, which comes in in January.

SUGGESTED BY WALKER

Wallace H. Walker, secretary of the Public Franchises League, suggested the commission should look into the rumor that certain officials operating companies have blocked the sale of these companies to holding companies until taken care of by the latter organizations with "jobs with very little work."

E. J. Rich said the principal thought the state should have in dealing with the utilities situation is that of ascertaining what the investing public considers adequate earnings for public utilities

Charge Truck Driver With Manslaughter

Less than an hour after John Sredy of Laconia st., South End died at City Hospital today, a victim of injuries from an automobile driven by Dominic DeVetchio of Leyden st., East Boston, was arraigned in municipal court on a charge of manslaughter.

DeVetchio was arrested on a complaint brought by Officer Patrick J. O'Connor of the East Dedham st. station, who told Judge Parmenter that DeVetchio's truck skidded 35 feet before it struck Sredy, causing the injuries from which he died.

DeVetchio was released in bail of $5000 pending trial November 27

Duane 11 Votes Ahead in Recount

Former Mayor Patrick J. Duane of Waltham was leading Mayor Henry F. Beal by 11 votes in Waltham's mayoralty recount when five out of the seven wards in the city had been rechecked today.

Duane was defeated by one vote on the basis of the original count but the recount is expected to end tonight or tomorrow morning.

The completed recount of the disputed ward council election did not effect Thornton Ollis victory over James Smith, the former's plurality of 19 being reduced only one vote.

Declares Boston Has No Real Slums

"Compared to cities of Europe Boston has no slums," said Elizabeth M. Herlihy, secretary of the city planning board, at a meeting of the Massachusetts Civic League inc. in Joy st.

SEEK 15 GIRLS IN A GRAVEYARD 'WHOOPEE RAID'

Further disclosures of wild revels in a Peabody cemetery "night club" were made today by police who swooped down on a "whoopee" party in the chapel last Saturday night.

It was revealed for the first time that about 15 girls and some 20 men eluded the raiding party of 12 led by Chief Edward Pierce and Inspector James F. Murphy. Nine girls and women and 26 men were caught in the raid.

Panic ensued among the 70 "patrons" when the police surrounded the candle-lighted chapel and made their presence known. Dancing, drinking and music ceased and there was a wild rush for the doors and windows. Young women bedecked their escorts for the opportunity of leading the retreat to safety and in the semi-darkness and confusion many escaped.

IDENTITIES ARE KNOWN

Their identities, however, were revealed to the authorities by those captured and they may be called in prosecution of the charges filed against Richard Jermyn, caretaker of the graves, who admitted, police said, that he had conducted the "night club" for a month.

Suspicions of the police first centered on the cemetery following complaints received by mothers of young women who declared their daughters were obtaining liquor in the neighborhood. A trustee of the cemetery, which is located in an isolated section of the city off North Central st., also made a complaint.

The club had a $1 a head "cover" charge, police say, and beer was dispensed two glasses for 25 cents. Thirteen quarts of beer were taken from a coffin table being used as a bar and 20 gallons were found in a tub in the cellar of the brick chapel.

YOUNG GIRLS AT PARTY.

Among the "guests" who did not escape were at least two prominent Peabody residents, but the identities of all except Jermyn are being carefully shielded.

Many girls at the party were between the ages of 16 and 21 and here were a number of older women

Although the chapel has electric lights, the only light in the place when the police arrived was shed by two candles burning in the main room. Another room was in total darkness.

Couples were dancing to a rattle of music between a phonograph and two male patrons who were performing upon a harmonica and an accordion.

Jermyn, police said, has been commonsed to appear in Peabody court on November 18 on charges of illegal manufacture and sale of liquor.

The caretaker denied in a statement today that there was any admission charge to the parties or that beer was sold.

He said he received permission from the cemetery authorities a month ago to hold a birthday party in the chapel and that his wife made beer for the occasion.

The party was so successful that it was repeated on successive Saturday nights, he said, but nothing was sold.

Old Boston in Pictures—No. 106

When the old National Theater at Portland and Traverse sts. was destroyed in a $100,000 fire a library containing 2000 volumes and 500 manuscripts was burned. The disaster occurred in April, 1852. The flames, shooting skyward, were visible for miles

Goodwin Doubts Fay's Interest in Tunnel

Frank A. Goodwin, chairman of the Boston Finance Commission, replying today to the statement of Frederic H. Fay, chairman of the City Planning Board, regarding the East Boston Tunnel, asked why Fay should answer criticism of a plan of which he was not the author.

"I am not at all interested in the opinion of Mr. Fay," said Goodwin when asked to reply to the latter's charge that the Finance Commission used "snap judgment" in criticizing the tunnel plan

"The representatives of the people delegated to the Transit Commission, with the approval of the mayor, the authority to build the East Boston tunnel.

"The Transit Commission for years has held the respect of the people of the entire community, both as to honesty and capacity for carrying through great engineering projects, and it is absurd to have their mature and experienced judgment overturned by dreamers.

"Mr. Fay said that our opinion is snap judgment and that his planning board had been studying the subject for two years. He did not say, however, that the plan he evolved after two years' study was useless and was given no consideration whatever.

"It is rather strange that Mr. Fay should answer the criticism of a plan he had nothing to do with. Why not let the author of it defend it?"

Calcutta to Boston in Thirty-five Days

All records for the Calcutta to Boston run were seen due for shattering today when the Breckelbank freighter Maira radioed she would reach port tomorrow

The Maira will complete the run in less than 35 days, including stops at Colombo, Port Sudan and Port Said. The former record, made a year ago by the Mohanada, was 37 days.

The vessel has 10 000 tons of freight aboard, 3000 tons of it for this port, including 700 tons of Indian pig iron, 2000 bales of jute and burlap, rubber and mica

ICE DEALERS ON HARBOR TRIP

The 1200 delegates to the National Ice Dealers' Association annual convention laid aside dull cares this afternoon and boarded the Eastern Steamship liner Yarmouth for a trip down the harbor.

The morning business session in the ballroom of the Hotel Statler was given over to discussions on trade development possibilities by Robert McKnight and on mergers by Virgil Jordan, vice-president of the McGraw-Hill Publishing Company of New York. Luncheon was served aboard the Yarmouth.

REDUCING DIETS MUST HAVE BULK

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Adds Bulk to a Diet Without Adding Weight to the Body

Doctors everywhere are warning against the recent trend toward strenuous diets for weight reducing.

Many of these new diets are serious in their consequences. Because they lack roughage, constipation occurs. The first symptoms are dizziness, weakness and sallow complexion. Unless corrected, the whole system suffers. Health and beauty are stolen.

By including Kellogg's ALL-BRAN in a reducing diet, you keep fit as you take off weight because you prevent constipation.

ALL-BRAN does not add fat to the body. It just sweeps your intestines clean of poisonous wastes. No pills nor drugs can play the part of ALL-BRAN in a reducing diet.

You will like the appetizing, nut-sweet flavor of ALL-BRAN. Eat it in clear soups. On salads. Soaked in orange, prune or fruit juice. As a cereal with milk or cream. Delicious with honey added. Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases of constipation with every meal.

Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. Served in hotels, restaurants, dining-cars. Sold by all grocers.

BAY STATE LEADS ALL OTHERS IN CARE OF DELINQUENT CHILDREN

LAUDS AID OF ALLEN PROGRAM

Welfare Head Tells of the Work of the Department Throughout State

Massachusetts leads all other states in her system of caring for dependent, neglected or delinquent children, Richard K. Conant, state commissioner of public welfare, asserted today at the second session of the Statecraft Institute.

The institute is being held under auspices of the Women's Republican Club at the clubhouse, 46 Beacon st.

"The greatest encouragement," said Commissioner Conant, "to the work of the welfare department this year is Gov. Allen's public welfare program.

"With the funds made available by it for a complete survey of crippled children, we are visiting every such child.

"The system of caring for dependent, neglected and delinquent children is of the highest modern standard, is unequaled by any other state, and 5807 children are now under care in foster family homes.

PRIVILEGED CHILDREN

"The child who is under our care is greatly privileged in comparison with similar children of similar families not under state care.

"Not only is he clothed and fed better, not only does he have a better home physically, but his education is more carefully supervised, his health is better looked after and his moral and spiritual welfare are given more attention than he ever before received.

"No other state has such a thorough system of follow-up of delinquent children as is in operation under the trustees of the Massachusetts training schools. Mental examinations for all such children have been added within a few years.

JUVENILE COURT

The Boston juvenile court and its probation system are excellent and its standards should be made statewide for all juvenile courts. The standard of neglect is rapidly being raised.

"The activities of the private agencies, particularly the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, create higher and higher moral and physical standards of family life below which the courts are willing to take the extreme measures of removing the neglected children and placing them under our care.

"This has resulted in a considerable increase in our numbers and in our expenditures. The governor's budget now allowed us to increase the expenditures of the division of child guardianship from $485,000 to $1,050,000 and we are asking for an additional increase for next year."

Walden Paving Case Continued by Court

A minority of the 12 Malden citizens who petition for a temporary restraining order against the paving of Lebanon st. by the John McCourt Co., was in Middlesex court today when a bill in equity was called for hearing.

The defendants, Mayor Devir and the street and water commissioners, were present, and the McCourt city solicitor moved that the bill be dismissed on the ground that 10 petitioners were needed. Attorney John F. Neal for the petitioners told the court it was apparent some of the petitioners had withdrawn and asked for a continuance. Judge Greenhalge continued the case indefinitely.

Cambridge Girl to Become Bride

Intentions to wed were filed by Rosamond Jackson, 19, of 158 Brattle st., Cambridge, graduate of the Winsor school and the Museum of Fine Arts, and James Dexter Harris, 22, of 122 Maple ave., at Cambridge City Hall.

The couple will be married Nov 2 at Christ Church. Miss Jackson is the daughter of Mrs. Arthur Loring Jackson.

Governor Allen Is Guest at Palmer

Governor and Mrs Allen were guests of honor at a dinner and reception given by the Palmer Business Club in the Palmer high school auditorium.

The club members and guests were welcomed by Pres. E. J. Loy of the club, who spoke briefly of the organization, its aims and ideals and the present movement to make it of value to the community.

New Physical Instructor to Boston City Hospital Nurses Gives a Few More Tips on Exercises

Miss Anna E. Lomasney, who this week takes up her duties as physical instructor to the nurses at Boston City Hospital, says this is a most helpful exercise.

Leg and back muscles are greatly benefited by this exercise, Miss Lomasney says. The new instructor was given a reception by the doctors and nurses at the hospital last night.

LAST HONORS PAID NURSE

With delegations of Franciscan sisters and nurses present, the funeral of Miss Mary E. Wholey graduate of St. Margaret's Hospital, was held today with solemn requiem mass in St. Margaret's Church, Dorchester.

Seventy-five nurses in uniform escorted the casket from the home of the sister of the deceased, Mrs John Murray, 19 St. Margaret's st., to the church.

Five nurses, the Misses Delia Logan, Veronica Geary, Marie Sutcliffe, Mary McDougal and Ann Petty were pallbearers.

The church was crowded for the mass, which was celebrated by the Rev. John Mahoney, with Rev. Leo Sullivan as deacon and Rev. Joseph Chandley as sub-deacon.

The music was under the direction of Organist Gertrude Devine, and the mass was sung by Mrs. Helen C. Gallivan, soprano; Miss Grace Dignan, contralto, and Stephen A. O'Neil, tenor. Interment was in New Calvary cemetery, Mattapan.

DELANEY CASE IS 'UNKNOWN'

Patrolman William H. Delaney of the Boston police department may be charged with a serious offense and awaiting grand jury action, but Police Commissioner Wilson doesn't know anything about it.

The commissioner said so today, through his secretary, John Merrick, who also professed ignorance of any inkling that Delaney was arrested in Gloucester with Mrs Eleanor Lucas, wife of Ralph G. Lucas, secretary to John Hays Hammond, Jr., noted inventor.

Patrolman Delaney was arrested under the name William H. Eldredge, but was identified in court by his superior officer, Capt. Richard Fitzgerald of the Dudley st station.

When asked if the policeman would be suspended, Commissioner Wilson said he knew nothing about the case.

2 Boys, 4 and 10, Beg Police to Find Dog

Richard and Robert Simonton, four and ten respectively, of 157 Crest ave., Revere, today begged the police of that city to find their playmate, Teddy, a fox terrier.

Teddy, who has been in the family since Richard was born, and who was a constant companion of the boys, disappeared last Sunday. The report of him was made by a little girl, who said she saw the dog on a leash, being led by a man.

The fox terrier has a white body, with black around the eyes, and spots on the body and tail. Anyone possessing information concerning Teddy will win the gratitude of two small boys by notifying the police.

Mayoralty Vacation Is Catching; 'Mal' Has It

When Mayor Nichols vacates his office in January he will start a four-year vacation a-la-Curley and prepare for a second term campaign in 1933.

The mayor said so while addressing the Business and Professional Women's Republican Club of Massachusetts in Lorimer Hall, Tremont Temple.

His remarks were made while he was speaking of a Metropolitan Boston and came as the first definite word that he actually has in mind running for the mayor's office four years from now to succeed his predecessor and successor in office.

"I say to you now," the mayor declared in leading up to his announcement, "that it would be a good thing if there were a better system of government for the cities and towns of Metropolitan Boston. I mean those on the outskirts.

"I do not expect this view to be assimilated right off, but I hope by the time I am on my second or third administration the popular conception will have embraced this idea."

Tremendous applause greeted his statement.

About 400 members of the club were present for the meeting. The mayor was the principal speaker following a 15-minute talk by Mrs J. Hasbrouck LeFevre on World Current Events. Mrs. Anna C. M Tillinghast presided and introduced Mayor Nichols, who started his talk with a mild poke at the censorship situation.

Everett Reserves to Stay Unarmed

Owing to the opposition of the chief of police, the Everett Board of Aldermen failed to take action on the order of Alderman Edward J. Griffin to provide reserve patrolmen with revolvers, handcuffs and other equipment.

In a communication to the board, which was laid on the table, Chief of Police William E. Hill stated that reserve patrolmen had no right to wear a police badge, carry a revolver or have in their possession handcuffs or a policeman's club unless on duty and that they were liable to arrest if these were found on them when off duty.

Boy Turns Sleuth, Recovers Bike

John Linnehan, 12, of Perley st Lynn, exhibited his ability as a sleuth when he made a personally conducted tour of the West Lynn section in an endeavor to locate his bicycle, taken from in front of his home two days ago.

The boy finally saw his bicycle in the hands of John Horlick, Neptune st. Linnehan ran to patrolman Francis Walsh and while the patrolman was questioning the Horlick boy he went in search of George Eskenazi, Myrtle st., who informed the patrolman that the bicycle in question belonged to Linnehan.

FAIL TO AGREE ON WAGE PACT

The second "final" hearing before delegates of the longshoremen's union and a committee of ship operators ended in another "no decision" today on a new agreement for the one that expired six weeks ago.

The meeting, held at 177 Milk st., saw the union delegates unprepared to give answer to the ultimatum laid down by the shipping companies last week.

Charles Stewart of the Cunard Line, spokesman for the meeting, said the men were unable to act on the proposals of the ship men last Sunday on account of work on passenger ships at East Boston and South Boston.

The wage agreement is to remain the same as last year, according to present plans of both sides.

Six Prisoners Sent to Fitchburg Jail

Six prisoners from the House of Correction, East Cambridge, transferred to the Old Fitchburg Jail, are preparing for its occupancy by other prisoners. Two officers, Lewis O. Bateman of Somerville and Ralph H. Woodfall of Woburn were assigned to duty there to see that the place will be cleaned and gotten ready for others.

The transfer follows the condemnation of the East Cambridge Jail some weeks ago as unsafe.

Mothers, Mix This At Home for a Bad Cough

You'll be pleasantly surprised when you make up this simple home mixture and try it for a distressing cough or chest cold. It takes but a moment to mix and costs little, but it can be depended upon to give quick and lasting relief.

Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist. Pour this into a pint bottle; then fill it with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. The full pint thus made costs no more than a small bottle of ready-made medicine, yet it is much more effective. It is pure, and perfectly and children love its pleasant taste.

This simple remedy has a remarkable three-fold action. It goes right to the seat of trouble, loosens the germ-laden phlegm, and soothes away the inflammation. Part of the medicine is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly upon the bronchial tubes and then helps inwardly to throw off the whole trouble with surprising ease.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

LOSES PLEA FOR ANNULMENT

Edward R Laura, 19, of Cambridge, has lost his petition for annulment of his marriage January 9, 1928, to Mary Christina Magliulo of Somerville.

He claimed in his suit, tried last June, that he was forced into the marriage by threats of bodily harm, especially by his bride's father.

Judge Arthur E. Beane of Middlesex Probate Court, who heard the evidence, has decided in favor of the young wife and has dismissed Laura's petition. It has been learned.

Laura testified that Mary's father was the first one to speak of marriage, offering him $1000 and free rent for two years. Laura said he declined the offer. The next time he visited Mary, Laura said the girl's father told him: "If you don't marry her I'll kill you or put you in jail for 20 years."

Two Quit Race for Mayor in Everett

Alfred L. Maggi, former city engineer, and George D. Barry, attorney, candidates for mayor of Everett, withdrew from the contest leaving three running for the office and a possible fourth in James J. Irwin, attorney, who announced that he will be a candidate on stickers at the city election.

Beside Irwin the candidates for mayor of Everett are now Mayor James A. Roche, who seeks re-election; Michael C. O'Neill, former councilor at Everett high school, and George W. C. Smith [illegible]

Cops Find Little Girl But Can't Keep Her

Lost, found and lost again, all in one hour, was the record hung up by seven-year-old Ruth McGrath of Russell st., Malden, for whom police are searching.

The little wanderer walked right out of a police station and disappeared only a few minutes after she had been found.

To climax her record of several disappearances and lengthy tours on street cars, Ruth started out from her home and boarded a street car.

The next heard of her was in the Back Bay, where a messenger boy found her and turned her over to police of the Back Bay station. The police called her mother and the mother went right to the station.

But her trip was for nothing. When she arrived and officers sought the little girl, who had been left in the guardroom, they found she had walked out the back door and again taken her place among the missing.

Boston Firm's Bid Lowest for Work

Word was received from Washington that the Milton Construction and Engineering Corp., this city, submitted the lowest bid, about $75,000, for adding a second story to the immigration station, East Boston. The concern stated that, if awarded the contract, work could be started immediately.

FLATLEY SAYS

NEW YORK Giants are like a college—sign a lot of new coaches each year they don't win—which is each year.

THE sophomores refuse to be squelched. The custom in modern football has been to keep the first year varsity men subdued and more or less repressed. Coaches and experts have had this notion. It was figured that too much prominence might turn the youthful head; reckoned also that the mere kids had not the experience to make them really worth while, no matter how good they looked.

Marsters, a gridiron great two years ago, was kept off quite a few All-America teams for that reason alone. He was the best flanker in the land in '27.

But the sophs refuse to be subdued this fall. Little Able Booth of Yale was first to crack the old tradition on the whiskers. Then Barry Wood came along for Harvard. A couple of Dartmouth sophs made the Green team great. Now Morton comes to replace the stricken Marsters.

The kids are stepping in all around the country. Which is as it should be. The old idea was all wrong, but caught on because the big boys insisted on it for some reason or other.

That Notre Dame team has everything except an alibi, which it never needs—cemetery speak: easy isn't a bad idea; the boys are right at home when they pass out—one drop makes a pauper in the market these days.

The Garden has bottled up all the good heavies; they know the bottling in N. Y.—Fordham put the new fumble rule beaten when it was a Southern politician tried to abolish the Army Navy teams because they didn't play—Waite Hoyt was at the Oil Howard next Waite has plenty of heart officials at Ann Arbor darkness— draw your own ence from that!

BEING over Yale will not help the Harvard team

It see enough of Booth a couple of weeks from now.

The sad and healen heroes.
Into the shadows slink;
They do not mind the licking,
It's what the girls will think.

A NEW wrestling combine steps out this evening. A little competition is good for any business. As little as possible.

COL. BOB McKIRDY is hoping that his next match will strike so are his customers—Bill Grimes says he picks his football scores according to his lights: which go dark at the most surprising times—Mike Costello chirps that the Bruins have some swell cubs—Bill Delaney is leaving Melnia Wagner how to drive through traffic; right through it —Arthur Corwin's tee shot was wind at Winged Foot the other day: o the boys had to make it unanimous—these cops who beat their uts at Roseway Park announce hat the lid is off hereafter for the goal post wreckers—good, Inspector Logan: Don't bet on football games.

BOSTON has seen its share of All-America stuff this fall, and has more to come, with Albion Booth dropping in from New Haven presently. Ben Ticknor, big Harvard center, showed the boys plenty of class in several games, while Mr. Anderson of Dartmouth was not so pivot as great centers go

Then Tony Siano came up from Fordham and made the onlookers wonder how anyb dy else could be picked for the middling position. Nobody ever backed up a line better than Tony Siano shrimp that weighs only 150 or so.

At Marsters and Cagle gave the boys big girls a great treat at the Stadium, Boston College has a couple of ends that for one team can't come close to being tied. There has been more spectacular football packed into this fall than has been displayed in any three previous seasons

And the end is still several parsangs away. Barry Wood is likely to forward pass the Ellis cockeyed when the big clinch arrives. This same Barry would look good on anybody's team.

DID you know that Major Cav has done a whale of a job at Fordham this year: and has half a dozen good offers as a consequence

HOLY CROSS STARS WHO WILL FACE CRIMSON AT STADIUM

Unbeaten Elevens to Face Strong Foes

By BILL [illegible]

OF the seven undefeated and untied college teams, Notre Dame, Pittsburgh, Purdue, Cornell and Tennessee will encounter their strongest opposition this season next Saturday.

Notre Dame, which has met and defeated such an array of strong teams as Indiana, Navy, Wisconsin, Carnegie Tech, Georgia Tech and Drake, will tackle the University of Southern California in Chicago Southern California reputed to be one of the greatest teams ever developed by Howard Jones, has received only one setback this season, losing a 15-7 decision to the Golden Bears.

Bill Grimes

Although the Yale-Princeton game in New Haven is the outstanding attraction in the East, the Notre-Dame-Southern California classic will over-shadow in both interest and importance all of next Saturday's conflicts, besides attracting an attendance of 100,000 persons.

PITT RANKS HIGH

Out in the Smoky City, the University of Pittsburgh will wage battle with its great local rival Carnegie Tech. In many quarters Pittsburgh is regarded as the country's leading college eleven, and judging from the ease with which Pitt has defeated such teams as Duke, West Virginia, Nebraska, Ohio State and Washington and Jefferson, it is deserving of exceptionally high rank.

On the other hand Carnegie Tech has had only one black mark, the Notre Dame game, chalked up against it this season. Tech is primed for Pitt, and due to the layoff last Saturday, is in perfect physical and mental condition.

Dartmouth, another team which has suffered only one defeat this season, is set upon stopping Connell, a hitherto unaccomplished feat this season The Ithacans have played only two big games, Princeton and Columbia, neither of which measure up to the standard of Dartmouth, even if the Big Green is Marsterless.

HARD GAME FOR PURDUE

In order to continue its string of consecutive victories, Purdue must vanquish Iowa this week-end Purdue is the only undefeated, untied eleven in the Western conference, having victories over Michigan, Chicago and Wisconsin to its credit. Iowa has scored wins over Wisconsin and Minnesota, the latter one of the biggest upsets in the Big Ten this season, but the Hawkeyes were tied by Illinois and lost to Ohio State, due to its failure to score the extra point after touchdown.

This week's "Battle of the South" will be fought between the University of Tennessee and Vanderbilt at Knoxville. Tennessee has won seven consecutive games, while Vanderbilt has turned aside all opponents with the exception of Minnesota.

Tulane and Western Maryland, the only other teams in the country which have not been defeated or tied, have easy assignments for this week-end. Tulane, the pride of the Crescent City, will entertain Sewanee in New Orleans, while Western Maryland takes on its old time rival, Mount St. Mary's.

FOOTBALL FANS BACK McCOY

Bob "Bibber" McCoy, only Greater Boston product in modern times to smash his way into the main bout class, will make his debut as a main bout performer in the Grand Opera House tomorrow night when he will clash with Freddy Meyers of Chicago in the feature finish match of Paul Bowser's weekly all-star show.

McCoy started on Saturday and again on Monday with the Dilboy football team, and hundreds of football fans will join the regular wrestling fans in their trek to the Grand Opera House tomorrow night to watch the sturdy young giant from Cambridge in his first main bout test.

"Bibber" has made good with a vengeance this year. Last year, he relied on strength and sheer courage to carry him through undefeated. Now he is master of hold after hold—a natural athlete who promises to make a bid for the heavyweight championship of the world before many years go by.

SHAMUS HIDES OUT IN CAMP

Jimmy Maloney, South Boston heavyweight, is leading the life of a fistic hermit at his Wamesit training camp, where he is training for his approaching conflict with K. O. Christner, the Akron giant, to be staged at the Boston Garden a week from Friday night.

For the past week Maloney has been at camp, and the fact that he is taking his training in a serious vein for this encounter indicates that the idol of the peninsula district realizes that he faces the most important bout of his career. Yet Maloney plans to be in the best condition possible, judging by his tireless work at Wamesit.

It is almost certain that Maloney will weigh closer to the 195 pound notch for this fight than he has in most of his recent contests. He has been tipping the beam over the 200-pound mark in many of his bouts, all of which indicates that he has been training not too seriously for these bouts. But anytime Maloney weighs around 195 or 196, it is certain that he is at the top of his form, and he promises to get down to his best fighting weight for Christner.

Everett Athletes Received Gifts

Joe Mirley, Boston College halfback, came out of the Fordham game with a badly sprained ankle on Saturday, but the pain was alleviated in the locker room after the game, when he was presented with a pen and pencil set.

Michael C. O'Neil, who was a principal at Everett high when Joe was there, was the donor. After the presentation to the B. C. athlete, O'Neil did likewise in the Fordham room, where he handed Jackie Fisher, another of his ex-pupils, a similar gift.

Joe and Jack should be real students now.

Cuban Chess Master Challenges Champ

Paris, Nov. 13 (AP)—Jose Capablanca, Cuban chess master, has issued a formal challenge to Alexander Alekhine, Russian expert, who has just won the world's chess championship at Wiesbaden.

Capablanca previously had sent challenges through friends, but Alekhine insisted on a formal written challenge which Capablanca has mailed.

The Cuban hoped that the challenge will be accepted shortly and expects that the matches will be played either in New York or Bradley Beach, N. J.

Revolving Stadium Urged by Tiger Graduate

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 13 (INS)—Here's pleasant reading for football fans who have spent an afternoon in an end seat of a stadium watching two teams battle some quarter-mile away.

Writing in the Princeton Alumni Weekly "T. G. F., Princeton, N. J." advocates a revolving stadium built on a track to aid those spectators whose seats are behind the goal lines. The stadium would make one complete revolution during the course of a game.

"You will have twice been sitting on the 50-yard line," the writers points out.

Another writer suggests a revolving gridiron as a solution of the end-seat problem.

Harvard Looks for Hard Game With H.C.

THAT Harvard expects a rugged battle from Coach Cleo O'Donnell's Holy Cross Crusaders was indicated today when it was announced that the best Harvard team that could be brought together would start in the Stadium this week.

The Crimson grid warriors get their first introduction to football as it is taught at Worcester today. Almost every member of the varsity squad is expected to witness the first demonstration of Holy Cross plays and formations today

The Crusaders have been carefully scouted for Harvard by Fordyces Blake, former Crimson football player. Blake will outline the Holy Cross offense to Horween's charges for the next few practices, and on Thursday and Friday the Harvard seconds and the junior varsity will impersonate the Worcester visitors.

TEAM SHOWS IMPROVEMENT

Meanwhile the Canabs are steadily improving their own game. Horween's latest move has been to stress Harvard's running attack and polish the defensive and offensive work of the line.

The blackboards come in for a great deal of service around Soldier's Field these days.

As soon as the team reported in togs for the first time since the battle of Ann Arbor, Arnie brought the huge boards immediately into play and demonstrated exhaustively where the mistakes were made last week.

It now develops that Jim Douglas needs a little more than his regular Monday layoff to get back into his best condition. Douglas must have taken more than ordinary punishment from the Maize and Blue backs, for he is due to rest a couple of days more.

However, the veteran left wingman is almost certain of being in the line when Johnnie Harvard mixes things with his old friends from the heart of the Commonwealth.

HARDING AT END

In the absence of Douglas, Vic Harding and Ogden vie for the wing assignment. Both relief ends are considered as A-1 stuff, with Harding slightly ahead of his rival because of his smart work on the end of Barry Wood's long distance passes.

The rest of the team seems pretty well settled as to first string candidates. Capt. Jim Barrett and Bill Ticknor are still the best pair

WEISS BACK IN H. C. LINEUP

Worcester, Nov. 13—With the appearance of Stan Weiss, veteran guard, Holy Cross had its full strength on the field with the exception of Tom Carnicelli of Winthrop, whose leg injury has kept him from practice.

Weiss, who has been absent from the squad since the Fordham game, will not start against Harvard Saturday, but will be held in reserve for an emergency job.

Les Griffin of Everett has a foot injury that kept him from practice, but he will be ready Saturday, while Tommy Cullum is being groomed for a fullback berth

The freshmen will put on the Harvard running and pass plays against the varsity tomorrow.

H-Y Yearlings to Play on Saturday

The annual Harvard-Yale freshman football game will be played at Cambridge on Saturday afternoon The rival yearling elevens of the Crimson and Blue will meet on the second varsity gridiron at Soldiers Field starting at 2 o'clock, the same time as the varsity game between Harvard and Holy Cross.

MIRLEY AND CREEDON LAID UP

THIRTY Boston College football warriors, coaches, trainers, doctor and managers will clamber aboard the train at the South Station tomorrow morning at 9:20, bound for Milwaukee, where the Eagles face Marquette on Saturday.

Today's light practice work at Newton will be the last of the Eagle squad until next Tuesday when they return to prepare for the wind-up with Boston University and Holy Cross.

Joe McKenney names his 30 players tonight. Practically the same group that made the trip to Dayton will go to Marquette. Joe Mirley and Paddy Creedon are the only gridders who won't be able to try and stem the Golden Avalanche. Creedon and Mirley, both seniors, have but one more game to play for B. C.—that with Holy Cross here on November 30. Both are troubled with ankle injuries.

CREEDON-MIRLEY OUT

Since Creedon and Mirley are with the graduating class they'll both be taken along for the trip. But McKenney insists that neither will play even if Marquette rolls up a dozen touchdowns. Which, by the way, is not likely.

The Eagle starting backfield will be George Colbert, quarter, John Marr and Chessy Antos, halfbacks, and Joe Kelley, fullback. The line will be the same as started against Fordham with John Dixon and Charley Murphy, ends; Pete Herman and Jack Young, tackles; Al Morell and Bud Gorman, guards, and Harry Downes, center.

This lineup, even without Creedon and Mirley, looks very capable. And McKenney has a strong second team line and good reserve backs in Jopey Shea, Ralph Mallett and Mike Vodokilys, all of whom have had experience.

Every man on the squad has fully recovered from the Fordham game. There are still a few scattered bruises and the team may show the effects of the rumpus with the Rams in Milwaukee. But there are no bothersome injuries.

PLENTY OF SUBS READY

McKenney will have a job on his hands picking the reinforcements today. He has a second and third team that are both about even. At the start of this campaign it seemed that one of Boston College's biggest handicaps would be the lack of good substitute material.

This was very noticeable in the early games. But McKenney used his reserves on every possible occasion. The result is that they've come along very swiftly. [illegible] you, and Joe's worries along these lines are over.

All of which is well. For McKenney has a few boys on his first team who are able to stand the gaff of a full game. Al Morell, Pete Herman and John Dixon are the "iron men," who could play a double-header and come back for more. This trio played the entire Fordham game and was hitting them just as hard at the finish as at the start of the game.

The B. C. coach will spend a good deal of today's session acquainting his men with Marquette formations. Bud Dower, former B. C. star from Norwood, who is now at Notre Dame, gathered the information for McKenney.

B. C. can beat Marquette, says Dower, if they can stop a Mr. Sisk, who is the whole team. So Joe will have three of his Eagles clamp their optics on Mr. Sisk to see that he doesn't break loose with any of his devastating runs on Saturday afternoon.

Bridgton to Play St. John's Saturday

Bridgton Academy's football team will invade St. John's Prep territory at Danvers Saturday. The Bridgton eleven has not been defeated thus far this season, standing at the top of the Maine Prep Conference at the present time.

Fred "Fish" Ellis, star of Tufts College eleven last year, is coaching the Maine boys. The Bridgton eleven held the Boston College freshman eleven to a tie in the only contest that the Maine boys have not carried off with ease.

St. John's Prep, which in its own class is undefeated, will send a strong outfit onto the field Saturday.

BOOTLEG BALL HAS GONE

New York, Nov. 13 (AP)—The bootleg football, bane of the life of gridiron officials the latter part of last season, apparently has vanished from the earth as a result of vigorous activity against it, reports E. K. Hall, chairman of the national football rules committee.

"Not a single instance of use of the bootleg football has come to my attention this year, said Hall.

It looks as though we nipped it in the bud when we nailed it at the source a few months ago by warning all the manufacturers and by making our specifications for the official ball more definite," he said.

"The illegal balls that made their appearance in considerable numbers late last season were designed primarily to aid in passing.

"Accordingly, they were made with a pronounced "snout" on which the passer could get a grip. But this season we have had no more reports of a salesman approaching a coach with his wares and announcing, 'I see you have a good passing team; you had better get one of our special balls, designed particularly for passing.'"

As to the present football rules, Mr. Hall indicated there was little prospect of any but the most minor changes in the actual content of the code. The new fumble rule, he thinks, is here to stay.

Owls Want Game

The Owl Club is without a game away from home for Sunday and would like to hear from any strong semipro team in the State. Call Hugh Dunn, Highlands 3992 between 5:30 and 7:30 p. m.

Shikat Picked to Beat Manich in Mat Bout Tonight

GEORGE CALZA CHOICE OVER LA DITZI

ONE of the greatest all-star heavyweight wrestling shows staged in New England in recent years is scheduled for the Mechanics Building tonight, when Billy Avery makes his debut as a promoter in this city.

The feature tussle of the attractive program brings together Dick Shikat, recognized in New York and Pennsylvania as the world's heavyweight champion, and George Manich, the brilliant Polish title holder.

Shikat will be making his first appearance in a Boston ring. The young German is fresh from a victory over Joe Stocca, the new Italian hero, in New York on Monday night.

In meeting Manich, Shikat is stacking up against a most worthy challenger. The giant Pole has participated in only two matches in this country since his arrival from Europe several months ago, wrestling both Hans Steinke and Jim McMillen to 45-minute draws in New York rings. Shikat is picked to win.

THE semifinal bout brings together George Calza, the spectacular Italian champion, and Ruddy La Ditzi, crack Hungarian, in what promises to be one of the hardest fought matches on the card. Calza has not appeared in a Boston ring in three years. At one time he was one of the outstanding drawing cards in this city. He has not been defeated in four years of grappling. Calza is a favorite

In the third match, Joe McMillen, the former University of Illinois All-American gridiron star, tackles Joe Stocca. The erstwhile Illini hero has not dropped a decision in his last 53 bouts. He is said to be one of the most colorful young grapplers in the history of the sport.

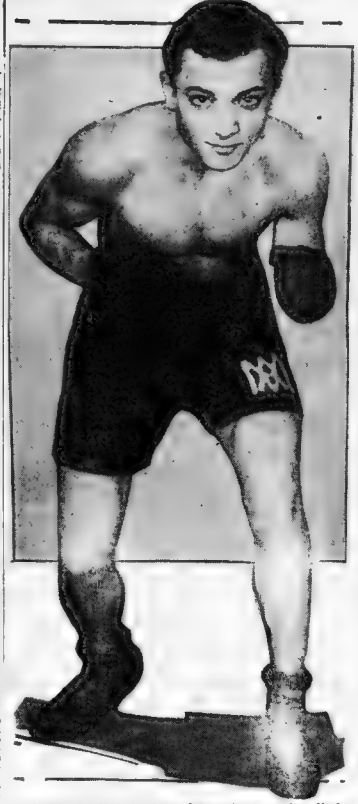
The second contest is a 30-minute affair between Hans Steinke, of Germany, and Joe "Bull" Komar, the Lithuanian, while the opener finds Carl Pojello, the Lithuanian, battling Glen Wade.

Lou Magnolia of New York, who refereed the Sharkey-Stribling bout in Florida last winter and who also refereed the battle between Sharkey and Tommy Loughran, has been selected to referee the Shikat-Manich mat bout.

Managers of the two grapplers had a scrap to name the third man on the mat and finally Magnolia, a high priced man, was named. Promoter Billy Avery telephoned to New York and as Magnolia had an open date tonight he accepted and will be on hand tonight.

EVENING AMERICAN SPORTS

OUT FOR REVENGE



Andy Martin, Hub featherweight, who meets Fay Kosky in a return bout at Boston Arena Friday night. Kosky recently defeated Martin in Providence, but Andy is confident of turning the tables.

KOSKY TO TRY FOR KAYO

Sailor Fay Kosky, bubbling over with confidence, worked eight rounds at Kelley & Hayes' Gym in preparation for his 10-round return match with Andy Martin at the Arena on Friday night.

The pride of the Pacific, after working four rounds with Al Crisp, another featherweight, and blazing away at the big and small bags for an equivalent of four more rounds, sounded off about his coming details with Andy Martin.

"Martin is just another fighter to me," said Kosky. "I've been in 114 fights. I've never been on the floor, have never been knocked out and have never lost a decision. I beat Eddie Shea in his home town of Chicago on three days' notice, but they called it a draw. Ignacio Fernandez twice was given a draw with me, and every other fight I won.

"They told me that Martin was a great featherweight when I came East to box him in Providence," continued Kosky. "I beat him easily there, and I'll be disappointed if I don't knock him out Friday night."

The former sailor boy looked the part of a rough, tough featherweight in Kelley & Hayes' Gym. A southpaw with two busy fists, he kept tearing at Crisp for the full four rounds, with both fists playing a tune to head and body.

A strong preliminary card will precede the Martin-Kosky battle. Frankie Moore, rugged Medford featherweight, and Young Nadeau of Somersworth, N. H., will do battle in the eight round semi-final bout. Moore and Nadeau have failed to put up sparkling battles here.

In the six rounders, Stanley Winters of Lawrence, who beat Peanut Holmes in a main bout in Salem Monday night, will be paired with Frankie Messina of the North End; Al Rackow of Winthrop with Al Linzi of Italy; Johnny Gonzales of Los Angeles with Billy Hindley of England; and Freddie O'Connor of South Boston with an opponent to be named tomorrow, while in the opening four rounder, Bud Dempsey of the North End will make his professional debut against Joe Dow of Lawrence.

GOOD GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON
Golf's Greatest Teacher

There always blends in with the swing the other half—the mental side. The mental side of golf usually is the disease that overtakes the player just about the time he begins to think he's getting good. And when this disease hits you—good-bye forever." It has the same effect with your golf principles and methods that a tornado has in a shingle factory. If you have followed me in these lessons you should have acquired a golf swing which you can execute without much thinking about it. That was what I set out to accomplish for you, and designed my lessons for you accordingly. There is, of course, always certain thinking that associates with golf playing. Unfortunately, perhaps, this isn't a matter where the dumber the better applies. At this point in your development it will be advisable to get straight on the mental side of golf, so now a few lessons will have to do with that.

Rockne Directs Team From Chair

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 13 — Knte Rockne resumed the Notre Dame football coaching reins, which he relinquished because of an infected leg, October 26. He was driven to Cartier field in an ambulance and from his wheel chair directed preparation of the Irish squad for its game with Southern California at Chicago, Saturday.

Rain drove the gridmen into the gymnasium, but there Rockne lectured on Southern California plays and watched the first and second teams on defence against the Trojan formations of tackles Horween can find in his squad, while Johnny Trainer and Bus Talbot continue to hold down the guard assignments in capable fashion.

While Ben Tinkhor continues to be the talk of Cambridge, by reason of his masterly work around the center of the Harvard line, the absence of Henry Gildea, as a relief center, is said to be keenly felt by Horwcen.

GILDEA STILL OUT

Gildea received a banging in the Florida tilt which seems to have put him out of the running, temporarily, at least. Horween still has Richards and Cunningham for sub pivots, but Gildea's experience would go a long way towards strengthening this spot.

Red Record, whose ability as a fast travelling back is rapidly gaining recognition from the Cantab seniors, is another of whom great things are expected.

While the former Brookline high-speedster is just now, perhaps, the most inexperienced of the Harvard backs, he has enough natural ability to come along fast as a carrier

There is just a chance that Record may get his opportunity to flash in the Yale game. So far he has been moving up steadily, and is now a running mate of Sam Batchelder and Tommy Gilligan on Bill Wetmore's B team.

The A team backs, consisting of Wood, Devens, Putnam and Harper, are all in great shape for the coming festivities.

Harvard will watch the outcome of the Yale-Princeton game with interest this week. According to opinions around Cambridge, no matter how the game in the Bowl comes out, Harvard is sure to benefit. They say that if Yale overwhelms the Tigers, the Elis run a risk of being over-confident when they play Harvard.

And if Princeton manages to hold the Blue team to a low score, then Harvard is going to look all the better two weeks from now. Figure it out yourself.

U. S. NET BODY FAVORS OPEN TOURNEYS

New York, Nov. 13 (AP)—The executive committee of the United States Lawn Tennis Association has cabled to the International Lawn Tennis Federation a proposed amendment to that body's regulations designed to bring about "open" competition between amateur and professional players of the game, it was announced today.

This action marks the first step taken by any nation holding membership in the federation looking toward an open championship. The proposal, in effect, will allow each national association to sanction such competition by giving written permission.

Already communicated to the secretaries of the federation in Paris, the proposed amendment is slated for discussion and action at the annual meeting there on or about March 15, 1930, and if passed by a two-thirds vote, will become effective immediately.

Youth Wins Decision Over Johnny Dundee

New York, Nov. 13 (INS)—Youth today held another verdict over age. Johnny Dundee, 36-year-old veteran of 18 years of ring campaigning and some 400 fights, dropped a 10-round decision to youthful Georgie Goldberg at the Brooklyn Boxing Club after a desperate battle to avert the humiliation of a knockout.

Marsters to See Teammates Play Against Cornell

Hanover, N. H., Nov. 13 — Plans have been made to bring Al Marsters to the field and allow him to see his teammates start against Gil Doble's undefeated Ithacans in the game to be played on Memorial field Saturday.

Marsters' condition has been improving in the past week, and Dr. Gile, his attendant physician, stated that if nothing unlooked for happens between now and Saturday, he ... the Green ... to be able ... watch the game.

Harvard Games to Start Earlier in '30

Football games at Harvard next year will start half an hour earlier than the usual starting time for Stadium tilts

The Vermont and Springfield games, which are Harvard's openers for 1930, will start at 2.30 p. m., instead of 3 p. m., and the Army and Dartmouth games will start at 2 p. m. instead of 2 30.

The remainder of the games will start at 2 o'clock.

Novice Boxers to Get Big Chance

Amateur boxing, riding high on a wave of popularity, will have another session Saturday night in Mechanics Building, when St. Joseph's T. A. S. will conduct its weekly tournament.

Bruins Off to Open Season at Detroit

THE Boston Bruins squad will leave Boston this afternoon, headed for Detroit and an opening game of the National Hockey League season there tomorrow night.

Manager Art Ross is taking 14 players to Detroit. They are Tiny Thompson, goaler; Capt. Fred Hitchman, Eddie Shore and George Owen, defense players; Percy Galbraith, Bill Carson and Perry Oliver, A line forwards; Dit Clapper, Cooney Weiland and Dutch Gainor, B line forwards; and Martin Barry, Art Gearne, Bob Taylor and Mickey MacKay, the C line forwards

The Bruins' manager intends to open the season with the same team which started the Stanley Cup games a year ago. Galbraith will be at left wing, Bill Carson at center, Harry Oliver at right wing, Shore and Hitch on defense, and Thompson at goal

The Bruins squad is so constituted, however, that it is hard to call the A line any more of a regular line than the B line, which has Clapper at right wing, Weiland at center and Gainor at left wing.

That line is playing together for a second successive year and those who have watched the Bruins in practice look for it to become famous as one of the most remarkable lines in hockey

The Detroit Cougars, whom the Bruins meet tomorrow night, long have been fierce rivals of the Boston team. Their battles at the Garden a year ago were among the fiercest of the hockey season, bad blood being shown early in the season in a Detroit game and continued in every other game.

It was the Bruins-Detroit series a year ago that uncovered the famed Shore-Brydge rivalry, and the big Boston defense player can look for a warm reception at the Cougars' rink tomorrow night.

It is predicted that Detroit will be the team to battle the Bruins in the American division Capt Reg Noble will be the nucleus of the defense, and Dolly Dolson, a fine goaler, will be in the nets

Harold Hicks or Harvey Rockburn probably will pair with him Jim Herberts hasn't been going well in practice, but Manager Jock Adams expects him to be ready for the league games

70 Extra Trains for Yale-Tiger Game

New Haven, Ct., Nov. 13—The New Haven railroad completed arrangements for transporting fans to the Yale-Princeton football game at the Bowl Saturday

There will be about 70 extra trains, 28 each way between New York city, and two each way from Springfield, Boston and Providence. They expect to carry about 30,000 fans.

Amherst Strong for Williams Game

Amherst, Nov. 13—The Amherst College grid squad showed some of its old strength as it resumed practice for the closing Little Three contest with Williams this week

Fully satisfied with the passing attack that counted so heavily against Tufts, Coach Wheeler is spending much time on the running plays

TIGERS PLAY ARROWS TONIGHT

THE Tigers will be out to give their popular manager, Eddie Powers, a birthday present when they meet the Philadelphia Arrows in their second Canadian - American League game of the season in Philadelphia tonight.

Edward first saw the light in Toronto some 40-odd years ago.

Capt. Deacon Waite said that the Tigers would try to get a goal for every year but Eddie declined to set an exact figure

The team will go against the Arrows with the same lineup which met New Haven Eagles last Sunday. "Yank" Boyd, who played a sensational game in the opener, apparently has clinched the right wing assignment in competition with the veteran Eddie Burke.

Incidentally, "Yank" is at home in Philadelphia for he was born there 22 years ago and lived there until he was eight years old, when his family moved to Toronto.

"Dutch" Osborne, tall recruit from Bowmanville, probably will get his first chance to play for the Tigers tonight. He has shown great promise in practice but was held out of the opening game.

Bill Regan, big defense man from Creighton Mines, will be used in a relief role again Manager Powers wants to break him into professional hockey gradually and has enough veteran defense men to make it possible

The Tigers will return to Boston on the sleeper after tonight's game

THOUSANDS of friends of St. Mark's and Groton gathered today for the annual grid game of these teams. The battle at Southboro, is the 41st of the series played by the noted private schools.

Any St. Mark's-Groton game has a decided family following, for a large part of the crowd which gathers to see the teams in action is made up of fathers, mothers sisters, brothers and a flock of other relations of the players.

Alumni of the schools travel long distances for this one contest. And the games usually are worth all the trouble taken by the fans to get to the scene of the fray.

Groton is favored to take the verdict in the battle today, though it is outweighed by the St. Mark's team. St. Mark's averages a bit better than 164½ pounds per man, while Groton has a 162¾ pound average. The weight advantage or disadvantage, is distributed very evenly through the backfields and line.

Charles Potter, James Weeks and Ellsworth Bailey of Groton have scored 66 points this year. Any of these three boys is liable to break loose and give Groton an early lead.

St. Mark's has but one back who compares, in scoring ability, with these Groton stars. He is Charles Sargent, left halfback. He has tallied 38 points this season. That is almost twice as many as any of the three best Groton carriers. If Sargent gets away once or twice today, he may upset the dope by giving his school a victory.

The game today should be close, with the issue in doubt right down to the final whistle.

Charlestown and South Boston come to the Wigwam this afternoon. Their clash should be one of the closest of the school program of this week. South Boston has rolled along well this year aided greatly by the classy Curran to Spinale passing combination.

These latter two boys have developed an aerial attacking combine that threatens any Southie foe Curran tosses the passes accurately, but Spinale always is camped under them when the ball and the proper moment arrives.

EVENING AMERICAN SPORTS

MR. BOSTON

by JACK CONWAY

Jack Conway

MR. Boston, speaking before the Chelsea Y. M. H. A., was asked the secret of picking winners of football games.

"All one has to do is to find out who all the experts are naming to win and then string along with the other outfit," chirped the veteran.

"Speaking seriously, though, picking winners of football games is one of the hardest jobs in the world.

"With the open game, a well directed forward pass can turn defeat into victory with only a few seconds to go. And, also remember that an intercepted forward pass can upset everything as happened when Yale defeated Dartmouth."

IN reply to a question about the heavyweight situation, Mr. Boston declared he rated Jack Sharkey as the world's leading big man.

William Muldoon, veteran member of the New York Athletic Commission, proclaimed Sharkey as American heavyweight champion," declared Mr. Boston. "Eugene Buckley of the Massachusetts Commission announced that in his opinion the Boston contender should be declared world's champion.

"Edward C. Foster, chairman of the Rhode Island Commission and chairman of the champion ship committee of the National Boxing Association, placed Sharkey first in his ranking of heavyweights.

"I BELIEVE the New York Garden paved the way for clearing up the heavyweight muddle when it took over the contracts Humbert J. Fugazy held with Schmeling, Scott and Campolo. It already had Sharkey under contract for a Miami fight and, very naturally, will work in the direction of a Sharkey-Schmeling bout."

MR. BOSTON told his audience that athletes must think clean and live clean to reach the top.

"Perfect physical condition is necessary for athletic success," said the veteran. "The majority of athletes who end up physical wrecks receive their setbacks as a result of night life. They burn out under the bright lights. The modern athlete realizes this condition and is careful of his mode of living during his periods of activity."

Irish Meusel Joins Up With McGraw

New York, Nov. 13 (INS)—John H. McGraw's plan to build up a coaching staff, composed of former New York Giants was nearer completion today with the announcement that Emil "Irish" Meusel had been named as a coach for the 1930 season.

Meusel, with Dave Bancroft will replace the Ray Schalk-Bert Niehoff combination that functioned during the past season.

Baseball Magnates to Meet Dec. 12

Chicago, Nov. 13 (AP)—Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis today issued a call to major leagues and their constituent clubs to meet at the Roosevelt Hotel, New York, at 11 a. m., December 12.

Waite Hoyt to Sing at Local Theaters

Waite Hoyt, one of the mainstays on the New York Yankees' pitching staff, will appear at the Howard and Bowdoin Square Theaters all next week.

Hoyt is playing the twin circuit, hitting in a double-header each day. Today he opens with his work at the Howard, Waite goes across the road to the Bowdoin, where he repeats.

Waite Hoyt has a fine voice, and sings with enough class to hold his own with fast company. Any time the arm goes bad, and his baseball days are over, Waite Hoyt will have a flock of booking agents on his trail.

Clark Is Elected Exeter Captain

Exeter, N. H., Nov. 13—William B. "Bill" Clark of Amesbury, Mass., who scored Exeter's first touchdown against Andover Saturday, and the first to be scored on the new field, was elected captain for the 1930 eleven.

K. O.'D SONNY; GETS 30 DAYS

Los Angeles, Nov. 13 (AP)—Sentenced to serve 30 days in jail for assault and battery on Gus Sonnenberg, heavyweight wrestling champion, Pete Ladjone, promoter, was free today under $1000 bail.

Sonnenberg testified that Ladjone telephoned him October 22 for a conference on proposed wrestling matches. He met Ladjone on a downtown street corner.

"We walked to Sixth and Broadway (a principal intersection) and stopped to talk—then, quick as lightning, something struck me in the face and I went out," said Sonnenberg.

"When I came to in a second or so was standing over me saying he had licked the world's champion and that I was a cheesey champion anyway." The jury deliberated 10 minutes.

Sonnenberg and Lewis Meet on Mat Tonight

Los Angeles, Nov. 13 (AP)—Ed "Strangler" Lewis, former heavyweight wrestling champion, again will seek to regain his lost laurels in the ring here tonight in a bout with Gus Sonnenberg, title holder.

The match, with the championship going to the winner of two out of three falls, follows one staged here several weeks ago when Sonnenberg won the deciding fall after seconds for both grapplers had jumped into the ring.

B. U. FACING HARD GAME SATURDAY

THE Geneva-Boston University game at Nickerson Field Saturday will mark the first appearance of the visitors from Beaver Falls, Pa., in Boston since 1927, when they took Boston College into camp at Braves Field.

Geneva will bring a husky squad of 27 football warriors coached by Mack Fleniken, who starred at that college when Bo McMillan held the coaching reins.

In Fleniken, the visitors have a young aggressive coach who learned his football from an able teacher. The present Geneva mentor is passing down all of McMillan's knowledge plus his own tricks of the trade and as a result, B. U. is preparing to meet a smart scrappy eleven Saturday.

Geneva holds victories over Thiel and Duquesne and played a scoreless tie with Allegheney, Grove City, Lake Forest and Davis and Elkins, on the other hand, defeated Geneva but not without stiff battles.

Coaches Reggie Brown and Ed Robinson are leaving no stone unturned in bringing their charges around to top form for Saturday's clash.

The Terriers have never been defeated on their own gridiron and intend to keep this record unsmirched. The B. U. players all realize that they must show a much better brand of football against Geneva than they did against Holy Cross to turn the trick.

A scrimmage between varsity and seconds will feature today's workout. It was originally planned to send the freshmen against the varsity but coach Washburn of the Terriers is priming his charges for their game with St. Anselm's Saturday and he does not wish to risk injuring any of his men in scrimmage.

No change is expected in the Terrier lineup but many of the regulars have been laid to understand that unless they show a big improvement over their game last Saturday, there may be some new faces to answer the opening kickoff Saturday.

Draw Big Crowds

A dozen or more teams are expected to play to season's attendances of more than $60,000 this fall.

NORWELL CLUB MEETS FITTONS

The undefeated Fitton A. C. football eleven will clash on Sunday afternoon with the Union A. A. of Norwell at Fort Banks, Winthrop. This game will be the last contest for the Fittons prior to their annual football classic with the Pere Marquette eleven, which is scheduled for a week from Sunday at Fenway Park.

Tony Bard, former Boston College star and coach of the Fitton eleven, is pointing his charges for the Pere Marquette contest, giving his team a tough assignment before the game with the Chevy outfit.

Moe Ashton, the dusky youth from Everett and formerly one of the leading interscholastic stars, has joined the ranks of the Union A. A. along with Madigan of Fordham.

The Union football squad held the Pere Marquette team to 12 points and will force the Fittons to the limit.

George Toporcer Suspended for Year

St. Louis, Nov. 13 (AP)—George Toporcer, second baseman of the 1926 Cardinal club champions of the International League, who has been recalled by the St. Louis Cardinals for 1930 after having been suspended for one year from the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues, it was announced here today.

Stanage to Stay With Pirates

Pittsburgh, Nov. 13 (AP)—Oscar Stanage has signed a contract to remain as a coach of the Pittsburgh National League baseball team in 1930, the club management announced today. Stanage who is reported to have been contemplating joining the Chicago White Sox as coach under Manager "Donie" Bush, former Pirate pilot.

Society Gathers at Chilton Club to Greet Miss Gertrude Peabody

Plan Many Fetes for Mr. and Mrs. Maxim Karolik, Due to Visit Hub Soon

THE CHILTON CLUB WOULD seem to be the place for debutante teas this season, which is after all as it should be, inasmuch as it is the most exclusive women's club in town and at the same time exceedingly attractive. Here Miss Gertrude Peabody was presented this afternoon by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Rodman Peabody of Brush Hill rd., Hyde Park. The mother, gowned in black velvet, received her guests with her daughter, who wore for this occasion an apricot chiffon fashioned with a plain bodice and a long full skirt. Miss Harriet Morse of Milton was head pourer and those assisting with tea and such included Miss Anne Peabody, a sub-deb sister of Miss Peabody's,* Miss Hope Richardson, Miss Rebecca Hallowell, Miss Anne Houghton, Miss Beatrice Murray, Miss Katharine Robinson, Miss Dorothea Newman, Miss Priscilla Prince, Miss Elizabeth Hovey, Miss Elizabeth Hobbs, Miss Grace Minot, Miss Mary Chase, Miss Bramhall, Miss Manne Miss Helena Thompson Wendell, Miss D. and Miss Alice a coterie was made up e buds for the mo- post debutantes ouse and Miss Mar- ated Mr. Pea- both a provisional Junio and a Vincent Club mem ber

MR. AND MRS. MAXIM KAROLIK, the former Mar tha C. Codman, daughter of the J. Amory Codmans of Boston, will visit the Hub about Thanksgiving. They are planning their arrival at the Ritz-Carlton for Wednesday, the 27th, as almost continual stream of entertaining is on the calendar in their honor. Mr. Karolik, whose marriage to the well-known Washingtonian took place about two years ago on the French Riviera, will give his first Boston recital at Jordan Hall, the evening of December 2. Washington has been the home of the Karoliks since their marriage, although they have played prominent parts in the social life at Newport and on the Riviera. Mr. Karolik's European reputation as a singing artist and Mrs Karolik's tremendous interest in musical things have kept them very much in the foreground of those in society who "do things."

INVITATIONS WERE RE- ceived today to the effect that Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brewerton Duane and Miss Marion Livingston Duane will be "at home" on Saturday, December 7, from four until seven o'clock, at their residence on Beacon st. There will be dancing. Mrs. Duane has entertained extensively the younger set. Four years ago she gave a sub-debutante house dance for the former Miss Eleanor S. Perkins (Mrs. Charles Terry Collens). The following winter she gave a deb luncheon for this same charming daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brooks Perkins. On October 5 of this year Mrs. Duane's son, Harry B. Duane, Jr., was married to Miss Eleanor Spencer Holmes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wyman Holmes of Cambridge. This young couple are now residing in the town across the Charles. Miss Duane is a graduate of Miss May's school and a provisional member of the Junior League.

MISS EUGENIE FROTHINGHAM, Vincent Club member whose specialty dance was the hit of the Harvard revue, "Close-up," last spring, is devoting part of her time to teaching aesthetic dancing at the Ellis Memorial Neighborhood House. (Staff Photo.)

IT IS INTERESTING TO notice that the year following their "coming out" many girls turn once again to their books To be sure those seeking college life hie themselves to Vassar, Bryn Mawr or Smith, but not in frequently do they stay at home and attend Radcliffe or Boston University Among those taking courses at the latter is Miss Lu ita A Leland, daughter of Mr and Mrs. Charles F. Leland o. Marlborough st. Miss Cora Ly man, daughter of Dr. and Mrs Henry Lyman of Commonwealth ave., is studying at the well known Cambridge institution.

AT THIS SEASON HUNTING is very much to the fore. On Monday Mr. and Mrs. Walter Channing of Buxton, Dover, entertained at a hunt breakfast following the Norfolk Hunt Club meet. Today for the drag hunt those planning to ride to the hounds are assembling at Piaff House in Medfield. The huntsmen's rendezvous Saturday will be at The Plains, Walpole.

STILL MORE PRENUPTIAL affairs have been planned in honor of Miss Rosamond Jackson and James Dexter Harris, whose wedding is to take place on Friday, Nov. 22. Wednesday, the 20th, Mr. Harris' mother, Mrs James Elden Harris, is having a luncheon party for the bride-elect at her home in Maple st., Malden The following evening, Mrs. Arthur Loring Jackson is giving a large dinner for her daughter and Mr. Harris, this to take place at the Oakley Country Club.

THIS MORNING AT THE Boston Museum of Fine Arts an interested crowd attended Dr. Sarah Ellen Palmer's lecture entitled, "Michelangelo and Mussolini." Dr. Palmer told many fascinating facts about Rome of the past in contrast to the life of Italy's capital nowadays. This was the second of a series of three lectures. The topic of the final one is Romance in the Caribbean, which is the story of a voyage to the West Indies. Dr. Palmer's subject matter is drawn from research work done during her extensive travels. When at home she resides in Ware Hall, Cambridge.

THE SECOND WEDNESDAY morning lecture on Interior Decoration took place at the Algonquin Club this morning where the remainder of the talks will also be held on November 20, December 11, January 15, February 5. They are for the benefit of the Boston Children's Friend Society and are under notable patronage. The talk was well attended.

WOMEN HEAR OFFICIALS OF STATE

MORE than 300 women attended the Statecraft Institute, held under the auspices of the Massachusetts Women's Republican Club, and after hearing officials explain State and city activities, pledged a silent vote of assistance.

The speakers included George A Nutter, member of the Massachusetts bar examiners, and Capt. George A. Parker, registrar of motor vehicles. Mrs. Franklin W. Hobbs, president of the club presided

Mr Nutter called for the women s assistance in realizing the appointment of district attorneys by the State and in establishing higher standards for admission to the bar

Extolling the appointment of judges as the best foundation for any judicial structure, Nutter called attention to the careful restrictions necessary lest politics be the guiding hand in such appointments

He hinted at court caste, when he said: "There is justice in the criticism that the rich have the advantage in our judicial system, and the rights of the poor must be protected"

In pointing out the gaps of the judicial system in our state, Nutter said:

"We are regarded as backward in the standards of our legal profession. The requirements for the admission to the bar are so low that we are overloading the legal profession, and as result we have am bulance chasers.

"Our educational requirements for admission to the bar is equivalent to two years of an evening high school. We are 31st on the list of states as far as legal requirements go. The remedy of this situation rests with the Legislature and not with the bench or bar.

"We must look to the power of public opinion for improvements in our judicial system. The laymen can help more than the lawyer or the judge."

Sleeves Receive Great Attention as Courturiers Create Some Highly Original in Cut or Design

(SKETCHED IN PARIS)

Many New Types of Sleeves Shown in Fashion Center

Paris Bureau of the Boston Evening American

PARIS, France, Nov. 13— The call to arms continues! Most of the dresses and coats seem in the new theatrical presentations are distinguished by sleeves that are not only highly original in cut or design, but are often the most decorative feature of the scheme in marked contrast to a frock of intriguing simplicty.

We show today two sketches, a dress and a coat, and in each the sleeve or its trimming is at once noticeable for its individuality and its success in supplying that something different that is so delightful when it can be achieved without any hint of the extreme or bizarre.

Ardanse, who has made some dinner frocks with highly decorative bejewelled sleeves, is responsible for the very intriguing afternoon coat that we have had sketched for you. It is somewhat Russian in type, and is of hunter's green velvet, fastening at one side with large velvet covered buttons.

The coat fits very closely about the figure and has a circular flounce somewhat deeper at the left side. The trimming is of gray astrakan, and it will be observed that a successful endeavor has been made to create a cuff that is pleasantly original

(SKETCHED IN PARIS)

MLLE. GABRIELLE DORZIAT, a great favorite with playgoers here, is appearing at the Theatre Michel and has assembled a particularly delightful stage wardrobe. Shown herewith is one of the dresses, selected because it is of vast interest in a sleeve sense. It was made by Augustabernard, who dresses many stars of the theatrical firmament. The fabric is a heavy crepe de chine in a lovely shade of leaf green.

APPLIQUED folds cut in the form of scallops trim the bodice and skirt. The scallop note is also found at the edge of the skirt, and is emphasized in the swinging sleeve drapery that is a feature of the very new three-quarter sleeve. It is cut to lend animation to an otherwise rather simple model which, however, contrives to capture much charm and chic.

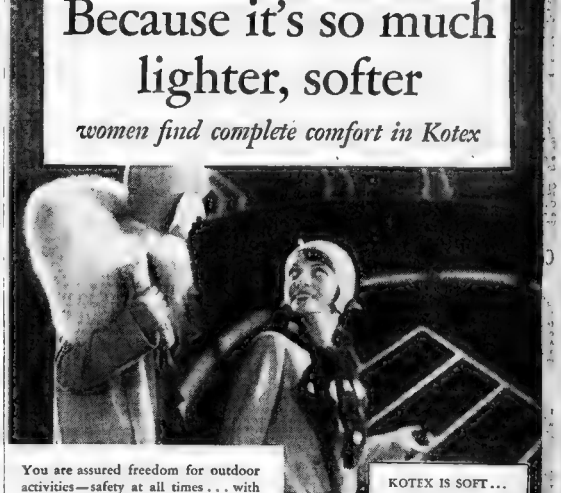
women find complete comfort in Kotex



You are assured freedom for outdoor activities—safety at all times . . . with Kotex, the really comfortable sanitary pad

THE supreme test of a sanitary pad is its comfort during outdoor activities.

Then is when you want lightness . . . softness . . . perfect fit. Then is when you want protection without bulk, absorbency without packing.

This is why women say Kotex is absolutely indispensable. Kotex is made of the lightest, coolest substance that can be used . . . Cellucotton absorbent wadding. This is the filler that 85% of the leading hospitals use for surgical dressings, because of its amazing comfort and great powers of absorption. Kotex absorbs 16 times its own weight of moisture! Five times more than any cotton substance.

Why Kotex is better

Other features that make Kotex especially desirable are its rounded, tapered corners that assure complete concealment under the most clinging frocks . . . its special deodorizing process that removes all possibility of offense . . . and its easy disposability. The layers of filler can be adjusted.

One trial will convince you that Kotex is essential to your year 'round comfort and peace of mind. Buy it today.

KOTEX IS SOFT . . .

1—Not a deceptive softness, that soon packs into chafing harshness. But a delicate, lasting softness.

2—Safe, secure . . . keeps your mind at ease.

3—Fastidious . . . the sign of true daintiness.

4—In hospitals . . . Kotex is the material used by surgeons in 85% of the country's leading hospitals.

5—Deodorizes, safely, thoroughly by a patented process.

HOW CAN SHE HOLD HIS PERMANENT INTEREST?

'Betty' Fears Boy Friend May Be Drifting Away

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
An Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

"WHAT can I do to hold his permanent interest?" asks Betty, in the letter I shall print today. She refers, of course, to the young man, who interests her most of all. Betty's question is logical and sensible and deserves consideration.

Beatrice Fairfax

"Dear Miss Fairfax," she writes "I am a girl past 17 years of age. I am of medium height, have auburn bobbed hair and weigh 120 pounds. Friends always praise my looks. Please do not think I am conceited.

"I go out quite a bit. I met a boy friend a few months ago. He is working his way through college. He took me home twice from the theater where he is employed as usher, but he never has asked me to go out with him. Occasionally he sings on the stage. His voice is trained and very pleasing. He is handsome and quite conceited. My parents live in the vicinity of his residence.

"I went to high school a few months, then stopped and went to work as a maid. Sometimes I feel ashamed of my position. Please tell me what I can do about it.

"Two weeks ago I sent him an invitation to a party and asked him to answer if he accepted. But I have not heard from him. Of course, I have someone else now who will go.

"But I would really very much prefer the first young man as my partner to this dancing party. He wants to ask me to go with him. I can read it on his face—but then I hesitate and does not ask.

"A majority of girls crave his company and he knows it. Lately I have acted very formal and distant. He also does the same in return. I just wonder why he never goes with any girls.

"Please tell me what I can do to interest him permanently. He was 22 years old last September, he told me.

"Pardon my English, for I am only six years in America. Kindly answer when time permits you.

"BETTY."

By a strange coincidence, Betty, the same mail that brought your letter to me brought, also, a letter from a young college student, who explained that he was working his way through. He told of a girl—very sweet and very charming, whom he met at the moving picture theater where he is employed. She was at first pleasant to him. Suddenly she became distant and cold; and he is worried and cannot understand the change in her attitude.

Now, I'm not saying that young university student is the young man who interests you, Betty. The chances are he is not, but I mention the coincidence to illustrate how confusing and hurtful it is when a friend or acquaintance suddenly and for no apparent reason adopts a freezing manner. Why did you do it? Naturally, being human, he will treat you the same way, only more so.

Possibly he did not receive your invitation. There may be a dozen reasons why he cannot accept it. You asked him to reply only in case he accepted. Be sensible, Betty, and treat your friend with your natural, sunny friendliness hereafter, unless he gives you real cause for becoming offended.

You ask me why he never goes with any girls. Of course you know more about him than I do. Are you sure he is not in love or engaged to some girl from his home town? When a young man is in love with someone else, there is little use in trying to win him.

Has it occurred to you that a boy working his way through college has a man's work and very little time or money to spend in entertaining girls? Possibly he can't afford to take you to the movies and dislikes telling you the real reason.

You need not be ashamed of your work, but lift it to artistry by doing it perfectly. And promise me you will read and study and quiet your mind. Your work should help make you a good wife and home-maker some day.

When and if the opportunity comes, treat your friend with dignified and sympathetic friendliness. Give friendship a chance.

"Now forget it," William Bryce advised Guy after the sentence was passed. "If he hadn't got into this jam, he'd get into another His type does. And don't mind this—half an inch lower— a tenth of an inch, perhaps, and that bullet would have severed your jugular vein."

He went quickly to his desk, shoved a chair, rustled some papers. "We have lots of business more important than Burns before us."

He motioned Guy to the chair near his. "Look over these. Nice figures." Well—I'll put over a lucky deal on that Miller apartment house. We're ready to go ahead. Think we should get the plant working to capacity by September 1? How do you like that? You can fly high then. Have all the opportunity you want . . .

He reached to a vase of flowers, snipped a cornflower and put it in his buttonhole. "By the end of the year, if all goes well, and it will, of course, you'll have a neat pile. You can marry that nice little girl if you think it's the right time." Guy went back to his workroom, a bit dazzled by the prospects William Bryce outlined. He had been waiting two years for this promise to materialize.

Two years ago, shortly after the tragic death of Bryce, Jr., Guy came to the Bryce airplane factory.

The moment was opportune. The father, crushed by the loss, wanted to continue the work the boy had started. He thought it would be a fine tribute to his son—a living monument—to perfect a plane—call it after him. So he entered into negotiations with Guy—put him in charge of the established plant, and glowingly promised to start on Guy's design immediately.

This was in the beginning when his grief was new, when he regarded as almost sacred the things his son had loved. Under this stress he had moved his offices, much to the ire of Nancy Brack, out here to South San Francisco. He had intended to concentrate on plane-building.

But Bryce was too versatile for this. He liked to spread himself out—to cast a dozen dazzling lines. These operations required more and more capital. The production of Guy's plane had been delayed.

Now they would really start—

Guy took a paper and made some figures. And then he recalled quite at random, Bryce's comments on marriage. He would have money soon—without doubt.

He suddenly was feeling Pat's hand tucked in his . . . a snug little hand, a bit hard but so warm, so quick and sweet. Right now, thinking of her, he wanted to drive up to that hillside garden; wanted to see her come running down to the gate, swinging it open with such naive joy, every look proclaiming that he was glorious and sparkling—a young god to her. He loved that, of course, and he was finding Pat perilously attractive.

About two weeks later Guy went into Bryce's office.

"He's off," said Nancy Brack in a stage whisper. "What do you think of those clubwomen who made such a howl when Tom Burns was sent over are working now to have his sentence definitely set at one year . . . and they're going to get him pardoned! He'll be out some time in the first of the year.

"What's that to Bryce?"

"Oh—it made him sore. Besides he dropped a hundred thousand yesterday. His stocks went a little off."

"Is Bryce playing that game heavily?"

"Is he! That's why I told you to get going strong. Good thing you did."

"Not strong enough if he starts anything like that!"

Guy went back to his workroom. Presently he shoved a hand through his hair. If Bryce lost in his gambling, all this beautiful and splendid dream would vanish.

Fads and Fashions

Swim into the net of the mode by wearing one of the new corset pockets for formal afternoon functions. A lovely model of beige silk fishnet has a skirt made of diagonal flounces and irregular drapes. Worn with this dress were accessories of black, including a black felt hat, black suede shoes, and gloves and handbag of the same leather and color.

A Peach of an Ensemble is a dress and wrap of that lovely shade in transparent velvet, the wrap lined with ivory moire, which is so arranged that it forms the shoulder cape made of the velvet and can be worn as a hood. The lower of the two tiers of the skirt is bordered with ivory net, on which is posed clusters of peach blossoms.

A Feather in the Cap is the little feather fancies that decorate the latest hats. A black velvet cap is shirred all over, and two tiny ostrich plumes, one gilded, the other black, are placed at the side and on the crown, making an alluring creation.

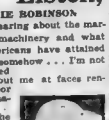
A Black Outlook is dispelled when a dress of black is contrasted with red. Just arrived is a jaunty little jacket of black jerkyak worn with a fine tweed dress of lipstick red, very simply made. The hat with it is a cap of galyak with a band of red felt.

Listen, World!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

I'M always hearing about the marvels of machinery and what class we Americans have attained thereby. But, somehow . . . I'm not quite convinced.

Looking about me at faces rendered tense or blank by machinery . . . considering the standardized personalities of those who spend their lives serving machines . . . I wonder if machines are really as good for us as we think. They've made life easy . . . for some. But they've increased the menace of death and disease for countless thousands. For every one man they've released into open air, they've shut hundreds into desk, kitchen or factory, which poisons lungs and brain. Or into hells where an unguarded step may mean mutilation or oblivion.



Elsie Robinson

They've made life interesting . . . yes, interesting for some. But how deadly dull for others. For every one man whose imagination they have stimulated a thousand others have been robbed of every atom of originality, initative, and creative pride.

Consider the Ford plants. Mr Ford is a mechanical and industrial genius and a kindly, conscientious human being. He feels, and most of us agree with him, that he is doing his utmost for the men in his employ. But read this description of his well-known assembly method.

"The chassis assembly line of Mr. Ford goes for did for model T) at the rate of six feet a minute. It contains 45 stations, or operations. At station number one mudguard brackets are fixed to the chassis. At station 10 the motor is installed. The man who puts on a bolt does not put on the next; the man who puts on the nut does not screw it home. At station 34 the motor receives its gasoline. At 44 the radiator is filled with water; at 45 the finished car arrives in John st."

DOES A SYSTEM LIKE THAT MAKE LIFE PROFITABLE FOR MEN OR DOES IT WIPE ALL PRIDE AND ADVENTURE OUT OF LIVING, EVEN THOUGH THE LIVING WAGE BE DOUBLED?"

That description is from an amazing book by Stuart Chase called "Men and Machines." It is a quiet, simply written talk on the effect of machines on men . . . but after you have finished it you see your tremendous, mechanical world with new eyes.

We accept without question the statement that machines have given power, ease and freedom to human life. But have they given power, ease and freedom to these men whom Mr. Chase describes?

"In one of the great establishments manufacturing automobiles, there is a room filled with punching machines. In front of each machine stands a worker feeding it pieces of steel by hand. A lever is geared to the mechanism, and to this lever the man is chained by a handcuff locked to his wrist. As the punch moves down the lever moves back, taking the hand with it. If for any reason a man wishes to leave the room, all the machinery must be stopped and his handcuffs unlocked by the foreman. To look down this long room is to see machines, levers and man in unison—feed, punch, jerk back, feed, punch, jerk back . . . I have heard of no other single task today which so closely approximates the gloomy prophecy pictures of the robot—that mechanism, of flesh and blood first heard of in a Czechoslovak play, toward which, it is alleged, all men are moving. Yet these workers were handcuffed partly out of pity for their flesh and blood. Before the articulated levers were installed they were, despite the guards, continually loading their fingers and their hands under the down thrust of the punch."

Reading of those handcuffed men, I think of the mountaineers with whom I have been spending the summer. These mountain men do not see as much cash in six weeks as those "robot workers" see in a week and the average city dweller would sneer at their shabby clothes and "dull" lives. But their lives are actually far from dull. Their bodies and wits are constantly on the move, making an endless variety of things contributing new chemies to meet new emergencies. They are not robots, cogs in a soulless, mechanical analytical system. They are human beings . . . creators . . . doing things, in a small way, as God does them. And out of this, they derive an immense quiet pride and confidence and a sharp zest for living.

Machines . . . do they really pay?

We have MORE THINGS in this mechanical age . . . BUT HAVE WE MORE LIFE?

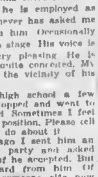
For a Gay Thanksgiving

THE famous Brillat-Savarin said "The destiny of nations depends on the manner wherein they take their food." And we have more food in quantities, so especially at holiday times, when our homes are gay with festive decorations and ring from end to end with the cheer of the thankful season.



Martha Lee

This being true, the meal begins for the housewife with the setting of the table. For Thanksgiving it should be made as opulent as possible, with the best of linens, in dessert glassware if one possesses it, candles, silver which appeals to her, just come from the advertisements.

One of the best and simplest decorations for the center of the table is a huge bunch of chrysanthemums, since their optimistic yellow adds glory and cheer. Yellow baskets made of cardboard and covered with yellow crepe paper may hold individual nuts or candies.

You may have these baskets of green crepe paper, if you wish, to match the green which surrounds the chrysanthemums, and have the scheme of your table yellow and green, for green olives, pickles, green candlesticks will help carry out this charming color scheme.

For the last course, when everyone sits around cracking walnuts and gossiping over old times, it is fun to find scattered among the meat-filled nuts, other shells, the contents of which are slips of paper containing conundrums. The nuts have previously been cracked in such a way that the two halves of the shell are left whole; the meats are removed, the paper inserted and the shells lightly glued together. Use old-fashioned puzzles and conundrums.

Such a menu as the one given below can be served by the hostess alone, although it is somewhat easier to serve if one has a helper in the kitchen.

Thanksgiving Cocktail
Roast Turkey Celery and Cranberry Jelly
Mashed Potatoes
Candied Sweet Potatoes
Onions with Beef Stuffing Broccoli Hollandaise
Dinner Rolls
Orange, Pecan and Pimento Salad
Steamed Pudding Foamy Sauce
Pumpkin Pie
Mints Nuts Stuffed Dates
Coffee
Faithfully yours,
MARTHA LEE.

Lady Should Bow First

By MRS. BEECKMAN

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN: Will you please tell me if a young man should recognize a lady first, or if a lady should recognize a man? We have had much discussion on this point, as my mother thinks that it is the man's part to greet first. J.

I'M sorry that I have to say something contrary to your mother's judgment, but it really is the lady's privilege to acknowledge acquaintanceship with a gentleman. Therefore she bows first, and a gentleman waits for a lady's bow or handshake. And, when we think of it it is natural that this should be so, isn't it? All rules of etiquette of this kind originated with the idea of giving honor and deference to a woman.

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I am to be best man for a friend. I would like to know if I have to buy the wedding ring for the bride, and also the bouquet. Also please let me know if I have to pay for the priest and the bouquets for the bridesmaids.

J. L. M

YOU should pay for none of these things. All of them, except the bouquets of the bridal attendants, are the responsibilities of the groom, and I cannot understand how you should have any doubt in the matter. I hope that the groom has not given you to understand that these many things are your responsibility. The groom buys the ring for the bride and always sends her her bouquet. Also, he gives the fee to the priest. The bouquets for the bridesmaids are usually supplied by the parents of the bride or by the bride herself, for they are part of the planned ensemble of their attire.

You give a wedding present to the couple but after that you are supposed to have no "financial responsibilities."

Nancy Page Quilt Club -:-

By FLORENCE LA GANKE

A DIRECTION LEAFLET that will aid in making the Alphabet Quilt will be sent free to any reader sending a stamped, addressed envelope to Nancy Page, Boston American. P. O. Box 185, Boston.

THE alphabet quilt was causing a great stir in the neighborhood. All of the mothers who saw it wanted to start one immediately. A newly made aunt was sure that her little nephew would adore the quilt.

Nancy had just finished telling them that each quilt was usually 36 inches wide and 42 inches long. The next size was 42 inches by 56. But the youngsters outgrew these cribs so soon that it seemed foolish to make the quilt for that size bed. She herself was making a quilt to fit on her junior bed. The quilt was to be 60 by 90 inches when finished. If a mother wanted to make the smaller size she could change the size of the connecting blocks, but would keep the 24 alphabet blocks the given size. These are 6 inches square when finished, although the blocks are actually cut 8½ inches square. This extra half inch allows for seams on all four sides.

The "B" block which Nancy is working today is a study in two shades of blue.

Nancy might have made a robin with its warm colors, but since she had made the apple of rosy hue she used a different color scheme. Anyway she had two scraps of blue in fast color gingham which would make the body and wing. The wing was of the darker blue.

She took the newspaper pattern and cut out the whole square. Over this she laid her square of white. Holding the two against the window so she was able to outline the pattern with a sharp pencil. She outlined the letter as well as the bird.

Next she laid her paper pattern on a square of light weight cardboard or tag board and pasted it on. She dried this under pressure.

When thoroughly dry she cut the pattern for the body of the bird.

Since the body of the bird was so curved it was useless to try to use a bias piece of blue. Curves are turned more easily when the material is on the bias.

In cutting she allowed one-quarter inch on all sides for turning in. Then she cut the piece for the wing, allowing one-quarter inch for turning in. She discovered that points like the bill could be appliqued more easily if the bill on the cloth were cut with a square instead of a pointed end. After cutting the two pieces of material for body and wing she basted under a quarter inch and pressed the pieces.

Laying them on the cloth according to the pencilled outline she basted them in place and then appliqued them with fine, invisible slanting hemming stitch.

She cut the body of the bird, remember, as if there were to be no wing applique, that is, it was the exact size of the whole bird. Then she laid out the wing on top in its designated place. Nancy discovered that there was less danger of wrinkling or getting the pattern askew if she did this.

When she had outlined the letter B with four strands of fast color embroidery cotton in the same shade of green as she had used for the letter A in the first block, she now had two alphabet blocks ready to be joined with strips of white and color.

She waited to do this until she had more of the finished applique blocks ready.

Block Three will appear in next Saturday's Boston American.

BACK BLOCKS SUPPLIED

In the event you have missed Block One—The Apple—please send five cents for the block missing. Also enclose stamped, addressed envelope. Address Nancy Page, Boston American. P. O. Box 185, Boston, Mass.

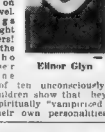
The Truth

ABOUT MOTHERS

By ELINOR GLYN

AS soon as my talkie is finished, girls, I am going to decorate my new house. Then I will tell you about it, in case it might be helpful to some of you.



Elinor Glyn

While I am working, the wings of my dear 88-year-old mother are being built, so that she can fly over all the sun and be able to go into the beautiful gardens on the same level. This brings me to a thought about mothers! There are the mothers who dominate their child's every moment, and at times out of ten unconsciously they have been spiritually vampirized and that their own personalities have become submerged. They are only feeble echoes of their parent.

There are other mothers who have clung on to their sons or daughters stressing the fact that they have made sacrifices when a little child was young.

Both types are utterly selfish, thinking really of their own personal gratification put their children's welfare.

So, girls, determine when you have children of your own to give of your best intelligences as well as your love while they are little, and train them splendidly for self-reflect of life. And then when they are grown up, leave them unfettered to express the result of your training, giving them love and sympathy always, but never being a halter around their necks.

Scolding the Child

By CONSTANCE CAMERON

AFTER we have reminded children and taught and retaught them the things that we are supposed to do if we are to be well-bred and courteous, it is the natural thing to feel like going all to pieces, scolding and ranting when all our efforts seem to crash in a crescendo defiance of all the lessons we have tried so hard to make important to them. But loud tones, and ravings and angry looks won't mend things. Sometimes it is a child's heart a desire to be courteous and mannerly. When a child has acquired the habit of bad manners, then suddenly reverts to the primitive, it is time to sit quietly and figure out why he has slipped and talk to him accordingly.

Junior had, at the age of five been a small boy who was often taken into any hotel or most conservatively formal home for a meal and knew just how to behave.

But last Sunday the family was visiting at a lakeside cottage where a boy of 10 was playing host for the day to Junior. The young host was as brown as a berry, stalwart, healthy, good-humored and all-round budding "he-man." Junior eyed him in abject worship. The first dinner with Mother beaming at him, Junior suddenly brushed the table with his fist and roared. "I'm hungry. What are we sitting here for?" Mother went white. The meal dish went by Junior somehow or another and he announced loudly and firmly: "Gee, I got gypped. How come I don't get any meat?"

But before the mother talked to him about it at all she watched him. She was quiet during the afternoon, taking in all of Junior's adoration of the bigger lad; and it suddenly came to her with clearness just why Junior had acted in such a manner.

So, when the mother talked with Junior about it she said, "I don't know how Billy, the older boy, felt about your uncouth table manners, but I noticed he was polite and quiet. He didn't gulp his water, nor wipe his mouth on his sleeve." Then, "Did he tell you that he helped his mother peel all the potatoes and hull all the strawberries and things before we got there? He is my idea of a truly manly boy. He is brave and strong, but he is courteous and gentle, too. I like him, don't you?"

"Yes," said Junior, his eyes wide in amazement. It hadn't occurred to him that one could be manly and gentle, too

STOCK MARKET VOLUME ABOVE "NORMAL"

By FRANK H. MELOON
Financial Editor

Following the "normal" market of last Friday, we remarked that "one swallow does not make a summer," and that, because we had one "normal" day, there was no ground for belief that all the market days to come would be "normal." Yesterday, with its total sales of nearly 6,500,000 shares, demonstrated that, even with abbreviated market sessions, the abnormal volume can be reached. No one knows what the total would have been if the session had run its customary length. Judging by the general situation, it looks as if abbreviated sessions would be with us for some time to come. Obviously brokerage houses cannot catch up with the work when it continues by such volume as was reached yesterday.

Arthur Curtiss James

There is hardly any question but what big bears have been able to take advantage of market conditions to establish a profitable short interest in the market. That does not change real values, but it does eventually establish themselves. You should not buy, of course, unless you are in a position to do so. When buying you should purchase outright and be able to hold your shares in the "strong box" until the day comes when sanity is restored. There are a great many real bargains now, and many of the issues to which we refer will be on the bargain counter until they have sold very much higher than they are now.

It is a strange fact that most of us are much more anxious to buy when prices are high than when they are low. But the lower good stocks go, the better buys they become. Here, discriminating buyers are well aware of this.

One wealthy American today, director of one of New York biggest banks, declares his fortune was built on the good luck he had in living through seven panics. When others were selling, he bought.

Arthur Curtiss James, wealthy Newporter, largest individual holder of railroad securities in the world is one of the staunchest supporters of well-drafted railroad consolidation plans. Mr. James, chairman of the Western Pacific Railroad, is especially keen for the latter's plan for the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy and the Western Pacific systems. He points out that this would make the western line an eastern outlet and the eastern line a western outlet.

Mr. James, I am told, has great faith in the future of the West and Middle West. We hear he believes Chicago will eventually become the world's largest city. And in the meantime other great American cities will not be standing still. The future of this country is something to stagger the imagination.

R. W. McNeel, Boston investment authority, has sent the following telegram to President Hoover: "Your statement that fear is the most dangerous of all national emotions impells me to call your attention to the wave of fear now sweeping investors of this country and timing it with the recent catastrophe. Liberty bond campaigns created new and untrained body of investors. Some of these had reliable confidence in future of this country they invested in stocks rather than putting money into banks in last four years. Where in previous panics a terrorized public caused runs on banks a similar psychology now is causing run on security markets with unnecessary sacrifices and causing disaster beyond belief. Unless fears are allayed, national disaster threatens in the panic of 1907 the United States Treasury came to the relief of banks. Believe public statement from you regarding psychology of present situation would save untold suffering and unnecessary loss. What started as speculative incident is now national rout of investors."

Total transactions on the New York Stock Exchange to date this year for the first time in the history of the exchange have reached the one billion share mark in a single year, totaling 1,000,870,000 shares. Previous yearly record was 922,082,000 shares for full year of 1928. In 1927 trading amounted to 668,744,800 shares.

STOCKS DROP TO NEW LOWS IN WALL ST.

By W. S. COUSINS

New York, Nov. 13—Except for a rapid rally in the forenoon, when a few of the leading industrial and railroad shares made an effort to ward off the hammer blows of repeated waves of "distress" selling, liquidation and short selling, the stock market displayed renewed weakness today.

The lowest prices in two years were recorded for a hundred or more of the active shares.

Failure of the leaders to "hold" today after the steady downward movements of the last few days, was extremely discouraging for the bulls, who have been waiting patiently for a turn in the tide.

The selling ranks have been swelled in the last day or two by the dumping in of stocks bought by "bargain hunters" after the first heavy break.

Acting on the advice and example of prominent bankers, investors purchased stocks of whose real values they knew little or nothing, with disappointing results.

The downward procession carried with it the best of the blue chips. Spencer Kell. shares with long and successful records as money earners and profit sharers.

United States Steel fell away to the lowest price of the year, and numerous popular industrials sold at the lowest prices of the past two to three years.

The weakness in the copper stocks accompanied new rumors of a cut in prices of the red metal. Investment trusts were heavy sellers of these stocks. Anaconda broke to 74 and Kennecott sold below 50 for the first time, a loss of 7 points.

American Can, the so-called pet of the First National Bank crowd, was also under fire and dropped 7 points to 89.

VOLUME IS LARGER

Instead of a shrinkage in the volume of trading on the big board, as expected, the recession of the market was packed to the limit with selling of the most frenzied nature.

Bullish industrial and business reports flashed to the financial district were without effect in driving up the flood of liquidation and short selling pouring into the market, and traders are watching the closing gong as the only effective means of terminating the steady fall in values.

General Electric soon broke 15 points to 170, completing a loss of 27 points from the high of a month. When Steel common sold at 150 it brought its total shrinkage for the week to 12, and was due to cite individual issues in the stock list on the basis of comparison was in the extent of their decline.

QUESTIONNAIRE OUT

Charles E. Mitchell from Washington indicated that 'in the opinion of government leaders no emergency existed and no special speech was due. the stock market was contemplated. Until the market slump runs its course, it was felt that nothing could be done.

Governors of the Stock Exchange, in an effort to place responsibility for the persistent short selling of stocks, directed another questionnaire to members demanding information relative to borrowers of stock in recent transactions.

BOND MARKET MOVES DOWN

New York, Nov. 13 (AP)—The weakness of the stock market led to further selling of bonds today. Holdings of secondary issues were particularly hard hit, and, as has been the case during the current decline, numbers of gilt-edge loans were forced to lower levels. Attorney General Atkinson's 4½s and Missouri Pacific 5½s were exceptions.

Low-priced rails again showed the effects of liquidation. Chicago, Great Western 4s, Erie General 4s, Western Maryland 4s and Soo Line 3½s were down a point or more. Heavy selling of issues included in New York Central 4½s, but the rough 4s dropped a point.

Utilities and industrial specialties were somewhat mixed, but the trend was toward lower ground as speculative issues had little support. North American Edison 5s and Penn-Ohio Edison 5s were strong, moving up more than a point. Foreign sugars weakened.

Foreign governments and corporation loans likewise weakened. Colombian Mortgage Bank 7s dropped 5 points.

Southern Railway Plans New Issue

Washington, Nov. 13 (AP)—Authority to issue $3,690,000 of 4½ per cent equipment-trust certificates was asked of the Interstate Commerce Commission today by the Southern Railway.

The funds derived would be used to finance partially the purchase of 3000 coal cars and 1000 auto-furniture box cars, the equipment to cost approximately $4,640,000.

Millions Asking These Questions Answered Here

Why Well-Selected Stocks at Panic Quotations Should Do Well

—By B. C. FORBES—

NEW YORK, Nov. 13—Probably several million Americans are at this moment giving serious thought to questions raised by one reader in a letter to this column. Therefore, it is opportune to present here the questions and a brief reply.

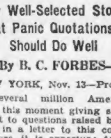
He writes in part:

"I have always been in agreement with your economically sound policies, especially in reference to stock market speculation. I have also read your advice during the panic, where you state that stocks are a buy. There is no question in my mind that they are a buy, especially for a trader's profit.



B. C. Forbes

"Something, however, still sticks in my mind that is causing me with either economic law or financial law. There was no gilt-edge rails or gilt-edge utilities that, if purchased at the prices in the panics, would yield an investor at least 6 per cent on the money invested.

"I am one of those individuals conservative perhaps, who believe that a gilt-edge common stock, such as one will or a good utility should yield at least 6 per cent, and high-class industrial stocks should yield 8 per cent.

"An investor today can invest his funds in good bonds, which is a method open to many, to yield 6 per cent or better; gilt-edge rail bonds will yield over 5 per cent; gilt-edge guaranteed mortgages by fine mortgage companies guaranteeing principal and interest yield an investor 5½ per cent. This I explain to your readers why common stocks should not yield an investor more than a good bond."

Here's as much of an answer as space permits:

We base our judgment of the future on past experience plus every other pertinent consideration, including our knowledge of human nature and our estimate of the character of the men directing the our natural resources and our national destiny.

Past experience has shown that common stocks, as a whole, have recovered from every panic and sold at much higher prices. This panic has been the severest of the extent of the declines in stock quotations.

Past panics usually were accompanied by appalling financial wreckage—the wholesale failures of banks, industrial concerns and business organizations of all kinds. Other panics were usually characterized also by unprecedented money rates and a dire scarcity of available funds. Gross speculation and inflation in the business world sometimes preceded other Wall Street cataclysms.

Notwithstanding all that, stock prices in time recovered from their panic levels.

This panic has not been accompanied by countless bank failures, Stock Exchange failures, business failures. It has not been accompanied by a sudden rise in money rates to 25, 50 or (as in one panic) 125 per cent. This panic was not preceded by gross speculation and inflation in general business.

That being so, is there any sound reason for believing that stocks purchased outright during the upheaval will not do as stocks purchased during other panics did, namely recovery very substantially in market value within a reasonable period?

(Meanwhile they may or may not sink to still lower levels temporarily. For that reason, among others, marginal buying has not been recommended here.)

Some of the stocks I have bought yield more than bonds, some distinctly less. I know that the greatest fortunes have not been made in securities markets by buying bonds but by buying well-selected stocks when everything was frantically financing them on the market during panics. Shares of almost every powerful American corporation purchased during panic have yielded holders far more than the yield on bonds.

Now that we are a creditor nation, now that we lead the world industrially, now that we have our Federal Reserve currency system, now that we have 20 billion dollars' stock of gold, now that our national wealth has multiplied as no nation's wealth ever multiplied before, now that our brainy leaders are successfully acquiring or establishing enterprises offering promising opportunities throughout the world, now that we are supplying and applying electric power on a scale and at a cost unmatched in other lands, now that we have maintained managerial skill admittedly unequalled by other industrial nations, now that our investive genius is in full bloom, now that our relations between employer and employee are the envy of the world, now that the spirit of co-operation has largely displaced the spirit of destructive competition, now that so many corporations have bought in their bonds and preferred stock—why, why should well chosen shares in American enterprises acquired during this panic fare any less fortunately than they fared after earlier panics?

NATIONAL AIR TRANSPORT HAS TRAFFIC GAIN

National Air Transport, Inc., during October continued its gain in traffic, handling 198,078 pounds of air mail, the second largest month by pounds carried in its history. This is an increase of 6228 pounds over previous month and of 39,320 pounds over October, 1928. In addition, the company transported 7579 pounds of air express, against 7327 in September, and 4397 in September.

With heavy traffic in November and December likely, net for last quarter of this year should far surpass any other period. Preliminary estimate indicate net, after all charges, will approximate $325,000, equal to $1.50 cents a share on 650,000 shares outstanding.

With net in nine months $566,-613, or $2.61 a share, net for the year should total about $900,000, or $1.38 a share. During 1928 net was $274,386, equivalent to $1.26 a share on 650,000 shares outstanding, and in 1927 the company operated at a loss of $156,000.

Total poundage carried from first of 1929 to end of October was 50 per cent greater than for the whole year, which was a 500 per cent increase over 1927. Following shows monthly air mail poundage for 1928 and 1929 over combined routes of National Air Transport:

	1929	1928
	Pounds	Pounds
January	65,076	49,188
February	121,774	48,408
March	143,220	89,580
April	140,527	59,775
May	146,166	70,284
June	172,675	69,184
July	181,660	68,886
August	205,189	126,246
September	191,850	134,587
October	198,078	158,758
Totals	1,585,078	841,411

National Air Transport is experimenting with a new type of mail plane, capable of carrying a payload almost double that of present carriers and having a greatly increased flying speed. It is understood that these new planes will reduce operating costs and increase efficiency.

Air express is in very favorable position in air mail field. Operating only over two long routes at present, Chicago and Chicago to Dallas—it enjoys some of the heaviest traffic in the country.

Any embargo from rail to air mail traffic through government revision of contracts, now before Congress in Washington, should be offset by increasing air mail carried, officials believe.

National Air Transport stock is selling at around 18, against high of the year at 48¼ and low of 13.

RADIO STORES' SALES AT PEAK

Sales of Wextark Radio Stores, Inc. established a new high record and were 55 per cent greater in October than 1928, the same month a year ago, Simon Wexler, president, announced today. The percentage of increase for a month was based on a comparison with business done by Wextark after certain subsidiary acquisitions were made. Sales for October, this year, amounted to $1,932,959, whereas for the same month in 1928 they were $1,251,136.

"Wextark business was never better," said Mr. Wexler. "We are now nearing the peak in sales for the year, and with November giving promise of equaling or bettering previous month in the company's history by a large margin.

"The growth of a subsidiary, the Duovac Radio Tube Corporation, has proved surprisingly successful. The 1928 record for the Wextark subsidiary in Greater New York, is having an excellent business and in recognition for a share of the company's prosperity."

Wextark Radio Stores, Inc., operates over 100 stores in New York, Chicago, Detroit and elsewhere. Stock is listed on the New York Stock Exchange and the Chicago Stock Exchange.

Carloadings Fall Below Last Year's

Loadings of revenue freight on railroads of the United States in week ended Nov. 2 totaled 1,034,850, according to American Railway Association. This was a decrease of 32,202 cars compared with preceding week last year, but an increase of 32,5757 above like week in 1927. Due to seasonal normal decline in freight traffic, total for the week ended Nov. 2 was 62,160 below preceding week.

All districts reported reductions in loading of all commodities from week ended Oct. 26 except Pocahontas, central western and southwestern districts, while all showed increases over like week in 1927 except southern and northwestern districts.

Capital Increase

Stockholders of Batchelder Bros, Inc., of Boston, voted to increase authorized capital by 15,000 shares of $7 cumulative preferred, $100 par.

REMEDIES FOR WEAK MARKET TO BE TOPIC

BY ROBERT S. THORNBURGH

Washington, Nov. 13 (INS)—With the stock market finding continued difficulty in getting onto an even keel after the dramatic crash of the last few weeks, remedies may be discussed next week when the federal advisory council holds its quarterly meeting with the Federal Reserve Board.

The council, composed of business men from each of the 12 reserve districts, will meet November 19, in the first session since prices of stocks did their unprecedented nose dive.

Officials said today that undoubtedly the stock market situation and its relationship to the Federal Reserve banking structure will be the principal topic before the council. They saw the possibility of recommendations for a general reduction of the reserve bank rediscount rates to 4 or 4½ per cent. The present level is five per cent.

Reports were expected to go before the advisory council indicating easier money conditions through out the country as a result of the market crash, which brought a decrease of more than $1,500,000,000 in brokers' loans.

With this tremendous volume of credit diverted from the market and available for other and productive business and agriculture there has been a general easing of money conditions which would justify reductions in the rediscount rates, in the opinion of many officials.

For a year prior to the stock market break the advisory council had been urging increases in the rediscount rates to curb speculative activity and to divert credit from the market. At several meetings resolutions were made public through the reserve board. At the time of the last gathering the New York bank had been permitted to increase to a 6 per cent level and the council suggested no further changes at that time.

It was understood that the board was making a general survey of the financial situation in advance of the meeting of the council. Governor George L. Harrison of the New York bank conferred with Secretary Mellon and the board and was said to have laid a complete picture of New York conditions before them. Harrison, it was understood, expressed the opinion to the board that banking and business conditions were fundamentally sound.

HIGH RECORD IN EARNINGS

October earnings of the Winton Engine Company amounted to $1.61 a share on 200,000 shares, compared with $1.51 a share in September, it was announced today by George W. Codrington, president.

The brings net income for the ten months ended with October up to $747,390 or $10.12 a share on the common stock, a new high record in the company's history. No comparison with the corresponding period a year ago is available, but in the entire year of 1928 net income was only $403,130 or $4.81 a share on the common, based on the present capitalization.

In the month of October alone net income was $115,101, compared with $106,124 in September.

The Lincoln Motor Co. of Winton Engine Company for the month and ten months follows:

EARNINGS GAIN FOR FAMOUS PLAYERS

Famous Players Corporation, Ltd., for the fiscal year ended August 31, 1929, reports gross operating profit of $3,376,845, an increase of 124 per cent. compared with $1,507,068 reported for the previous fiscal year. Net profit carried to surplus account, after all deductions, including proportion of movietone write-off and income taxes, amounts to $2,044,224 or $6.28 per share on the 327,540 shares of no par common stock outstanding. This compares with $462,071 or $1.44 a share reported for the previous fiscal year.

The large increase in earnings, J. P. Bickneil, vice-president, states, is largely attributed to the advent of talking pictures, and in part to the acquisition of additional theaters and the favorable business conditions existing during the year.

Mr. Bickneil further states that "the operations of theaters during the first two months of the current fiscal year show continued substantial improvement compared with the same period last year. The number of theaters operated by the corporation increased during the year from 146 to 196. These are all up-to-date as possible being supplied with sound equipment."

An initial quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share, equivalent to $2 annually, has been declared payable December 2 to stockholders of record November 15.

STOCKS FALL TO RECORD LOWS

and Pere Marquette sold down $10 to $15 a share, with little recovery, if any, from the day's low levels.

Further distress selling came into the stock market today and prices of leading issues receded to new low levels for the year. Trading was again in enormous volume, the ticker service running around two hours behind the market.

No adverse business or financial development appeared to explain the renewal of heavy liquidation. Much mystery also surrounded the source of the forced liquidation but the weakness of high grade industrial and railroad issues led to a widespread belief that some of the selling probably represented the liquidation of stocks held in bank loans.

Directors of the Sinclair Consolidated Oil Corp. omitted the usual extra dividend of 25 cents on the common stock, but authorized the regular payment of 50 cents. No explanation for the omission of the extra was given, although Wall Street presumed it was for the purpose of conserving cash resources until the effect on business of the recent break in stock prices could be determined.

CREDIT IS EASIER

Credit conditions were noticeably easier and Wall Street looked for another huge reduction in Federal Reserve brokers' loans tomorrow. Call money renewed unchanged at 6 per cent, but that figure was reported to have been shaded in the outside market. Time money was available in moderate amounts, as low as 5½ per cent and the rate on bankers' acceptances was cut ⅛ of 1 per cent over night.

U. S. Steel common was again the pivot on which the market swung. Opening 2¾ points higher at 156, the stock quickly climbed to 159¾ in a brief mid-session rally, and then broke to 150¼.

NO BANKERS' MEETING

Detroit Edison broke 18 points; American Machine & Foundry 16½; Lachlan Gas 15, General Electric 14¾, International Silver 11½ and U. S. Industrial Alcohol, Public Service of New Jersey, Commercial Credit, Sears Roebuck, Kennecott, Anaconda, American Can, Atchison, International Telephone, American Telephone, Westinghouse Electric, North American, Southern Railway and National Biscuit sold 5 to 10 point lower.

No meeting of the New York banking group had been called for today, although its participants were keeping in close touch with each other and the market by telephone.

The Newmont Mining Co., which has large holdings of Kennecott Copper, denied today that it had been liquidating its Kennecott stock.

Closing quotations and net changes of some of the leaders were: U. S. Steel $151.50, off $2; Radio $38.75, off $1.75; General Electric $173, off $13.75; General Motors $36.12, off $2.87; Johns-Manville 5, up $1.50; Anaconda $70.50, off $6.50.

Stock Exchange Orders Accounting by Members

New York, Nov. 13 (AP)—The New York Stock Exchange today asked members to file statements of condition as of the close of business yesterday, and daily changes thereafter until further notice.

The statements are to include a list of stocks borrowed on collateral and for whose account; a list of stocks loaned, and to whom; intra-office bookwings, and for whose account; a list of all stocks which they have failed to deliver, and for whose account.

Members whose offices are in New York must file statements on or before the close of business next Saturday, while out-of-town members held by persons of wealth, hit new lows for the year, the financiers will be given until Monday to do so.

While no official explanation of the request was issued by the exchange, it was understood the action was prompted by a desire to learn as nearly as possible the exact condition of the market, primarily regarding the short interest, and how large a factor it may be in the decline. The exchange has not made such a general request since 1917.

The questionnaire does not include a demand for the financial condition of members, but merely the long or short position of their accounts in the market. The action of the exchange is not interpreted as an inquiry into the financial condition of its members.

Members of the New York banking group which was organized to stabilize the market repeatedly has stated that no cases of financial difficulties of Stock Exchange members or New York banks have been disclosed by their investigation, and inasmuch as no meetings of the group have been held for the past 30 days Wall Street is inclined to regard the situation as unchanged in that respect.

DROP IN STEEL OUTPUT ONLY SEASONAL

New York, Nov. 12 (AP)—There has been a reduction in steel ingot production in the past week, Dow, Jones & Co. reported today, although steel interests consider it a seasonal development, pointing out that a similar situation existed at this time last year.

The United States Steel Corporation has reduced ingot output by about 5 per cent and is now running at about 75 per cent of rated capacity, compared with slightly more than 80 per cent in the previous week and better than 82 per cent two weeks ago.

Independent operators are down to a fraction below 72 per cent, contrasted with slightly under 75 per cent last week and slightly more than 77 per cent two weeks ago. At this time last year, the steel corporation was operating at 80 per cent and the independents at 84 per cent.

The weekly estimate of bituminous coal production in the United States, computed by the National Coal Association, shows a total for the week ending Nov. 9 of 10,875,000 net tons. The United States Bureau of Mines reported for the week ending Oct. 26 production of 11,415,000 net tons.

Bid and asked prices for the shorter maturities of Canadian bank acceptances were quoted another ⅛ of one per cent lower today, with 30, 60 and 90-day bills at 4¾ to 4⅞ per cent. Four month bills were still quoted at 4⅞ to 4¾ and 5 to 6 months, 5 to 4⅞.

Rates for the shorter maturities are now ⅛ of one per cent below those prevailing during the first three weeks of October. The decline has resulted from the lower federal reserve rate, and a heavy investment demand for bills.

ARNOLD PRINT EARNINGS UP

Arnold Print Works of North Adams, issues its first annual report on its new fiscal year basis, showing profits for the 12 months ended June 30, 1929, of $535,921, equal after 7 per cent preferred dividends to $4.01 per share on 110,090 no-par common shares (including 11,000 shares held in escrow and subject to sale on option warrants). Profits for the year ended June 30, 1928, amounted to $407,036, or $3.29 per common share based on capitalization of that year.

In Sept. 1928 the company purchased a manufacturing plant located five miles from its North Adams plant and in March 1929 operations were started. When the plant will increase production 75 per cent when additional equipment now ordered is completed and installed. Yardage finished in the June 30, 1929, year was 20 per cent above that previously. Both plants are now operating at capacity.

Cost of the new plant was partially met from proceeds of an issue of 22,000 shares of 7 per cent cumulative participating preferred stock of $50 par, with common stock option warrants, and from cash surplus. Holders of the old 7 per cent preferred stock were given opportunity of exchanging their shares for the new participating preferred shares in ratio of two new shares for each old share held. This offer remains open.

As of June 30 current assets amounted to $1,913,823 with current liabilities of $640,238. Surplus stood at $2,504,397.

Larger Dividend Paid on Dresser

S. R. Dresser Manufacturing Co. (manufacturers of fittings and accessories for pipe lines) declared quarterly dividends of 87½ cents on class A, placing it on $3.50 annual basis, against 75 previously, and 50 cents on class B placing it on $2 annual basis, against $1.50 previously both payable Dec. 1 to stock of record Nov. 20.

Bank Rate Is Cut

Brussels, Nov. 13 (AP)—The National Bank today lowered its rate from 5 per cent to 4½ per cent.

FINE POINTS OF MODERN HOMES

By BETTY BONNELL

HAVE you a washing machine in your home? Perhaps you insist that you have no need for it, since you send all your things to the laundry.

Betty Bonnel

But, be that as it may, I find that most modern housewives require an automatic machine as a practical convenience since there are constantly so many good things that have to be done between laundry days. And especially wheres there are babies in the home, it is really a necessity as a time-and-labor saver.

But let me advise you not to go about it halfway. If you are to have a washer, please make it part of your own complete laundry "department," no matter how small it may be.

Of course the biggest and most important item is the washer itself. Unless you are an authority on electric washers, I would advise you to get expert opinion and demonstrations from some well equipped electrical showroom. There are all types to be considered, such as the oscillating, the agitator, the cylinder and the vacuum.

The demonstrator will give you a demonstration of each. Then, of course, such things as the size of the family, the number of little children,

PILOTS TO DROP FLOWERS FOR LEONARD

By GEORGE HAMBLIN

With two planes flying over his funeral, one of which will be flown by George Watkins, the last flier to cavort around the sky with him, William F. "Billie" Leonard will be buried in the family plot in Providence tomorrow morning.

Billie's widow communicated with Harland Banks yesterday, and asked the latter if Watkins and John H. "Red" Harmon, of South Dartmouth, would fly over the funeral cortege and pay their last respects to the greatest commercial stunt pilot of the nation, who was killed Monday at Marlboro, while giving the crowd their last thrill.

BOARDMAN RETURNS

After a successful summer at Hyannis Airport, Russell E. Boardman, head of the Boardman Aircraft Corp., is set up at the Boston Airport with his ships, a Travel Air cabin monoplane and a Whirlwind engined, 165 horsepower, Travel Air biplane, for the winter months. His chief of maintenance, Frank Merry, is rather glad to be back in Boston, after a whale of a summer on the Cape.

The wind indicator that the city had erected at the airport has been lifted to the top of the operations tower of the Administration Building.

Airport Super "Eddie" Edson could be seen up on top of the tower, making things right for the illumination of the indicator.

BAYLES TRANSFERRED

An absence of three months failed to diminish the greeting accorded G. Haines "Heinie" Bayles, airport manager for Curtiss-Wright at What Cheer Airport, Pawtuxet. "Heinie" has been plugging along down there for several months, and finally has things running to perfection.

Lowell R. Bayles, pilot for Curtiss-Wright, who has been on duty at the Boston Airport for the past several months, has been transferred to his former home in Springfield, where he will assume the rank of chief pilot of that station for Curtiss.

The boys gave him a send-off at the local airport last night.

LIFE STORY OF PIUS STARTS SUNDAY

A publishing achievement of rare distinction has been accomplished by representatives of the Boston Sunday Advertiser, who have secured the publication rights for the first biography of His Holiness Pope Pius XI, ever authorized by the Holy Father.

This biography written by His Eminence Bonaventure Cardinal Cerretti is to be published in the Boston Sunday Advertiser commencing next Sunday, Nov. 17. It is an amazing human document in the lives of those of our generation who have achieved greatness.

The author, Cardinal Cerretti, is particularly fitted for the writing of this biography through a life time of intimate association with the present Pope.

Cardinal Cerretti is an outstanding diplomat of the Catholic Church. Many of the most important diplomatic problems of the Holy See for the past 10 years have been under his supervision. He was a leader in negotiations for the settlement of the Roman question as early as 1919.

Theatrical Night at Cotton Club

Nat Clark, manager of the Cotton Club on Lansdowne st., announces that tonight will be a big night at the Cotton Club.

Nat scored a kick when he engaged Anita Stewart, one of New York's well known night club and vaudeville entertainers. The new club is one of the best in New England with one of the largest dance floors in the city. Music is furnished by "Sandy," and his Cotton Club Band. The all-colored Review Show is pleasing the many patrons who attend.

Hoover Should Start Fight

Lack of Leadership Hampers Move to Eradicate Illiteracy in Nation

MANY great and good causes are going begging in the Federal city today, orphaned by lack of leadership.

The spirit of the people quickens these causes. Public sentiment supports them. But only brave, unselfish, steadfast leaders can beat down their enemies and fight these causes through to victory.

Such a cause is public education. Its important place in the foundation of popular government was clearly recognized by George Washington, and in his last message to Congress, Thomas Jefferson urged the Congress to continue to give its assistance to "the great purpose of education."

Pending before Congress is a wise and feasible proposal to give to the several States that powerful assistance in their educational work that only Federal leadership can supply.

This is the proposal to establish a Department of Education, place at its head a Secretary of Education, and make him a member of the President's Cabinet.

All existing Federal agencies having to do with education would be consolidated in the new Department of Education. It would conduct research in education for the benefit of the several States. Assisting it would be a National Council of Education made up of the chief school officers of the States and Territories.

In these days of alleged enlightenment five million children are growing up to be illiterates. And illiteracy today is one of the deadliest foes of the household of the nation.

Only a Department of Education, headed by a Secretary of Education, with a seat in the President's Cabinet, can wage efficient war against the national menace and national disgrace of illiteracy.

That is why the pending education bill has been indorsed by the chief school officers of nearly every State in the Union and by educational associations too numerous to mention.

The administration under which education is given an equality with agriculture, commerce and labor in the Cabinet of the President is assured a high place in history.

HERE IS A GREAT AND GOOD CAUSE, QUICKENED BY THE SPIRIT OF THE PEOPLE, STRONGLY SUPPORTED BY PUBLIC SENTIMENT. ALL THAT IS NEEDED TO FIGHT IT THROUGH TO VICTORY IS THE KIND OF A LEADER THE PEOPLE SUPPOSED HOOVER TO BE.

Planetesimal Theory

By ARCHIBALD HENDERSON

TWENTY-EIGHT years ago the great American geologist, Thomas Chrowder Chamberlin, gave the first anticipation of the planetesimal hypothesis.

This appeared in his paper, "The Origin Function of Disruptive Approach," which constituted an important contribution to cosmogony. In 1905 was put forth a well-ordered account of the planetesimal hypothesis in the second volume of Chamberlin and Salisbury's "Geology."

In this same year and the following year, Forest Ray Moulton gave a reasoned and clear account of the new hypothesis, considering it from the angle of dynamics and discussing unsuccessful attempt of British astronomers, in particular Jeans, to appropriate the new theory under another name, the tidal theory, is doomed to failure by the facts of the dates and published contributions of the American scientists.

Even the distinguished British astronomer, Eddington, has fallen into a grave error in attributing to Jeans the theory that a configuration resembling the solar system would be formed by the close approach of another star casually pursuing its way through space. Jeans was anticipated by Chamberlin and Moulton by fully a dozen years!

And what is this remarkable new theory put forward by the two American scientists and favorably taken up by many astronomers during the past decade?

It is much more difficult theory to understand than the essentially simple theory of Laplace. But the purpose of science is not necessarily to put forward the simplest theory but that theory which best explains all the facts. The planetesimal hypothesis cannot be put forward in a simple formula, but it explains phenomena which cannot be explained under the nebular hypothesis of Laplace.

Let us suppose, for example, that some twenty billion years ago a large, hot, highly active, gaseous mass comes approach the sun.

Let us imagine that, in consequence, great tides were raised upon the sun. This sun was then a fiery body, intermittently throwing off great streams of matter to great distances as a half a million miles. Some of this matter, which did not fall back upon the sun, escaped from its control altogether. After the visiting star had passed on its way, there existed in a space a large quantity of matter which had been torn from the sun. This matter of necessity moved about the sun in orbits that were in general highly eccentric, but the motion was always forward.

These planets grew up around nuclei by the accretion of countless little planets called "planetesimals," born at the same times. In accordance with the well known principles set forth in any work in celestial mechanics, the orbits of these planets became fat and round.

According to this hypothesis, the eruption from the sun which produced the planetary nuclei also produced one or more smaller nuclei traveling at about the same speed. "If at the time of ejection," says MacMillan, "such a system of nuclei were moving like a rigid system in rotation, then if they were not too far apart they would continue to move as a dynamical unit and the smaller model would move about the planetary nucleus as a system of satellites."

The theory of Chamberlin and Moulton, aside from priority over the theory of Jeans, is superior to it in many ways. The arguments in favor of the former theory, while qualitative rather than quantitative, are very appealing and persuasive. The mathematical difficulties in the way of the tidal theory of Jeans are almost, if not quite, insuperable.

The planetsimal theory is "broad and elastic"; and the arguments in its favor naturally appeal to one who loves nature rather than one who merely loves mathematics."

It is important to observe that, under the planetesimal hypothesis, the growth and evolution of the planets could not have proceeded along the lines consonant with Laplace's theory. The intervals of time for the events contemplated by the planetesimal hypothesis are of an entirely different order from that provided for by the Laplacian theory. Instead of tens of millions, thousands of millions of years are required.

According to Helmholtz's contraction theory of the sun's heat, which has now been rejected, Lord Kelvin provided a lifetime for the sun of about twenty-five million years. Even Jeans now admits that the ages we must attribute to our sun and the other stars are many hundreds of times longer than he until quite recently, thought at all possible.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS

DO not know whence comes this faith in the better days to be, which is as though a kind voice speaks sweet words to comfort me. Its roots go down so far, so deep into the heart of things. How am I sure that after dark will come the bluebirds' wings? I only know that Good supreme must rule and, soon or late, the love, the light, the joy will come for which, today, I wait. This faith is like a great pine tree whose roots my soul must house, while all the winds of living sing among its lofty boughs.

The BAER Facts

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

CARNEGIE FOUNDATION might continue its illustrious investigation of collegiate feetsball and find out what the players do in a huddle.

So far as we can understand about the nefariomous nutriment of terrace massacres, the huddle corresponds to the minute rest between rounds.

The good Professor Dumbis of Yale gazed upon his first educational huddle during the game between Dartmouth and Harvard. He breath, upon his granulated bifocals and screamed:

"Why, that huddle's bigger than my class in history."

This year's Princeton team tulises the huddle for comfort and support. The players lean on each other instead of leaning on the enemy.

Professor Dumbis thinks that huddled players do not have their minds on the game. He fears that one of the players might possess loaded dice.

He advises young players about to huddle to take a football with them.

The Carnegie Foundation failed to state the exact moment when huddling becomes necking.

Collegiate football games are 60 minutes in duration, of which time about 40 are spent in stubborn fillbusters. There cannot be anything important mumbled in these varsity caucuses, because we never saw a stenographer taking down notes.

The boys just put their 11 heads together while the referee practices the oversize from William Tell on his whistle. Then the huddle opens up like a cabbage bursting into bloom.

The athletes stroll into position, the football is snapped and the boys are thrown for another huddle.

We paid $10 to see Navy and Pennsylvania play two separate games or ring-around-the-rosy.

Each team was an earnest young clinic which spend most of its time in a circular squad apparently engrossed in an operation on a guinea pig.

The oldtime pictures of college football teams showed 11 husky dockwallopers gazing with scorn upon the photographer.

The 1919 daguerreotypes of transcampus athletes show 11 shrinking youths hiding their faces in a deepdish huddle.

If we could conjure about 200 pounds of Conan Doyle's ectoplasm from the past we would like to see it take the shape of Tom Shevlin, Andy Smith or Johnny Poe and watch anyone of those old-timers rip through a huddle like a weasel through a chicken farm.

H. G. Wells Writes on

"The Science of Life"

In Collaboration With

Prof. Julian Huxley and Geo. P. Wells

PROTEINS, like fats or carbohydrates, can be burnt as fuel, and a large proportion of the proteins we eat are used up in this way. But they have another and more essential role, one which they alone can perform. For the actual fabric of the living cell is built largely of proteins. Not only can they be burnt by our engines; they are the steel of which these engines are made. Herein lies the importance of proteins in our diet; any of the three kinds of foodstuffs will serve as an energy-source, but protein is the only one that can be used for body building—for growth and for keeping the tissue-machines in repair.

H. G. Wells

There is just one other chemical term we shall have to use here—amino-acid. Because these amino-acids (there are a number of them) lie at the base of protein structure.

An animo-acid molecule is simple compared with a protein, complex compared with water. It contains from 10 to 20 atoms of carbon, hydrogen, oxygen, nitrogen and sulphur, which may be put together in various ways. The number of different arrangements—in other words, of different animo-acids—that have been found in living tissue is small; there are about 18 or 20.

Now these animo-acid molecules can combine together, and it is possible for great numbers of them to unite to form a single giant molecule. It is these giant molecules which are the proteins.

There are only twenty different animo-acids, but countless numbers of proteins. That is because there is an infinity of ways in which the animo-acids can be built together.

As a further complication, a few proteins include factors that are not really animo-acids at all; thus haemoglobin contains iron and the nuclear proteins contain phosphorus.

The body-cells require proteins, but they require particular ones. The proteins in our food are different from those in our flesh; it is not possible, for example, that the proteins of a cabbage-leaf could play any part in the activity of a muscle-cell; its animo-acids are fitted together in the wrong way. There is indeed no way of eating the correct kind of protein except cannibalism and even then there exists no way of getting it direct to the blood without unmaking and making it again.

It is necessary thus to convert a great variety of different food-proteins into flesh-pro eins.

The method adopted is as follows: We eat proteins of all kinds; we break them up in our stomachs into their twenty animo-acids; we absorb the animo-acids into our blood and thus distribute them to our tissues; finally, the cells take up these animo-acids and fit them together to make up the particular proteins that they require.

The work that is done upon the carbohydrates and fats is quite parallel to what is done upon proteins. The most familiar simple carbohydrate is glucose, the chief sugar of many fruits, and especially of grapes and the sweetening constituent of common jams and sweets.

This is the form of carbohydrate which circulates in the blood, and all other carbohydrates—the starch in potatoes for example, or table sugar—which are more complex in their composition must be broken down to glucose before they enter our real interiors. Similarly the fats are broken down to their simpler factors, glycerine and fatty acids.

Assisted by bacteria in his intestins, the mouse can also turn cellulose, the main substance of ordinary vegetable tissue, into glucose, but in that it has the advantage of man.

In digestion all the three important classes of organic foods —proteins, carboyhydrates, and fats—are thus treated according to the same general plan; the molecules are broken up into simpler constituents ones, absorbed as such into the blood, and then rebuilt by the tissue cells into other arrangements which suit their individual needs. Water and the mineral salts, and we require are not dissected in this way; their molecules are already as simple as need be, and no adjustment is necessary.

In addition to taking the food apart into units for protoplasmic reconstruction, digestion also serves to get the food from the open passage of the gut into the real interior of the body. In soluble food like starch must be turned into soluble compounds to do this; and when molecules are large like those of proteins they must be broken up into smaller ones.

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

"I'VE just heard of the most marvelous fortune-teller!" chirped Mrs. Divot. "Let's run in on her and find out what our better-halves are REALLY doing these bright afternoons."

"Not I!" declared Mrs. Green flatly. "I'm off fortune-tellers for life! Good or bad, they are the world's best trouble-makers. They start you hoping or suspecting, thinking up things or tracking down scents, and generally upset the whole schema of your life!

"When a woman gets tired of waiting for things to happen in her life, she goes to a fortune-teller and has her stir things up. Then, if they DON'T happen, she'll MAKE them happen.

"If she's single, and the fortune-teller predicts that she's going to marry a blond man, right-away quick, she is likely to fall for the first blond male who crosses her vision, and thus flush her covey. Or, if no eligible blond is in sight, she is just as likely as not to snatch some other woman's blond husband, just to prove that the seeress is right.

"Or if she's married and the clairvoyant whispers that there's a dark woman in her husband's life, she promptly begins sleuthing around his office and looking for brown hairs and sun-tan face-powder on his coat-lapel—and STARTS something!

"If she's bored with marriage, and the fortune-teller assures her that she will soon be a widow, and then her husband refuses to DIE within a reasonable time, she feels that he is cheating her, and makes him WISH he were dead.

"And, if she's contentedly married and the soothsayer declares that the stars say that she 'will marry again,' no matter how much she may love her current husband, she immediately begins to regard him as only a tide-over and a passing experience in her life.

"Subconsciously she starts looking for the new Big Romance that is on its way to her, and comforting herself with that 'this-won't-last-forever' feeling. And there's nothing so calculated to precipitate a crisis in marriage and throw you into the divorce court as the feeling of impermanence!"

"But, when a woman is feeling nervous and distrait or bored or depressed, she MUST consult SOMEbody," insisted Mrs. Divot. "There are times and moments, when the engine seems to go dead, in every woman's life and everything comes to a full stop."

"Then consult a nerve specialist!" said Mrs. Green emphatically. "The worst he can do to you is to give you a few electric shocks or predict that you'll die if you don't stick to his diet. And he won't fill you with hallucinations and inspire you to make a fool of yourself!"

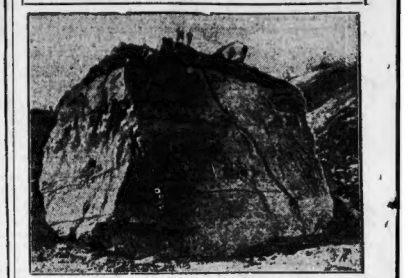
A REAL Earthquake

They Had It in New Zealand

(Copyright, 1929)



THIS ROCK WAS FLUNG 150 YARDS

WHEN Nature really breaks loose strange things happen. In New Zealand recently they had a REAL earthquake, such as this country has never seen, and, let us hope, never will see.

The gigantic rock above, its size made clear by the human beings standing on it, was hurled through space and flung 150 yards by the earthquake's power, thrown the length of more than two ordinary city blocks.

It landed on a New Zealand homestead, utterly wiping out the house. Several dead lie under this rock, which becomes their tombstone.

The earthquake reduced the level of lakes. In one place hurling enormous rocks into a big river, it turned the river aside permanently from its regular course.

While admiring Nature's marvelous powers, let us hope she will be kind enough not to demonstrate them here among us in the New Zealand fashion.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. M'INTYRE

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—That hauntingly picturesque slice of lower Fifth avenue running half a dozen blocks northward from Washington Arch, has tried desperately but hopelessly to retain the apricot gloom of its antiquity. Nearly all the brown stone charm has been effaced by ornate apartments.

Its mellowness once suggested ruffled collars, four wheelers and spanking bays and the disintegration has been a blow to the diehards. The latest attack on architectural front is the red-bricked Mark Twain home at the 9th street corner of the avenue.

A bank recently leased the first two floors to convert them into one of those polished branches. The Washington Square Association, which tries to check the vanishing processes, rushed into court to battle for its preservation.

No matter who wins the unraveling of legal entanglements will require two years, so the home will remain intact for that period. The house stands with the same furnishings just as it did in the days when Twain spent final days writing in bed and puffing fierce black cigars.

The author loved the place, next to his old Hartford home, best of all. It was where he spent charming interludes chatting with close friends and playing the game of billiards he enjoyed so much. The only indication it is the old home is the brass plaque on the side street wall.

This plaque bears the images of Washington Irving and Mark Twain. Irving spent pleasant days there at intervals and it is reputed one of the rooms was set aside solely for his use. The structure is now the property of an old New York family.

Directly across from the Twain home is another landmark, a melancholy reminder of the suave social graces of other days. This is the Hotel Berkeley, whose claim in the hubburb suggest a daguerreotype at a modern art exhibit. In the quick rushing progress it clings passionately but with an aristocratic aura to the past.

New York's only Chinese undertaker is said to be one of the most famous wits among his transplanted countrymen. The Chinese always do things backwards and a wise cracking funeral director upholds the tradition.

Waffle parlor window card: "Waffles like you used to eat at home." One of these days some daring soul is going to rise up and scotch the myth of home cooking. Thousands —or to be cagey, say, hundreds—all over the land never began to eat good food until they left home.

Up in the Bronx an auto greasing rack is called a Lubriatorium. And on 23d street there is a Necktie Sanitarium. Adding quaintly: "We sanitize ties."

Few sections of New York show the building progress of the upper Bronx in the past few years. Acres, once tangled weeds and ash heaps, are now sprightly with business sections. Streets literally bloom over night. So big and varied are New York interests that not many below 125th street know of the amazing building operations northward.

On the other hand, one of the most lugubrious sections in town is that circling Woodlawn cemetery in the Bronx, with its mournful array of monument works, funeral florists and glum groups of grave diggers.

Among monument inscriptions was this epitaph: "To Die is Merely to Live in a Happier Land."

From a newspaper ad: "This film is a fantasy stirring romantic depths. Frail moonbeams weave a spell of passion. Eyes grow starry and voices sink in breathless whisper. It is not a picture, but a rhapsody."

A Rhapsody in Goo, as it were.
